INFLUX OF ALIENS LEADS TO BOYCOTT

Complaint as to Treatment of Immigrants Causes Austria to Put Mississippi on Black List.

PROBLEM FOR UNCLE SAM

Peonage and Burdensome Contracts Injure Plans for Development of Southern States.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Just at the present time the state department is wrestling with an immigration question which is infinitely more important to this country than the little difference with Japan about school facilities in San Francisco. It involves the treatment of European immigrants who go to the southern states.

A serious effort has been made by officials of the southern commonwealths to turn the tide of European immigration in that direction. For a time there was marked success. Then there was delay and difficulty owing to some extraordinary constructions of the immigration laws by Attorney General Bonaparte. Now the commissioner of immigration and his associates are confronted by a new feature which bids fair to put an end to the entire movement of immigrants from Europe to southern states.

Warned Against Mississippi.

Reports have come from many widely separated localities regarding the persistent ill treatment in one way or another of these immigrants. The storm center is Mississippi, which under the unique rule of Gov. Vardaman has invited federal prosecution for peonage and at the same time has stirred up two or three European governments so that this state already has been put under the ban by official proclamation in one instance, and other European nations from which immigration is heaviest to the United States are prepared to follow suit.

If the only result was to turn Europeans away from Mississippi, no particular harm would be done, but reports received here show that this state has given the whole south a black eye, from which it may never recover.

Formal representations have been made to the state department on behalf of the government of Austria-Hungary explaining that it had been found necessary to send official notices throughout the empire and kingdom notifying intending immigrants that the state of Mississippi had treated subjects of the emperor so badly that he felt constrained to advise them to seek other fields of labor within the United States. The Austro-Hungarian government has officially boycotted the state of Mississippi. It has done this only after repeated protests regarding the treatment of its people there.

Immigration Movement Large.

There has been of late an enormous movement to the United States from the southeastern provinces of Europe. Many prosperous Hungarians and Austrians have come to this country. The movement became so large at one time that the bureau of immigration sent an officer to Budapest and Triest to investigate conditions there.

Within the last two years or so agents from various immigration boards of the southern states have penetrated into the Hungarian provinces and have traversed Italy from one end to the other. They have not sought nor encouraged new immigration, but endeavored instead to divert the stream already setting toward the United States from the cities of the north Atlantic seaboard to the agricultural and manufacturing sections of the south. These agents met with a great deal of success. They painted conditions in the south in the rosiest of colors, and as they were generally prepared to advance passage money a decided stream of foreigners soon set in toward the sunny south.

Complaints as to Treatment.

Hardly had they landed before complaints began to come in regarding their treatment. The governments of Austria-Hungary and Italy soon began to hear from those who were left at home. These relatives received letters from the pioneers in the south and in almost every case statements made were of a most unfavorable character. At first the complaint was that foreigners were not treated fairly. Neither Hungarians nor Italians expected much in the way of social recognition, but the landed proprietors persisted in treating them exactly as they treated negroes.

Little attention was paid to these early complaints because it was felt that first comers to any country always find it difficult to adjust themselves to their new surroundings. The Austro-Hungarian and Italian governments, therefore, laid the complaints aside in the belief that they would soon die out.

Instead of that complaints from new settlers in the south have steadily grown in volume and in gravity. First of all, Europeans claimed the southern immigration commissioners had evidently exceeded their authority. That is to say, they made promises which the state authorities could not and would not redeem. In the second place, immigrants complained that planters and land owners took advantage of their ignorance of the English language and persuaded them to sign contracts which made it practically impossible for them to prosper even in the remotest degree.

Charges of Peonage.

Last of all came charges of downright peonage, which resulted in a number of indictments being found in the federal courts. The situation in Mississippi was particularly objectionable, and, as the federal government did not seem able to deal successfully with Gov. Vardaman, the Austrian government took the matter into its own hands and officially warned its citizens against going to that state, the inference being that if they did it was on their own responsibility, the home government assuming no charge for their protection.

Up to the present time the Italian government seems to have contented itself with a series of protests and representations to the state department. Many Europeans in Mississippi are Italians, and the peonage indictments are quite largely based on the illegal detention of people of that race. It is only natural to suppose that the Italian government will feel obliged to warn its citizens that if they go to Mississippi they do so at their peril and cannot claim protection as Italian citizens.

BIG CROWD IN CITY GREETS WESTON.

Seasoned Roadster Arrives at Chicago Beach Hotel at 3:05 This Morning.

NEW RECORD CLINCHED.

Scenes at All the Towns and Villages Along the Final Jaunt Are Picturesque.

Edward Payson Weston, the seasoned roadster, arrived at the Chicago Beach hotel, Fifty-first street and the lake shore, at 3:05 o'clock this morning, amidst the shouting of hundreds of followers, afoot and in automobiles.

His arrival at the hotel, even at the dead hour of nigfht, made a gala scene in which many of the guests were participants. The close of this, the next to the last lap, in his 1,250 mile walk from Portland, Me., assured a victory for the 69 year old pedestrian over his own record of forty years ago. He beats that sensational record by nearly twenty-four hours.

2,000 Follow Him to Hotel.

Mr. Weston crossed the state line into South Chicago at 1:05 o'clock. From there on to the Chicago Beach his journey was a triumphal movement. By the time he had reached Fifty-first street nearly 2,000 persons were with him, many having trudged in from the steel mill district.

The plan is for Weston to repose at the hotel until 8 o'clock when he will walk down town.

That final spurt of six miles will bring him to the postoffice and the New Illinois Athletic clubhouse at 10 or 11 a. m. There he will be the honored guest at a reception at noon and will be asked to make a speech if he is not too thoroughly out of breath.

Gets a Cordial Greeting.

The arrival of the veteran pedestrian in this vicinity was the occasion of much and noisy demonstration. It may be stated that he reached the real Chicago zone when he was met at Jackson, three miles east of Highlands, shortly after 8 o'clock last night by Dr. J. L. von Valkenburg, Capt. Shirley High, and Stewart Spaulding, representatives of the Illinois Athletic club, and Peter J. Lyons, city engineer of Hammond.

The old man was weary and desired to save his strength for walking. So he had little to say about the welcome they accorded him.

When the Chicago men informed him that "the club hoped to greet him by 10 o'clock Wednesday downtown, give him a reception, and hear a little talk from him by noon," he dryly said:

"All right."

Compelled to Rest at Hammond.

Mayor Lawrence Becker received Weston in Hammond, and Chief of Police Fred Reinbach and Capt. August Bunde commanded the large escort of metropolitan police required to hold the crowd in check.

The hero of the hour was taken to the Majestic hotel, in Hammond, where he submitted unwillingly to injunctions that he rest a bit. He occupied most of the time there in eating a good evening meal of porterhouse steak, hashed brown potatoes, and stewed tomatoes.

It was 10:15 p. m. when, in the face of a large concourse of people, he departed from Hammond, and after a comparatively uneventful jog of one and three-quarter hours he reached the Indiana village of Forsyth. That was midnight, and here his companions tried to induce him to remain over night. George W. Wilcox and J. W. Breyfogle, his volunteer and faithful companions, who in their automobile have followed him and lighted his way and cared for him ever since he left Rochester, N. Y., advised this course, but the old walker scorned the suggestion.

"I will reach the Chicago Beach hotel before daylight or break my legs in the effort," he said. "I must hurry on to Chicago to beat my record," he added; "it is a duty I owe to the people of that city."

Policemen Keep Crowds Back.

Three thousand people were present at the border of South Chicago to greet him just after 1 a. m. Capt. Charles Dorman of the South Chicago police station, commanding twenty-five policemen, kept the crowd from interfering with the walker's feet. A solid line of patrolmen marched twenty-five feet ahead of him, brushing the good natured spectators out of the roadway. At the outer ends of this bluecoat line two ropes were held which extended back to the automobile. These ropes formed the sides of a hollow square 6 by 25 feet in size in which the aged man walked.

The big crowd was joyful. "Marching Through Georgia" was sung throughout the way in South Chicago. The old man plodded on, seemingly unmindful of the attention he was receiving, or, more properly, rather scornful of it as putting further difficulties and distractions in the way of an already difficult task.

Anger Roused by a Farmer.

The day's real start was at 11:15 o'clock a. m. from Chesterton, where the old man had previously spent five hours in bed with his clothes on.

The high school boys and girls of Chesterton started him on his way with "rah, rahs," but his spirits were not especially stirred until he reached Hobart, fourteen miles nearer Chicago, where William Crafts, farmer, went at him with "Your party killed two of my hogs, and you will have to settle."

Weston showed his anger immediately. It was an automobile in the sealed bonnet test that did the damage, but the farmer thought it was one of the Weston party.

It was at Hobart that he had a noon meal, consisting of vegetable soup, Hamburger steak, creamed potatoes, and corn. He ate oatmeal and buttered toast for breakfast in Chesterton.

Plans for Today.

Weston is expected to leave the Chicago Beach hotel promptly at 8 o'clock this morn-

LOOK OUT FOR A FLOOD OF CURRENCY BILLS WHEN CONGRESS CONVENES.

NEW POST FOR S. M. FELTON

He Quits the Alton for Presidency of Mexican Central.

ROAD IN HARRIMAN HANDS.

T. P. Shonts May Take Vacancy, with George Ross Active Head.

Samuel M. Felton resigned yesterday as president and director of the Chicago and Alton and was elected president of the Mexican Central. This paves the way for the amalgamation of the Alton, Iowa Central, and the Clover Leaf systems, which are owned by the same interests. It also indicates clearly that E. H. Harriman has become the dominating factor in the Mexican Central.

The action took place in New York, and was announced late in the afternoon. Mr. Felton left for the east last Saturday, having just returned from a two weeks' trip over the Mexican Central lines. The resignation was handed to Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Clover Leaf and chairman of the board of directors of the Alton. While no formal announcement has been made in Chicago, it is announced that Mr. Shonts will become president of the Alton and that George H. Ross, vice president in charge of traffic and personal representative of Mr. Shonts in Clover Leaf affairs, will have his jurisdiction extended over the combined system. Mr. Shonts will continue to reside in New York and retain his position with the Inter-Met company.

Retirement from Alton Expected.

The resignation of Mr. Felton did not come as a surprise. He owed his position on the Alton in part to his friendship with Mr. Harriman and when the latter lost control of the road through the Shonts-Hawley interests buying the stock owned by the Rock Island it was a foregone conclusion that a radical change in the management would occur. The annual election was held early in October and at the meeting of the directors in New York the day following Mr. Felton was reelected to the position he had held for the last seven years. It was intimated at the time that the Clover Leaf people were not in a position to announce their plans.

The election of Mr. Felton to the presidency of the Mexican Central is of far greater general importance than his resignation from the Alton. The Southern Pacific, one of the great Harriman lines, connects with the Mexican Central at El Paso, Tex., and it is evident that Mr. Harriman is not satisfied with the close traffic arrangement said to exist between the two. Then, too, Mr. Felton has gained an enviable record as an executive with constructive ability, for which there is great need on the Mexican road.

Succeeds Eben Richards.

In his new position Mr. Felton succeeds Eben Richards, who is also general counsel for the Mexican Central. Mr. Richards has held the position since the resignation of A. A. Robinson two years ago. The chairman of the board of directors is H. Clay Pierce, an ally of Standard Oil interests.

After the meeting in New York it was announced that negotiations for a consolidation of the Mexican Central with other Mexican railways would be resumed soon.

The mileage of the Mexican Central is 3,156, while the Alton has but 970 miles of main line track. Mr. Felton's salary as president of the Alton has been $25,000, and it is understood this is to be doubled in his new position. While the general offices are in the City of Mexico, the president usually spends much of his time in New York.

Probably Will Take Charge Soon.

No announcement has been made as to when Mr. Felton will assume charge of the Mexican road, but it is expected he will do so early next month. He has taken an active part in Chicago affairs since coming here in September, 1899, and besides has many private interests demanding attention, being a director in the Central Trust company, Chicago City railway, and Illinois Tunnel company. Mr. Felton is president of the Chicago Golf club and a member of the Chicago club, Chicago Athletic club, and South Shore Country club. He is married and has three children, the family home being at 528 Dearborn avenue. On his way east Mr. Felton stopped in Cincinnati to see his wife, who went there several weeks ago to undergo an operation from which she is now convalescent.

Mr. Felton was born at Philadelphia in February, 1853, and after graduation from the Boston Institute of Technology in 1868 began his apprenticeship in railroading as a rodman with a surveying corps. He rose rapidly, and while most of his service was in the south he held several executive positions on the Erie. He first gained public notice as a railroad man when he put the Queen and Crescent, now a part of the Southern Railway system, on its feet. Soon thereafter Mr. Harriman became interested in the Alton and Mr. Felton was elected president.

MAY DANCE IF A CHRISTIAN.

Safe, Says Lombard College President, for the Man or Woman Who Is Religious.

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—One may dance or play cards in safety if he is a Christian to begin with, says Dr. Fisher, president of Lombard college, in answer to the Rev. "Billy" Sunday.

Says Dr. Fisher:

"Men who have not the Christ spirit in them when they dance or play are in great peril. They have no balance. But when men dominated by the love of God and the love of man do these same things they do them without abuse and hence do no harm.

"For all of us the real question is not Shall I play cards, or dance, or go to the theater, or kick off a football? but Am I rightly mixing business and play as the normal, happy, busy, healthy human soul should?"

TRUE BILLS FOR BIG GAMBLERS.

State's Attorney Begins Drawing Them Up—More Witnesses to Testify Today.

The work of drawing up indictments against many of Chicago's big gamblers was begun by the grand jury under the direction of State's Attorney Healy yesterday. With the exception of Secretary Shelby M. Singleton of the Citizens' association, who testified as to policy operators, no witnesses on gambling were heard. There are, however, several more gambling witnesses, who will be examined today. The jurors will be given a rest Thanksgiving day and will return on Friday to draw up their report.

GLAD HAND BANKING NO MORE.

George E. Allen of New York Tells Clerks This Is One Result of Flurry.

"The era of glad hand banking is gone forever," said George E. Allen of New York before the Chicago Chapter of the American Institute of Bank Clerks in Booth hall last night.

"It is the feeling in the east that Chicago bankers covered themselves with glory in handling the recent flurry," he said.

"A good result of the flurry is that the glad hand banker—he of the glib tongue—has passed away forever."

CZAR IS SHORN OF A TITLE

Duma Rejects Word "Autocrat" as Not Befitting New Regime.

DEBATE PROVES STIRRING.

Result of Session Victory for Consitutional Democrats.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 26.—The duma tonight decreed that the title of autocrat, which has been borne by the emperors of Russia for centuries, is no longer tenable within the Russian state and is incompatible with the régime inaugurated by the manifesto issued by Emperor Nicholas on Oct. 30, 1905.

At the close of a great constitutional debate the Russian parliament by a vote of 112 to 246 rejected the word "autocrat" and then adopted a reply to the address from the throne unanimously amid scenes of intense excitement, prolonged cheers, and the singing of the national anthem.

Victory for Milukoff's Party.

The result of the session is regarded as a fine victory for the constitutional democrats under the leadership of Prof. Paul N. Milukoff, who forced the octobrists' hand. The final vote was taken after the demonstrative withdrawal of the extreme right social democrats, members of the group of toil and the Poles.

After a stirring debate, which lasted until almost midnight, M. Fievokko, the deputy from Moscow, summed up the arguments on either side, and urged the leaders of the octobrist party to draft as judicious a compromise as was possible. The house proceeded to vote on the amendments to the reply, taking up first the word "autocrat," following the rejection of which there was a dramatic scene. The members of the extreme right held a hurried conclave in a corner of the chamber, and Count Dhorrers declared that the monarchists could not participate in a vote on an address in which the emperor was shorn of his rightful prerokatives. Thereupon fifty of the extremists left the chamber.

Adhere to Octobrist Program.

Prof. Milukoff, on behalf of the constitutional democrats, expressed his willingness to accede to the omission of the specific word "constitution," the moderate members of the right following suit, adhering to the octobrist program. The duma then took up a series of minor amendments that had been proposed by M. Drowski of Warsaw, which related to the aspirations of the Poles and the other subordinate nationalities of the empire, and rejected all of these by an immense majority. Thereupon the Poles declared that they would refrain from voting.

An amendment submitted by the members of the group of toil, which passed censure on the emperor's coup d'état of June 16, also was rejected, and the representatives of this party, numbering three, withdrew. The socialists as a body were absent during debate. The remaining parties in the duma accepted the address unanimously.

The galleries were packed, and the official boxes were filled with high civil and military dignitaries, including Grand Duke Nicholas Michaelovich. The members of the senate and the council of empire attended in a body.

DIRECT VOTE ACT RESTS IN PEACE.

House Where Oglesby Bill Was Born Holds Midnight Session to Prepare It for Burial.

SENATE HEADS OFF QUIZ.

Adopts Conference Report by Vote Almost Unanimous; Deneen Men Balk Plan for Long Recess.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Flowers and crêpe are in order for the Oglesby direct primary bill. It is no more. Washington papers please copy.

At midnight tonight it was gathered to its fathers and now rests with two other primary acts which were the victims of collisions with the Supreme court.

It was in the lower house, which originated the measure, that it breathed its last. The esteemed senate adopted the conference committee report with the ease and grace of a child buying candy.

It may have been possible that the esteemed senate had a hunch as to what was coming in the house. Anyway the senators voted 41 for the Oglesby bill and only 4 against it.

In the home of its fathers the bill went to its finish. There may be primary legislation yet. There probably will be. The chances are that it will not be just this kind.

There were various reasons assigned in the house for not supporting the conference committee report. It received but a few over the constitutional vote necessary for the passage of a bill without an emergency clause and many less than the 102 needed to adopt a report with an emergency clause.

The vote was 83 to 34, and the speaker was instructed to appoint a new conference committee.

Will Fix Time for Action.

There still remains an important question which must be determined, and that is at what date efforts will be renewed to pass primary legislation. The house tonight passed a joint resolution for a recess until Jan. 14.

This was intended to give the canal investigating committee time in which to finish its inquiry and report, and also to allow the legislature to catch its breath and prepare a conservative primary bill.

As soon as it was passed it was taken over to the senate. There had been an announcement in the upper branch, made by Senator Berry, that no senate action would be attempted until 10:30 o'clock, by which time it was hoped that the result on the conference committee report in the house would be known.

Did Senate Vote for Recess?

Because of this announcement a number of the senators had gone from the senate chamber. They, returning a little before the time set for reconvening, were surprised to find some of the senators in session, with Humphrey in the chair and the joint resolution for a recess adopted.

The Deneen men raised an outcry, asserting that the "session" was "fraudulent."

Senator Jones demanded of Secretary Paddock to know if he was recording the action just taken in the journal, and Mr. Paddock said he was.

"Do you know that no quorum was present?" Jones asked.

"I never inquired," Paddock replied.

Jones and other Deneen men promised that a serious "rumpus" would follow any attempt to make the journal show that the recess resolution had been passed.

Deneen Men See Plot.

At that point the warring senators were told that the little meeting was a joke, but they will not know until tomorrow whether it was or not. Then the journal will show.

When the senate had convened in "full" session another attempt was made to pass the joint resolution and the Deneen senators defeated it.

They are convinced that the recess until next year is intended to injure Deneen's chances of renomination and propose to fight for a reconvening of the legislature before the holidays.

The joint steering committees of the two houses agreed after the session that the date of reconvening should be set for Jan. 21. The joint resolution will be amended to provide this and the senate organization expects to put it through in spite of the Deneen opposition.

Here Lies Direct Plan.

Speaker Shurtleff will appoint the second house conference committee tomorrow, it is expected.

If the senate follows suit immediately the two committees will get to work soon to draft another primary bill which is likely to be along the line of the old state law, with amendments to meet Supreme court objections which invalidated it.

It is the unanimous opinion of opponents of the Oglesby bill that it will never be seen again and that there is no reason now to fear the enactment of a law permitting the nomination of candidates by direct vote.

They expect that nothing but a convention bill will get before the assembly when it undertakes the subject again.

A hard campaign had been conducted against the bill in the house by Representatives Shanahan and Smejkal during the day, and they were fairly well assured of success before the house took up the conference committee report tonight.

No Joy Evident in House.

The house got the proposition at a night session, with the knowledge that 102 votes cast for the committee report would be final and decisive, and that 102 votes would give the state a direct plurality primary law.

With an acute sense of this unpleasant responsibility the representatives listened to the monotonous reading of the conference report.

The easy going senate had dispensed with the reading, but the painstaking house had to go through the motions of hearing the report in full.

As soon as this ceremony had been performed Representative Pattison arose with the painful duty of presenting to the house the democratic estimate of the measure as modified by senate amendments and conference agreements.

This estimate was the product of the democratic caucus which had been wrestling in grief and turmoil with the question of whether to support or not to support the modified bill.

In this protest, signed by Representatives Pattison and Daugherty, the two minority members of the conference committee, the democratic members said:

"We, the minority house members of the joint conference committee on house bill No. 895, in the senate, being unable to concur in the majority report, respectfully make this our final protest upon the matters at issue.

"Three times have we, the minority, members of this house, demanded unrestricted power in the people to express their choice for all officers, and three times have we been denied. We especially protest against substituting any power for that of the popular will in selecting any candidate for office.

"The Oglesby bill, by reason of the McGoorty amendment, provided that the people should determine the number of representatives in the general assembly to be nominated by each political party.

Call Amendment an Insult.

"By reason of the senate amendments, which are incorporated in the joint conference report, this right has been taken away from the people.

"By reason of the senate amendments, which our colleagues upon this committee have accepted, one of the best provisions of the Oglesby bill has been eliminated, that one which provides for the selection of presidential electors and delegates for the national convention by a direct vote.

"It is an insult to the people of the state of Illinois to tell them that they are not competent to directly select their delegates to the national convention of their party.

"It was fathered by a set of politicians who had already delivered the state of Illinois in the republican national convention, and who had to get the national delegates out of this bill in order that they might deliver the goods."

Oratory Floods Chamber.

With these preliminary proceedings, the floodgates of oratory were opened and likewise the dogs of war were loosed, and other things of unpleasant nature came to pass.

Representative Walter Lantz expended his breath in calling his associates "four flushers," who didn't want to pass a primary law, but who were too cowardly to vote against it.

Representative Daugherty, in explaining his vote, said unkind things about Representative Lantz, and Mr. Lantz sought an immediate opportunity to say unpleasant things about Mr. Daugherty.

There was a reference or two to "mules," with evident intent to give personal application to the term, and then the roll call rolled on.

Representative Fitch found it impossible to refrain from talking, and the rolling stopped long enough to permit him.

When he was satisfied the call was resumed. It had progressed far enough by this time to indicate that a two-thirds majority would not be secured.

The result of the roll call follows:

Senate Acts on Redrawn Bill.

The senate did not get into action on the conference committee report until after 6 o'clock in the evening. The conferees had met in the morning and the house members had made an agreement possible by withdrawing their objection to the elimination of national delegates and electors.

With this concession from them an agreement was reached quickly and a subcommittee given the task of getting the report into proper shape for submission to both houses.

It was the original plan that the lower house, which had asked for the conference and which is expected to report its action to the other branch, should act first, and arrangements were made for a meeting of the house at 3:30 in the afternoon and of the senate at 5 o'clock.

The house democrats went into a caucus before the house met and endeavored to agree on a plan of action regarding the modified measure. The length of time which they consumed in reaching their decision to submit a fiery protest against the modifications which had been made and then vote for the bill made it impossible for the house to get into action before the senate, and the conference report was submitted in the upper house first.

Changes Are Explained.

It was not taken up without objections. Senator Humphrey raised the point of order that the senate could not act until the report as to the house action had been received. He was overruled by Lieut. Gov. Sherman, who held that while the senate could not report its action to the house, there was nothing to interfere with the consideration of the report.

Senator Berry submitted it and he explained briefly what changes had been made in the bill as passed by the senate, naming the elimination of national delegates and electors, provisions for county, senatorial, congressional, and state conventions for other purposes than the nomination of candidates, the elimination of university trustees from the operation of the measure to keep from disfranchising women voters, the reduction of the number of precinct committeemen from two to one, and the change in the method of nominating candidates for the house of representatives.

Gardner Fights "New Matter."

Senator Gardner then endeavored to hold Mr. Sherman to a strict construction of the ruling he made when the conference committee was appointed, he then announcing that any report which attempted to cover matters not questions of dispute between the two houses would be ruled out by him.

Mr. Sherman, in ruling on the point of order, reviewed at length most of the changes which had been made where they were not matters of dispute between the two houses, and held that it had been necessary for the committee to take such action, and that no such amendment affected any material feature of the measure.

With this ruling there was nothing remaining to save the senate from a roll call, and the senators, with the hope in their hearts that the house might not be able to adopt the report so easily as they were about to do, went to the vote.

Only Four Senators Vote No.

Only four senators recorded themselves against the report. It was given a vote of 41 to 4, as follows:

STATE SENATE'S DAY OF REFORM.

Passes Navigability Bill and Law Requiring Treasurer to Turn Over Interest.

REACH LIMIT, HOWEVER.

Hyde Park Member Grieves His Colleagues by Calling Up Anti-Pass Measure.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Reform got started on a gallop today in the legislature and still is on the run without any clear vision of its finish. The esteemed senate surprised itself not only by passing the navigability bill, but by putting through, in addition to the primary conference committee report, the state deposit bill requiring state treasurers to return interest on state money to the state.

The only thing which the senate balked at was the proposition to revive the anti-pass bill. That was too much reform, and Senator Walter Clyde Jones, who is serving a Hyde Park community for the first time in the upper house, is a victim of harsh thoughts on the part of his associates, he having misread the psychological condition of his associates and mistakenly reached the conclusion that they were ready to deprive themselves of their railroad transportation.

Aside from this unfortunate mistake on the part of Senator Jones the day of reform was passed pleasantly and is wished many happy returns—but not soon.

Results of the day's activities in the shape of bills may be presented in tabloid form.

By the Senate.

House bill declaring Desplaines and Illinois rivers navigable streams and ordering state authorities to proceed by law to remove all obstructions from their course.

Senate bill requiring state treasurers to deposit state money in banks which they may select and to return interest on deposits to the state, provision being made that $5,000 shall be appropriated for payment on bond required of such officials.

By the House.

Senate bill allowing courts to suspend sentence and parole persons convicted of certain felonies or misdemeanors specified in bill.

Senate bill amending cities and villages act allowing city councils to impose a tax on vehicles and to determine width of tires.

House bill prohibiting the sale of narcotic drugs without a physician's prescription and increasing the penalty for illegal sale. Bill had been passed by the house and amended by the senate, in which amendments the house concurred tonight.

Senate bill providing for the continuance of the internal improvement commission.

Senator Jones Gets "In Bad."

About the last manifestation of the reform spirit aside from that indicated in the primary law action in the senate was afforded by Senator Jones' attempt to revive the anti-pass bill, which has been slumbering unmourned in the railroad committee. As a result of his efforts he is in a state of being which might be described as "being in bad." Mr. Jones was guilty of a serious breach of senate etiquette, and inasmuch as he is a young statesman his older associates are the more grieved and pained, but this will not mitigate his punishment. He got under the guard of the senate organization with a blind motion to have a bill, to which he referred merely by number, taken from the committee and advanced to second reading.

In this "hangover" session no calendars are printed and few legislators know measures by their numbers. The senate awoke with a start when it was too late to stop Mr. Jones by objecting to the matter which he was seeking to bring up. His design was to order the anti-pass bill taken away from Senator Barr's railroad committee.

To take a bill away from a committee is regarded as a form of legislative second story work and attempts to do so as porch climbing. There was an immediate call for the police.

Shocks Sense of Proprieties.

Mr. Barr showed that he considered himself injured by the lack of confidence which Mr. Jones' motion displayed and many senators indicated that their sense of the proprieties had been shocked. Mr. Jones expressed himself grieved that he should be considered in the light of an impolite person, but insisted, inasmuch as the legislature had voted to double its pay, it should proceed one more step in the direction of reform and prohibit the issuance of railroad passes to all and sundry within the state.

When the senate recovered in full from its surprise it disposed of Mr. Jones and his proposition by postponing consideration until "the next legislative day," having hopes that there would not be any.

This was the only real, serious obstacle which reform met in the course of the day in the senate. As soon as Gov. Deneen's message on deep waterways had been read the senate proceeded to pass the bill which he advocated and to pass it with an emergency clause which in the previous passage of the measure had been taken off.

This bill went through as if practically every one in the senate had been in favor of it from the beginning. The governor's message was given careful attention and then Senator Schmitt of Chicago moved that the senate recede from an amendment it had made to the bill in passing it without an emergency clause. After some parliamentary sparring as to the exact status of the measure the senate took a roll call on it and passed it by a vote of 42 to 2, Senators Barr and Gardner being the only ones to vote in the negative.

So far as legislative action is concerned, the deep waterway program now has been completed. So far as it is possible for the state to act outside of the courts in its effort to oust obstructions from the two rivers this action has been taken. It remains for the executive officers to undertake to regain possession of the streams by legal means.

The canal investigation still is to be continued and Representative Lantz has a resolution which instructs the canal commissioners to cancel the leases which they made with the Economy Light and Power company. The resolution may not be acted on, but the canal investigating committee undoubtedly will be given time to complete its inquiry.

The state deposit bill which the senate passed does not carry an emergency clause, and inasmuch as it has not been considered in the house at all it is a long ways from becoming a law. In fact, most of the senators who voted for it have no expectations of its being put through the house.

Senator Gardner's parole bill, which attempts to legalize the court methods practiced by some Chicago Municipal court judges in suspending sentence and paroling convicted persons pending good behavior, also may fail because of lack of time for its consideration in the house.

WANTS A MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

Mrs. Mary Bauer Says Woman Who Wedded Her Minor Son Obtained License by Fraud.

Mary Bauer asked the Circuit court yesterday to annul the marriage of her son, Frank Bauer, 19 years old, to Ellen I. Bauer, and to enjoin the Englewood branch of the Municipal court from further action in a suit brought by Ellen I. Bauer, charging Bauer with wife abandonment.

Circuit Judge Charles M. Walker refused to issue the order enjoining Municipal Judge Edwin K. Walker. Attorney B. L. Carmichael, who represents young Bauer, said young Mrs. Bauer will be served with a summons in the case when she reaches the Municipal court this morning to prosecute her abandonment suit.

Bauer charges that, although he was only 19 years old, the young woman procured a license after swearing that the intended husband was 25 years old. They were married last May.

DENEEN FIGHTS FOR CANAL

Sends Message to Assembly Urging Ouster of Economy Co.

HITS WATERWAY BOARD.

Overstepping of Powers Charged in the Lease to Griswold.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Ouster suits against the Economy Light and Power company to stop the construction of its dam at Dresden Heights, enactment of laws which shall certainly preserve the state's navigable streams for the people, are urged by Gov. Deneen in his special message sent to the legislature today.

The governor sharply criticises Attorney General Stead's opinion on the "Griswold lease." He says practically that if Mr. Stead's views are correct the development of the waterway may as well be abandoned for twenty years.

The canal commissioners come in for a sharp arraignment in the alleged overstepping of their authority, and also in "trading away for a ridiculously low sum rights worth millions." On this count alone the governor says the courts would set aside the Griswold lease.

Cites Old Law in Proof.

The message in part says:

"Article 4 of the ordinance for the government of the northwest territory, enacted July 13, 1787, by congress, under the articles of confederation, provide that 'the navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and St. Lawrence and the carrying places between them shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of the said territory as to the citizens of the United States, and those of any other states that may be admitted into the confederacy, without any tax, impost, or duty therefor.'

After citing decisions to support his contention that the act of 1787 still is in force, Gov. Deneen says:

"Now, as applied to the Desplaines river, has the state of Illinois repealed the provisions of article 4 of that ordinance?

"On the contrary, by the act of Feb. 23, 1839 (laws of 1839, page 208), the state declared the Desplaines river to be navigable and a public highway from the point of its junction with the Illinois and Michigan canal northward within the boundaries of this state.

"The act of 1839 was, furthermore, a declaration of the public policy of the state to maintain the navigability of the Desplaines river, and a notice to all subsequent takers of title to lands bordering upon that stream.

"The act of 1839 also was a legislative recognition of an existing state of facts, and is itself competent evidence of the existence of these facts. (Bow vs. Allentown, 34 N. H. 351).

Early Laws on Subject.

"By the act of March 3, 1845, the Illinois legislature authorized one Stephen Forbes, his heirs and assigns—

"'To construct, build, and continue a mill dam across the Desplaines river in Cook county. . . . Provided, that this act shall not operate to prevent the state from improving the said river by dams or from using the water of said river for the Illinois and Michigan canal at any time hereafter, or for any other purposes.'

"It is well settled that the courts will give to the acts of the legislature their intended practical operation as far as that is possible. (Bassett vs. U. S. 2 Knott & McCord, 448.)

"The various acts cited constitute the highest evidence of the legal navigability of the Desplaines river, and that it was the public policy of the state to maintain that status with a view to the future development and enlargement of its actual navigable uses."

Commissioners' Powers Limited.

The limit of powers of canal commissioners is dwelt on at length, and the various laws affecting the subject are enumerated in chronological order. The message then says:

"It will be seen from the act of 1843 that, as to the powers conferred upon the board of trustees, they were expressly made the same as those conferred upon the canal commissioners by the act of Jan. 9, 1836, and all acts supplementary and amendatory thereto. And the powers conferred upon the commissioners (among others the powers relating to the sale of lands) were defined in part by the act of Feb. 26, 1839, which provided as to sales of lands bordering upon streams meandered in the United States surveys of public lands, that such lands 'shall be considered as bounded by the lines of those surveys and not by the streams'; the title to the beds of streams no more passed under such sales by the trustees than under sales by the canal commissioners.

"The conclusion reached, therefore, is that under the deed made by the trustees in 1860 to Charles Toyer and subsequently transferred by him to the Economy Light and Power company title was conveyed to the meander line only, and that the title to the bed of the stream at that point remained in the state."

Griswold Lease Arraigned.

The "Griswold lease" is attacked as follows:

"In addition to this, however, there have been assigned to the Economy Light and Power company a certain agreement and lease secured by Harold S. Griswold from the canal commissioners on Sept. 2, 1904. These instruments taken together are deemed by the attorney general to constitute a lease for twenty years of the lands described in one of the instruments subject to the terms and agreements mentioned in the other. The consideration paid for this twenty years' lease was $2,700."

Here follow statistics showing that at a cost of $2,000,000 for the dam the Economy company will receive a maximum net annual income of $377,275 on its investment.

On this showing Gov. Deneen says the courts would set aside the lease. He cites the published statements of the Economy company to show that the commissioners were on notice when they signed the Griswold lease.

Urges Action by Assembly.

In conclusion Gov. Deneen says, in part:

"The propriety and advantage of laws declaring or recognizing the navigability of streams, as settling the policy of the state in reference thereto, clearly appears.

"The importance of the constitutional amendment submitted by your honorable body to the voters in November next, as assuring the coöperation of the federal government and the early completion of the deep waterway, cannot be overestimated.

"In order to secure approval of this amendment by the people it is essential that the water power developed through the expenditure of the $20,000,000 therein provided for should be owned and controlled by the state; so that the state may be recouped for its expenditures, and that a fund may be created for the further development and extension of an internal waterway system I deem that it is now time for the state to formulate and declare such a policy with reference to its water courses, that their development hereafter will not be unnecessarily complicated by questions of private ownership."

Stead Answers Governor's Rap.

Attorney General Stead issued a statement tonight in which he reviewed the differences between his navigability opinion and the governor's message. In part it said:

"So far as the governor's message relates to the passage of a navigability bill, there is nothing in it which conflicts with my opinion. I did not hold or intimate that the Desplaines river is not navigable.

"The governor is of the opinion that the lease and contract of Sept. 2, 1904, can be set aside for inadequacy of consideration. No facts were submitted to me on this question and my opinion, of course, could have had no reference to it.

"There is absolutely nothing in my opinion which will prevent or embarrass me in prosecuting any and all suits on behalf of the state necessary to settle the rights of the state in and over the Desplaines or any other river. If, for any reason, the governor or the general assembly prefers that someone else take charge of such proceedings, I will cheerfully appoint any attorney who may be suggested and will pay such special assistant out of my appropriation."

LAWMAKERS PASS WHEEL TAX BILL.

Measure Advocated by Mayor Busse Goes Through with Emergency Clause.

IT MAY HIT AUTOS HARD.

Council to Decide Sum to Be Raised for Street Repair and Apportion Levy.

The wheel tax bill advocated by Mayor Busse has been passed by the legislature. This was announced from Springfield last night and Mayor Busse was much pleased. The measure was adopted with an emergency clause and will become a law as soon as Gov. Deneen signs it. This is expected to be at once. The bill also gives the city authority to pass a "wide tire" ordinance, an authority claimed before but about which now there can be no doubt.

The mayor has been advocating the wheel tax measure ever since he has been in office as the best means of preserving the pavements in Chicago. It authorizes the council to put a tax on all vehicles using the streets, the money to be spent only for street repair work. The idea is thus to raise enough money to keep a pavement in good condition, once it is laid. The amount that will be thus available is not exactly determined, but the best estimates are $750,000 a year.

As soon as the bill becomes a law the mayor will send to the council a message calling attention to the action of the legislature and advising the passage of the ordinance necessary to make it effective. With the message will go an ordinance setting forth the mayor's ideas in the matter. There is no dispute in the council about the passage of the ordinance; the only question likely to cause trouble is how the tax should be apportioned among different classes of vehicles.

Talk of High Tax on Autos.

If the average alderman has his way, and he thinks he will, the owners of automobiles will find these machines a more expensive luxury. The tax on them is likely to lead the list so far as the annual charge for the right to use the streets is concerned. The argument made is that they not only wear out the pavements faster than ordinary wagons, but are a luxury anyhow, and the users should pay for them.

"I had a letter today from an acquaintance of mine who advocated taxing automobiles $100 a year," remarked the mayor. "He asserted it was impossible for any ordinary buggy to use a boulevard any more on account of the wear and tear of the automobiles and their presence in the streets. There is no doubt but that the machines are wearing on the streets, but it is possible he is a trifle prejudiced against the automobiles.

Council to Decide Details.

"The amount of money to be raised by this tax and how it shall be divided up is a matter for the council and will have to be thrashed out there. Naturally there will be a difference of opinion among the aldermen as to the proper distribution of the levy. But that the council will impose a wheel tax so that the persons who wear out the pavements will have to keep them in repair I do not think there is any doubt.

"The tax will not only relieve property owners of a burden they should not bear, but will encourage those whose property is not now improved to pave their streets, being assured that after they have done this they will not afterwards be charged for repair work."

It can be stated in a general way that the mayor's recommendation to the council will be on the line of taxing different classes of vehicles according as they damage pavements. It would be manifestly unjust to tax a buggy as much as a four horse truck or a private carriage the same as an automobile. This schedule it will take time and investigation to work out.

Law Gives Power to All Cities.

The bill passed by the legislature is an amendment to the cities and villages act, and provides that any city which wants to can impose a wheel tax. The only opposition to it at Springfield was from some members from small towns who were afraid it might be adopted in their own communities. Lee O'Neill Browne of Ottawa voiced this feeling when he said that while he did not like to give such authority to city councils generally, still he was willing to take chances at home in order to give Chicago the authority it wanted.

Representatives David Shanahan of the republican side and John P. McGoorty of the democratic joined hands in the house to get the bill through with the emergency clause, and finally succeeded, the vote being 104 to 13. It already had passed the senate.

WOMAN AND SON ON TRACK; NEWSBOY WARNS ENGINEER.

Prompt Action of James Hannafin at Bryn Mawr Station Probably Saves Lives of Mrs. Ellen and James Miller.

The lives of a woman and her young son, who were in the path of an Illinois Central train at its Bryn Mawr station early last evening, probably were saved by the action of a 15 year old newsboy, James Hannifin, 216 Seventy-ninth place.

Mrs. Ellen Miller, a widow living at 7554 Euclid avenue, was walking along the platform of the suburban station when she made a misstep and fell to the tracks. Her son, James, 15 years old, jumped to her side and was attempting to life her when a train neared the station. Young Hannifin ran to meet it, and, leaping to the side of the engine cab, called:

"Stop! There's a woman on the track!"

The engineer brought his engine to a stop and admitted that had it not been for the action of the newsboy both the woman and her son might have been killed.

During the rush hours in the evening while the street cars were crowded Mrs. Anna O'Hara, 5607 South Halsted street, was pushed by the crowd from the platform of a Halsted street car between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets. She was taken to the Englewood Union hospital. She will recover.

George Short, a mechanic of Chicago Heights, was killed by a passenger train of the Eastern Illinois railroad in Chicago Heights while crossing the tracks.

NOTES IN STENSLAND'S BANK DECLARED TO BE FORGERIES.

Nineteen Promises to Pay Sums Aggregating More than $100,000 Found Spurious by Judge McSurely.

Nineteen notes which came into the possession of John C. Fetzer as receiver of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank were declared forgeries by Judge McSurely yesterday and the suits against the alleged makers of them were dismissed. They amount to over $100,000.

Paul O. Stensland and Henry W. Hering were brought from the state prison to appear as witnesses. They said the notes were not genuine, but that the signatures were much like true signatures.

CANAL POWER IS TURNED ON

Electric Current of 44,000 Volts Started Over Great Cables.

PLANT A COMPLETE SUCCESS.

Ultimate Revenue of $500,000 a Year for Sanitary District.

President R. R. McCormick of the sanitary district went to Lockport yesterday afternoon, closed a switch at the Lockport power house, and set in motion the 44,000 volt electric current which the drainage board is to deliver at various points in Chicago and the suburbs.

"Everything was perfectly satisfactory," said Mr. McCormick, after he had returned to the city. "It was just a matter of throwing the switch. The instant I did that the indicator showed that the full current was passing through the cables and that there was no hitch anywhere.

"The only thing now is to keep people away from the cables. If any one gets within six inches of one of them it will kill him. I hardly think it's likely, though, that any one will want to climb the poles."

Each Bit of Machinery Tested.

President McCormick was accompanied to Lockport only by Electrical Engineer Edward B. Ellicott, who had been in charge of the extensive test through which the plant was put before the tremendous current was allowed to pass to Chicago. Under his direction each bit of machinery was made to perform its individual function again and again, and as a result of the test only one bearing was found to be faulty—a matter that was remedied in an hour.

The power, which has been created through a $4,000,000 investment on the part of the Sanitary district, will be delivered by means of aluminium cables to Chicago, the town of Cicero, the west park board, and the village of Morgan Park. These four contracts, however, will use only 10,000 units of the 31,000 horse power to be developed ultimately at the power house. The total horse power to be developed for the present is 16,700. With the plant taxed to its full capacity of 31,000 horse power an annual income to the board of $500,000 will be assured.

Finest Cable in the World.

The machinery at the power house has been in readiness for its big task for three weeks, and the transmission line nearly as long. The latter, which makes use of aluminium instead of copper, practically for the first time east of the Mississippi, has been declared to be the finest of its kind in the world. The cables are carried on steel towers sixty feet in height, which are set in concrete bases. Each of the six cables used is composed of nineteen strands of aluminium wire. The line is twenty-nine and one-half miles long.

The switch which makes the direct connection at the Lockport power house is nine feet high, and is operated in oil by a mechanical device; it is not only too ponderous but too dangerous to be handled directly by an operator, the current being of such high tension as to be fatal to any one approaching too near the switch. The circuit is closed through a subordinate current of low tension, the smaller switch being placed 300 feet from the main connection.

A number of branch lines will have to be completed before all the power contracted for is delivered to customers.

STATE WILL ACT IN DAM CASE.

Healy Goes to Rescue of Riverside Residents Who Would Block Hoffman's Plans.

State's Attorney Healy will file today in the Circuit court a suit against Harry Hoffman Jr., brewer, to prevent the completion of the dam across the Desplaines river at Riverside.

The action is taken at the request of the village officials of Riverside, who have been fighting the erection of the dam.

It will be claimed the dam would be a public nuisance; that the right granted by the legislature to one Forbes, in 1846, under which the dam is being erected, refers to another part of the river, and that the question of the navigability of the Illinois river above Joliet is a question which should be decided by the courts.

INVESTIGATION OPENS TODAY INTO UNION GRAFT CHARGE.

Carpenters to Go to Bottom of Allegations Against Some of Their Officers—Strike on New Building Ends.

After two weeks of charges and counter charges of graft in the carpenters' union a searching investigation will begin today. The charge is that certain officers of the district council received nearly $800 from the Meader Furniture company, a nonunion firm of Cincinnati, as the price of allowing the firm to fulfill its contract in the new Commercial National bank building.

The executive board of the carpenters' joint council, composed of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and the Amalgamated Association of Carpenters, will meet this morning as an investigating committee to sift the charge. The committee is composed of John J. Brittain, Charles McCormick, David Jones, R. J. O'Brien, and D. J. Bosgraff.

Work on the new factory buildings of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., Forty-sixth and Winchester streets, will resume today after a halt of several weeks because of the strike of building trades as the result of employment of nonunion men. The contractors have agreed to the demands of the union.

"Carpetbagism" and internal discord are charged against the United Typothetæ of America by George L. Berry, president of the Printing Pressmen's union, in a circular letter issued to members of the organization.

EMPLOYMENT AGENT AVOIDS CROWD OF ANGRY VICTIMS.

Explains That Sending Hundreds of Men to Pleasant Prairie Was Mistake and Promises to Refund the Money.

More than 200 angry laborers gathered about the basement employment bureau of Frank K. Anderson, 36 West Madison street, yesterday to wait for the man who the day before had sent them out to Pleasant Prairie, Wis. Anderson had accepted from $3 to $5 of each man. When the men reached Pleasant Prairie they were informed there were no jobs for them.

Several men walked back to Chicago during the night and appeared at the office when it opened to demand back their money. Anderson appeared and upon threats of arrest went to the Desplaines street police station to explain. He told Capt. Rehm that the men had been "ordered" by an official of the powder mill company having a plant at Pleasant Prairie, and that there was some misunderstanding. Upon his promise to refund the money he was allowed to depart.

But Anderson did not return to the office to meet the increasing throng. Finally the men made threats, several policemen were sent for, the men were told to come again today, and the office was closed.

JUDGE SCORES HEALY'S AID.

Petit Dismisses Charge Against Defendant After Criticising Assistant State's Attorney Harrold.

Assistant State's Attorney J. P. Harrold was severely criticised by Judge Petit yesterday when he refused to consent to the dismissal of Leo Poenke, 1035 Marianna street, charged with assaulting Joseph Foy, 1832 George street.

Joseph Lang, 343 Ward street, admitted at the last hearing of Poenke he had thrown a stone and it accidentally struck Foy.

"Your attitude," said the judge, when Mr. Harrold refused to agree to dismissal, "would indicate that you proceed on the presumption that every defendant charged with a crime is guilty, while the law is that every defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty. The defendant is discharged."

MADDEN'S FRIENDS AND FOES ROUSED.

Gathering Formally Launches Campaign of Congressman for Renomination.

RIVAL FORCE OPENS FIRE.

State Senator Ettelson Boomed at Second Meeting, Claiming to Be "Regular."

Congressman Martin B. Madden was praised and denounced at rival meetings of republicans in the Third ward last night. There was no particular issue at either meeting. Both factions simply were lining up the voters in advance of the primaries next April, when there will be a strenuous contest for republican committeeman. Each meeting claimed to be the "official gathering" of the Third Ward Republican club.

The Madden forces, with the congressman in charge, met at Prima hall, Thirty-fifth street and Indiana avenue. Lantern slides of sections of the Panama canal, which the congressman visited several months ago, were shown.

The business of the meeting was disposed of in a resolution indorsing Mr. Madden as a candidate for reëlection to congress and Ald. Milton J. Foreman, as ward committeeman.

The other "regular Third Ward Republican club," which stands for State Senator Samuel A. Ettelson, the present ward committeeman, met at Douglas hall, 3518 Ellis avenue. There were no lantern slides, but there were a number of good vaudeville stunts. Over 700 persons attended this meeting, including a number of women, who sat in the gallery.

Friend in Hostile Camp.

Daniel F. Crilly, who is a friend and neighbor of Madden, started the most vigorous verbal attack on the congressman, though he did it unintentionally. It is possible Mr. Crilly may have thought he was at the Madden meeting. He was not one of the regular spellbinders, and D. J. Schuyler Jr., who engineered the meeting, admitted afterwards he might have made a tactical error in calling on Mr. Crilly between vaudeville acts, though he did it for the best.

Mr. Crilly commenced by praising Gov. Deneen, hoping he would be renominated and reëlected, "for," said he, "we'll want the strongest kind of a state ticket during the presidential campaign next year." This was well enough, but listen to what followed:

"I want to say a word for Congressman Madden," Mr. Crilly continued. "I have known him for many years. He's a neighbor of mine, and I think he's the best congressman we've ever had."

Grim silence. D. J. Schuyler looked at William H. Harper, who presided, and wigwagged briskly. Harper pulled Crilly by the coat tail.

"What?" asked Crilly, bending over so he could hear Harper. He then continued:

"Of course it is understood I speak of Mr. Madden as congressman only. I think the factions ought to get together," and after some more talk to cover up his confusion, which was accentuated by the warning coughs from all parts of the hall, he sat down.

Bombardment Then Begins.

"I don't agree with Mr. Crilly at all," said the next speaker, John H. Fitch, a plumber-politician from Cottage Grove avenue. "I am the original Martin B. Madden fighter in this ward. He has betrayed every man, woman, and child in the ward. He has voted for every piece of rotten legislation in congress and absented himself when the interests of the people were at stake. Now he comes back from Washington to put us out of business. He's an anti-republican, and when the primaries are held he'll be surprised."

There was wild applause at that. Senator Ettelson was not present, but a telegram dated Springfield was read. It stated he was busy with the direct primary bill.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones sent a letter with this "P. S.":

"Any attempt to restore to political power the old bosses of this district will be a reactionary movement, as disgraceful as it is discouraging."

Many at Madden Meeting.

An audience of more than 1,400 persons attended the Madden meeting. All references to the ward contest were avoided religiously by the speakers. Routine business of the ward organization was disposed of in a few minutes, following which Ald. Milton J. Foreman, candidate for central committeeman, spoke on the present city administration.

Congressman Madden followed with his illustrated talk on "The Pamana Canal."

Cheers greeted him when he arose to speak. Preceding the speeches, resolutions were adopted indorsing Congressman Madden for renomination and reëlection to congress and Ald. Foreman for county central committeeman.

"The present city administration is the best administration we have had in twenty years," said Ald. Foreman. "We now have a man of action in the mayor's chair. We have had theorists and people who did a lot of talking. Now, there is little talking, but lots of action.

"We are remedying the evils of this great city as rapidly as is possible. All the evils have not been eradicated, but some have and more will be as we progress. There will be no temporizing. The laws will be enforced."

A GOOD STORY

Told By a Former Coffee Slave.

Read Below.

The relief which comes by leaving off coffee and using Postum Food Coffee, is so striking that people like to tell others who may be in the condition they got out of.

The use of Postum is on the increase in this country and the famous beverage made from wholesome field grain has been the means of restoring to thousands of former coffee drinkers, good digestion, steady nerves and sound sleep.

"About 18 months ago," writes a Kansas woman, "I was a most miserable person. I am 28 years old and all my life I have been subject to headache, which seemed to get worse with each attack so that about every week I would have a spell that laid me up two days.

"Whenever I would go out anywhere I'd come home with a spell and then would not eat anything—just drink coffee. I had nervous chills and my memory was getting very bad.

"My friends thought I would not live long, and I was little more than a skeleton. At last a friend advised me to quit coffee and use Postum. It seemed silly to think coffee was the trouble but I am thankful I tried it out, for I am now in perfect health, have no headaches or dizzy spells, no more nervous chills and my nerves are strong and steady. My mind is clear and my memory all right, in fact, I am like a different person.

"Constipation was one of my old troubles, I had to take something all the time. Now I am never bothered this way and everyone remarks how well I am looking. I am getting fleshy and am glad to tell others that Postum has done it all for me.

"A few times when out of Postum I have returned to coffee and every time I'd go to bed with a raging headache, so that's proof that coffee was at the bottom of my trouble." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in packages. "There's a Reason."

Judge Rules on Vital Point, Granting Defendant Protection of Constitution.

MILLER CITES NO CASES.

Wins on Plea Demand to See Private Accounts Violates Fundamental Law.

John R. Walsh—private citizen—took a position under the protecting power of the constitution of the United States yesterday. In a ruling vital to Mr. Walsh's interests, Federal Judge A. B. Anderson held that Walsh's private books, containing the complete record of his dealings with the Chicago National bank and the various enterprises he was promoting, could not be used against him in any way, either directly or through the testimony of B. B. McKay, Walsh's confidential bookkeeper.

Through this ruling, which came after hours of legal battling, the government was denied the right to prove Walsh profited personally by selling bonds of his own corporations to his own bank. The government lawyers contend, however, this fact will be proven through the books of the bank and the books of the railroad companies showing that where bonds were bought at 95, for instance, and sold to the bank for 100, or par, the railroad got only the proceeds of the buying price, and Walsh spent the difference on his family, or his newspaper, or in any other way that pleased him.

Vital Issue to the Front.

The issue in the case, the development of which has been expected from the start, was brought to the front as the result of questions the government lawyers put to McKay over entries made in Walsh's personal ledger. Attorney John S. Miller for the defense raised an immediate objection. The jury was excluded.

"I now ask counsel for the defense to produce the private books of John R. Walsh," said Assistant United States District Attorney Fletcher Dobyns.

"Do you make that as a demand?" asked Mr. Miller.

"Yes, as a demand," said Mr. Dobyns.

"In the absence of the jury?"

"Yes."

"Do you want the demand made in the presence of the jury?" asked Judge Anderson.

"No, no, your honor; not that," said Attorney William J. Hynes.

"But we do not care to produce them in the absence of the jury," said Mr. Miller. "We certainly will not turn them over to the government until the proper time comes."

Appeal to Constitution.

The lawyers for the defense then made the plea that the constitution guarantees each citizen the sacredness of his private property and that the government could not force Walsh to testify against himself by producing these books. The government lawyers contended the evidence of McKay as to the contents of the book was admissible, inasmuch as the government could not force Walsh to produce the books.

The arguments lasted until well into the afternoon.

"These books are the most incriminating thing in this case," said Mr. Dobyns at one time. Walsh had no right to use trust funds and make a profit for himself, as these books show he did."

"The government has not succeeded honestly or dishonestly in getting possession of these books," said Mr. Miller. "The calling of Walsh's private bookkeeper comes as near violating the fourth and fifth amendments of the constitution as I ever heard of. McKay was a part of Walsh."

Judge Rules for Defense.

Judge Anderson said in his opinion:

"This defendant has a set of books. They are his private books, not his own and some one else's property. The government can see plainly the defendant cannot be forced to put the books in evidence. I cannot see now that there is anything to justify the introduction of this evidence at all. It may be vital, but I cannot understand that its vitality has anything to do with its competency.

"Now as to the secondary evidence. The defendant does not see fit to furnish this evidence against himself, and the government seeks to prove the same thing in another way. It occurs to me that even if the books themselves were here and the defendant had not been forced to give them up, an objection to any of their evidence would be good. The objection to this testimony is sustained."

Identified by McKay.

McKay was on the stand most of the afternoon identifying John R. Walsh signatures which he had made to bond department checks and deposit slips. McKay said checks for forty or fifty bond sales had been deposited to Walsh's credit in the bank.

The government put a large number of men on the stand whose names were found signed to memorandum notes payable to the Chicago National bank. Without exception these men denied signing the notes.

The men who testified notes had been signed without their authority or knowledge were: W. T. Fitzgerald of Peshtigo, Wis.; R. J. Goddard, Sparta, Ill.; John C. Collins, Sparta; S. N. Harrison of Peshtigo; L. R. Moran, Sparta; E. A. Burrill, Peoria; J. C. Fitzgerald, Chicago; C. W. Clarkson, Bismarck, Mo.; F. S. Lewis, Terre Haute, Ind.; C. S. Lillie, Sparta, and A. N. East.

Shows Many Notes Are Paid.

Frederick W. McLean was recalled to the stand by Mr. Miller for cross examination in the morning. Mr. Miller brought out that most of the notes in the bank showed they were paid fully and actually at the time of maturity.

In the redirect examination by the government Assistant United States Attorney Robert W. Childs asked:

"Is there anything on the bank records to show where the securities for the twenty-nine memorandum notes were recorded on Jan. 20, 1906, which was after the bank closed its doors?"

"Yes, sir. Up to that time these securities were in the bond department," answered McLean. "On Jan. 20, the records show, they were removed."

"What do the records show on March 14, 1907?"

"They were returned again to the bond department."

WATCH HENS! DR. EVANS' DUTY

Act Giving Commissioner More Work Is Recommended.

CITY ON MEDIUMS' TRAIL.

"Clairvoyant" Ordinance for Protection of Girls Is Boosted.

Health Commissioner Evans is a man of great patience and is enthusiastic over his work. But he wondered yesterday whether there was not a limit to everything. The question arose when the council committee on judiciary recommended the "hen ordinance" for passage.

Now this "hen ordinance" not only provides for the care of "chickens, ducks, turkeys, guinea hens, geese, and all other domesticated fowls," but makes it incumbent on the health commissioner to see to it that these fowls shall be properly housed and rightly taken care of. The commissioner is to detail inspectors to see to it that the "coops, pens, houses, and other inclosures" in which said fowls are kept shall always be in a sanitary and healthful condition, and it is provided there shall be no fee charged for the inspection.

There also are extra duties imposed on the police force. It is declared unlawful for "any chickens, duck, turkey, guinea hen, goose," and so on to run at large, and if a policeman sees a chicken running across the street it is his duty to capture that chicken and take it to the station.

The man walking the beat presumably would take chances of the arrest never being reported to headquarters and figure on a chicken dinner for himself.

This Merely an Oversight.

Through a seeming oversight in the ordinance Commissioner Evans is relieved of the work of inspecting the coops in South Water street and the numerous grocery stores in which live chickens are kept. It is entirely possible, however, to correct this amendment when the measure comes up for passage in the council.

The ordinance was introduced by Ald. Bihl of the Thirty-third ward, who represents a territory partly urban, partly rural, where some of the residents adhere to country fashions and keep chickens, ducks, and so forth, while the remainder follow metropolitan manners and confine their agricultural efforts to raising flowers and garden truck. The cry of the latter was that the chickens, etc., were a nuisance, and it was the desire of the alderman to please all of his constituents by passing an ordinance which would allow those who wanted to keep chickens, etcetera, to do so, and at the same time relieve the others of any inconvenience therefrom.

Would Punish Clairvoyants.

The "clairvoyant ordinance" was approved by the judiciary committee. This ordinance provides a penalty for anybody who advertises as being able to foretell the future, whether it be the price of stocks, the result of a horse race, or the kind of man or woman the patron is to marry, by means of cards, mystic incantations, symbols, and signs, location of the stars, communications with spirits, or any of the other devices known to this line of enterprise.

The ordinance was drafted at the request of the chief of police, because of the numerous frauds perpetrated on working girls by mediums operating in Milwaukee avenue.

Commissioner of Public Works Hanberg is after the right to use, for water mains, a tunnel under the river at Taylor street, built in 1886 by the gas company. The tunnel is now occupied by a Pintsch company main and some wires for telephone and electric purposes, but as it is seven feet by five in size there is plenty of room for a good sized water main.

"Exactly how the tunnel came to be built," said Deputy Commissioner Redlesti, "the records of the department do not show. There is no record of a permit ever having been granted, although that does not prove one never was. The gas company claims it owns the tunnel absolutely, but we intend to press the city's claim to the use of a part of the space."

Little Boy Asserts His Mother Started Quarrel with Husband.

Two little children, who huddled with fear in a corner of the parlor, saw their father, George Mayer, 52 years old, 4336 Champlain avenue, shot dead yesterday afternoon by their mother. Mayer was a proofreader. He had been married eleven years.

The stories of the affair told by the eldest son and his mother differ. Mrs. Mayer, 32 years old, who was taken into custody, said her husband was intoxicated when he returned home at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and began an argument with her. She said she showed him the revolver and told him she had purchased it to protect herself from him, as he frequently had threatened her life.

Mayer, the woman alleged, tried to seize the revolver, and as she struggled to retain possession of it the weapon was discharged accidentally, the ball penetrating Mayer's brain. He died instantly.

Says Mother Started Quarrel.

Robert Mayer, 7 years old, said his mother started the quarrel as soon as his father entered the house. He said she sent him to a saloon late in the afternoon to purchase a flask of whisky, which she drank, and soon became quarrelsome from the effects of the liquor.

The boy said that his mother soon drew the revolver from a drawer and threatened to shoot his father. The latter attempted to seize the weapon, according to the son, and a few minutes later it was discharged.

"We were too scared to run, so my brother and I stood in a corner watching ma and pa fighting. I wanted to run out and get a policeman, but I was afraid of being shot," the boy told the police.

Mrs. Mayer admitted that she had been drinking, but declared that had nothing to do with the quarrel.

Woman Held Pending Inquest.

After the shot, realizing that she had killed her husband, Mrs. Mayer sent Robert to the Fiftieth street police station for aid. When Policemen Demming and O'Connor entered the house they found Mrs. Mayer pacing the floor, carrying her 2 year old son in her arms. The infant's mouth and face were stained with blood, where the baby had kissed his father after the shooting. Lieut. Woods of the Hyde Park station was notified and he ordered the woman and children taken to his station. There Mrs. Mayer admitted killing her husband and said it was the result of an accident.

Both of the children are being cared for at the station by the matron. Their mother will be held pending the outcome of the coroner's inquest.

PICKPOCKETS CAUSE CAR PANIC

Struggle to Escape from Detectives Until Policemen in Uniform Assist in Subduing Them.

Two pickpockets caused a panic among women passengers on a Southport avenue electric car last night by efforts to free themselves from Lieut. John Halpin and three city detectives.

The struggle continued until the car stopped at Madison street and Fifth avenue, when two policemen in uniform aided in talking the prisoners to the office of Lieut. Roban, who recognized them as John Gordon and John Bowman, both having criminal records.

Later in the evening the same detectives arrested two other pickpockets on the same electric car line. The prisoners, William Haldin and Edward Brown, were booked for disorderly conduct.

Assistant State's Attorney Short served notice yesterday afternoon on Attorney Reniff, defending Guy Van Tassel, that Charles Hanson, who is now serving a life sentence in Joliet, would be brought back to testify against his alleged accomplice. In his trial Hanson testified that Van Tassel fired the shot which caused the death of Policeman Fitzpatrick. At the close of the session four more jurors had been conditionally accepted.

LEAPS BARS TO SEE JACKASS

Judge, Who Tries to Settle Trouble, Jumps Back Again.

FINDS "A LITTLE BURRO."

Evanston Justice Nearly "Up a Tree," but Sees Cause of Flurry.

If Police Magistrate Boyer of Evanston was "up a stump" on Monday in his determination of the offensiveness of a donkey whose owner, Walter Cook, had been arrested on the complaint of neighbors, he came nearly being "up a tree" literally yesterday when he went to make a personal examination of the beast's disposition and habits.

The justice and Chief of Police Shaffer, who accompanied him as a bodyguard, went to the vacant lot on Darrow avenue which serves as the animal's summer home. Looking over the fence they saw a small black animal wagging its big ears at them.

"Why, that's only a burro," said Boyer, "not a jackass at all."

He lightly vaulted the fence and approached the beast. He had been told "Jack" had a habit of thrusting his head between the legs of children and upsetting them. Consequently when he saw the ears draw nigh he began to wave his hat.

"Whoa! Shoo! Scat!" he commanded, and took to his heels as "Jack" continued to advance.

He fled to the shelter of a small ash tree that, while it would not support his weight, served as an obstacle to the progress of the brute. Chief Shaffer, laughing heartily, joined the court.

"He's only playing," he said, and in proof he stroked "Jack's" long earns.

Reassured, the justice attempted to gather evidence of "Jack's" vocal powers by poking him in the ribs. There was no response, and the final resort, a quick twist of the tail, resulted only in an upward thrust of the animal's hind feet.

The magistrate, followed by the chief of police, retired over the fence, stating he would withhold his decision until he had had opportunity to consider the facts at his leisure.

DEARBORN STREET LIGHTS TO BE ON TROLLEY POLES.

Improvement Association Decides That to Put In Ornamental Iron Posts Would Overcrowd the Curb Line.

Dearborn street will be lighted by flaming arc lights suspended from the trolley poles. This was decided at a meeting of the Dearborn Street Improvement association yesterday afternoon in the Great Northern hotel.

At a previous meeting of the association it was agreed that the lamps should be hung on ornamental iron posts. After a consultation with City Electrician Carroll it was decided that the additional poles would give the street the appearance of a forest of dead trees. The action taken was reconsidered, and the committee was instructed to figure out the cost of using the poles of the street railroad company. This report will be received at the next meeting.

A committee was appointed to receive bids for paving the street. It was decided that various kinds of paving would be considered.

The meeting of the Clark Street Improvement association, which was to have been held today, was postponed until next Wednesday.

ROBBED; APPEALS TO CONSUL.

Austrian Declares Proprietor and Bartender of Saloon Stole His Money and Threw Him Out.

Alexander Nuber, Austrian consul in Chicago, was appealed to for assistance yesterday by Nicholas Grozdowich, 76 Wright street, who said he was robbed of $175 on Sunday morning, Nov. 17, in Ellis Marks' Silver Moon saloon, Peoria and Madison streets.

Grozdowich said he went into the saloon between 1 and 2 o'clock and after buying a glass of beer started to count his money. The bills he laid upon his knees and when they were counted out, he told the police, Marks and a bartender grabbed the money and shoved him through a door into the street.

The Austrian found a policeman, but being unable to speak English he could not make the policeman understand that he had been robbed.

BOAT ON TUNNEL STOPS "L" TRAFFIC

Metropolitan Suffers Trouble as Northwestern Plans Better Service.

RUN 3 EXTRA TRAINS.

Patrons of North Side Line Advised to Use Only Cars of Their Own Branch.

After plans for bettering service on the Northwestern Elevated railway were agreed on last night the Metropolitan L suffered a temporary blockade of traffic.

Running of trains was stopped when the steamer Aurania, grain laden, became fast under the jackknife bridge that spans the river near Van Buren street. The blockade occurred shortly after the theater crowds coming downtown had been carried over the river, but passengers from 8:30 to almost 10 o'clock were forced to do some walking. Thousands were inconvenienced.

The mast of the Aurania was taken from its fastenings after two tugs had tried for several hours to move the huge boat. With the mast out of the way the bridge was lowered. Traffic was resumed before the theater crowds returned to their homes.

Strikes on Old Tunnel.

The boat, carrying more than 183,000 bushels of wheat, and bound for Erie, Pa., struck on the top of the old tunnel, and despite the assistance that was rushed to the scene remained firmly lodged. After Supt. M. J. Feron of the Metropolitan elevated railroad had investigated the trouble he asked that the mast be taken from its position. This was complied with and the bridge was then easily lowered. The Van Buren street bridge, though, was still open early this morning, and it is expected that further trouble will be encountered before the boat is released.

When the Aurania was caught in the draw several elevated trains were then waiting to cross the bridge. As minutes elapsed before further progress was made the conductors told the passengers of the trouble. Hundreds left the trains and walked to other stations on the loop.

The wind throughout the day had been westerly, blowing the water out into the lake, and causing a drop of more than fifteen inches in the river. The vessel draws seventeen feet six inches and it is believed it can be floated this morning.

While the boat was blocking traffic on the Metropolitan system, trains of that road on the loop were being switched around and around the downtown district to keep the tracks open for the south side trains, which use the same rails. As a result all trains were forced to move slowly around the loop.

Better Service on Northwestern.

Plans for bettering the "L" service for the Buena Park, Sheridan road, and Wilson avenue patrons of the Northwestern elevated road were tentatively agreed upon after President Starring of the road and Ald. Williston and Dunn, Frank T. Fowler, and Ferdinand Goss, representing the residents of the Twenty-fifth ward, personally inspected the "rush hour" service of the "L" at Belmont avenue.

At a meeting of the committee of fifteen appointed to lay the grievances of the ward before the railroad company the report of the investigators was read. Another massmeeting will be held Tuesday evening at Gorvan's hall, when changes suggested by President Starring will be laid before the residents of the ward.

From 5 o'clock until 6:30, or during the evening "rush," the committee, with President Starring, kept close tab on all the cars at the Belmont avenue station to determine whether the Wilson avenue patrons were being discriminated against in favor of the Ravenswood branch users. Three additional trains have been placed upon the Wilson avenue line, and last night it was found that except for a slight overcrowding on the platforms during changes from express to local trains the service was satisfactory.

Suggestion by Starring.

President Starring suggested that to relieve the crush during the rush hours patrons be "educated" to use their own cars. It was found last night that most of the local trains running north to Belmont avenue were empty, while a carload would alight from the Wilson avenue and Ravenswood express trains. Mr. Starring believed the Wilson avenue express trains should stop at Belmont avenue and not at Fullerton, and the Ravenswood express trains at Fullerton and not at Belmont. This, it was pointed out, would prevent the crush in changing from one express to a local.

At the meeting of the committee last night Ald. Dunn spoke for the investigators and admitted the service was improved, but advocated further improvements. Lengthening of the loop platforms so that two trains could be loaded at the same time was one of the remedies he suggested.

Report to Massmeeting.

The report of the committee will be laid before the residents of the ward at the massmeeting next Tuesday, and they will be asked to approve or reject the plan of President Starring to increase the number of Wilson avenue express trains and have the users take the proper trains at the loop stations.

SOCIALIST PLAN PROMOTER ARRESTED ON FRAUD CHARGE.

Joel J. Moon Taken Into Custody on Accusation of Obtaining Money by False Pretenses.

Mrs. Elizabeth Quinn, 58 Peoria street, caused the arrest yesterday of Joel J. Moon, 57 years old, on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Moon is the promoter of a socialistic settlement scheme. It is said he represented that he owns 1,000 acres of land at Trowbridge, Ill., and he proposed that 1,000 persons should pay him $1 each and thereby acquire title to one acre of his land.

Mrs. Quinn, it is said, is one of many persons who accepted his proposition. City Detective Sergeants Brown and Ellsworth say they have information concerning Moon which led them to believe him a fraud.

JURORS PRAISE A POLICEMAN.

Inquisitors by Formal Vote Compliment Sergeant Barry for His Manner of Presenting a Case.

By formal vote Sergt. Stephen Barry of the Despiaines street police station was complimented yesterday by the November grand jury for the competent way in which he handled a case before that body. Similar action was taken by the October grand jury. The action of the two grand juries is unusual.

Sergt. Barry was before the November grand jury in the case of George Smith, accused of robbery. He read his statement from his notebook, giving a brief outline of the testimony and stating what each witness would testify to.

Because of the sergeant's method only one or two questions were asked of the other witnesses. The vote was taken in the sergeant's presence before he left the jury room.

STEERAGE DEMAND IS HEAVY

Unusually Large Number of Foreigners Returning to Europe.

Italians Find It Cheaper to Go Home than Stay Here All Winter.

There has been a demand for third class or steerage transportation that the steamship agents have been unable to meet. It is estimated that 1,500 persons left Chicago yesterday bound for various ports in Europe.

According to F. G. Whiting, general passenger agent of the Cunard lines, more than 2,400 persons have been booked by the Chicago office for Scandinavian and European points during November. He estimates that an equal number will leave during December.

"This number exceeds by far the bookings of any previous year," said Mr. Whiting. "All of our passengers seem to be plentifully supplied with cash. Advance bookings for next month indicate that the remaining steamers will be heavily booked for the Christmas rush."

F. C. Brown, general passenger agent of the White Star and the Red Star lines, said his companies had been unable to supply the demand for passage.

Heavy Demand in New York.

"The demand in New York for steerage tickets has been far greater than we could have anticipated," said Mr. Brown. "We have received telegrams ordering no more bookings for third class passage two weeks or more before the sailing of any steamers. It has not been a question of looking for business. We have been trying to hold the demand back until later.

"This heavy demand has been occasioned by the shutting down of many factories. The Italians have been doing the work that the Irish formerly did on the railroads. These people make a good business for us at all times. But now they know they can go back to their homes in Italy and stay all winter for a less sum than it would take for them to remain all winter in the United States. The railroads have stopped their work, so the workers go home."

The rates for third class passage have been raised until now on most steamship lines tickets for second class passage are but a few dollars more. On the Holland American line, running from New York to Rotterdam, an old couple bought second class passage after having asked for steerage rates when they learned that the difference in the prices was only $4.

Plenty of Money, Kozminski Says.

Maurice W. Kozminski, general western agent of the French line, was the only one who said that the financial flurry was not the cause of so many returning to Europe.

"We had as many going home last year at this time," said Mr. Kozminski. "We did all the business we could do last year, and in January we put on a new boat, expecting an increase in the traffic. Every one who buys tickets seems to have plenty of cash. There is still a demand for labor in the west. I don't think the present money stringency has made it necessary for any one who wanted to work to leave. Our travel has been heavy, but not heavier than it was at this time a year ago."

Many of the first and second class bookings have been canceled, according to Mr. Brown. He said a number of families who had engaged passage for Mediterranean ports had asked to have their holdings released. The heads of these families had told him they could not afford to leave their offices until business affairs are more settled.

EVIDENCE ALL IN WHISPERS.

Evanston Postcard Case Ends with an Apology to Milliner and Roast of Crowd.

An apology and the payment of the court costs yesterday sufficed to appease the anger of Miss Frances Holtz, the Evanston milliner who caused the arrest of Fred Breitzeman when he sent her a postcard.

The entire hearing in Justice Boyer's court was conducted in whispers, much to the disappointment of the assembled people who had flocked to hear the testimony. Fred P. Vose, one of the "Silent" Smith heirs, appeared as attorney for Breitzeman.

Once the plaintiff's anger boiled over during her criticism of the picture of a scene in the Garden of Eden. Breitzeman said he had sent it because he suspected Miss Holtz of mailing him a postcard bearing a picture of a "drunk."

Miss Holtz denied sending this card, and after Mr. Vose's argument she consented to drop the prosecution. The judge insisted Breitzeman apologize, which he did in a straightforward manner.

Attorney Vose directed a few shafts at the "low curiosity" of the spectators.

GROUND BROKEN FOR SCHOOL.

Start Made to Erect Building for Engineering Department of Northwestern University at Evanston.

Ground was broken yesterday for Northwestern university's engineering school, near the shore of Lake Michigan at the north end of the present campus, east of the Orrington Lunt library.

The building, of stone, is to be three stories and every part of it has been planned to meet the purposes for which it is intended. Its dimensions will be 80 by 150 feet, providing enough space, it is thought, for the technical department during the first few years of its existence.

W. A. Dyche, business manager of the university, said he had every reason for believing that the school will be ready for occupancy next fall.

LECTURES AND ENTERTAINMENTS

SAYS HE WON SUIT BY PERJURY.

Judge Sadler Holds Louis Griffith to Grand Jury for Testimony About Injury to Himself.

Louis W. Griffith, 37 years old, 340 Ohio street, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Municipal Judge Sadler on a charge of perjury. Frost Bros., commission merchants, 122 South Water street, charged Griffith with swearing falsely that he was injured for life in an elevator accident in the Frost store in 1905. Griffith recovered $4,750 damages in Judge Mack's court. Physicians said Griffith's condition was not due to the elevator accident.

How She Got Rid of Her Fat.

A Prominent Society Lady Wants To Make Known to Tribune Readers a Home-Made Formula by Which She Has Lost 60 Pounds in Last Two Months.

"I want to make known to all the readers of the Tribune," said a prominent society lady yesterday, "a formula for reducing fat which I think is simply wonderful. I have no object in making this known save to help other fat people like myself who have tried almost everything advertised under the sun, and have failed.

"I know this formula is safe, for I never felt better in my life, and you just ought to feel my muscle now. I eat all I want and never enjoyed my meals as much as I do now. I feel 20 years younger. Several of my fat friends are using it with wonderful results. Don't diet, just eat. You don't have to exercise.

"This remedy never takes off more than it ought. That is a remarkable fact about it. I haven't a wrinkle in my face; I am 52 years old and have lost 60 pounds during the last two months.

"I got this formula while visiting a friend of mine when abroad last year. The only places in Chicago where I could get the ingredients were at the big downtown drug stores on State St. I advise getting the ingredients and mixing them at home yourself.

"Get an ounce of Arbolum in the original package and then have the druggist put the following in a six-ounce bottle: One-half ounce fluid extract of Senna, one-quarter ounce fluid extract Bladderwrack, and four ounces of Simple Elixir. When you get home you can add the Arbolum. Now you have the whole thing. The results will be as sure to come as the sun will rise tomorrow.

"I was told to be sure to get the Arbolum in the original package with the seal unbroken. I found full directions for mixing and taking inside the package."

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE.

HILL MAKES PACT WITH HARRIMAN?

Wall Street Hears Report Two Big Rail Chiefs Have Joined Forces.

SHEVLIN IN BAD LIGHT.

Opponent of McCarren Said to Have Profited by New "Yellow Dog" Fund.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Nov. 26.

It was reported from Harriman quarters today that a truce has been patched up between E. H. Harriman and James J. Hill. The truce, it was said, was in the form of a community of interest arrangement, involving perhaps a traffic agreement, possibly an agreement against further invasion of the rival's territory by the railroad systems controlled by either of the men. It was even said that the truce might produce a working agreement between the rail kings.

Peace Pact of Harriman and Hill Doubted.

The financial district was skeptical. It has been flooded with reports of Mr. Harriman's intention to be good, and has begun to discount all such reports. It has heard that the Harriman investments in other roads were going to be "segregated," that the members of the Harriman party had voluntarily divested themselves of the influence of competing roads, and so many other rumors that the street had become a bit surfeited. Meanwhile, it was recalled today that the only concrete development had been the knowledge of Harriman's acquisition of the Georgia Central and the debt he owed for the road to the Trust Company of America.

Mr. Hill was not in this city today, and the report lacked confirmation from the men close to him. No confirmation was to be obtained from several important members of the Harriman party.

William D. Chandler, an art student, shot himself today while calling upon Mrs. William Dissinger. The woman told the police that Chandler's father had threatened to disinherit him.

The name of James Shevlin, former lieutenant to Boss McLaughlin and the leader of the anti-McCarren faction in Brooklyn, was brought out today in the investigation which the public service commission is conducting into the affairs of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company. Incidentally, the existence of a "yellow dog fund," which the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company received as a heritage when it acquired the old Nassau railroad from the Johnson and Flynn crowd, also was revealed. Shevlin was portrayed in the testimony as the one who, for "legal services," received a fee of $167,000. The original fee was $187,000, but $20,000 had been retained by the B. R. T. until the validity of certain features of the old Union street franchise could be established.

New Traction "Yellow Dog" Fund Is Found.

The $167,000 legal fee, according to the books of the Nassau company, was charged to that concern's construction account. When asked for what purposes he believed the money was used Vice President Williams volunteered no opinion except to say that probably it was the cheapest thing for a company to do when the fact was taken into consideration that it stood between a lot of practical politicians on the one side and professional reformers, like Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland, on the other side.

The outrush of an alien multitude will exceed this week any steerage exodus in any similar period in the history of emigration. Eight liners scheduled to sail tomorrow may not be able to get away because of the inability to handle the steerage passengers. The Moraitis of the Greek line was besieged today by a crowd of nearly a thousand Greeks and Italians.

50,000 Aliens Expected to Leave During Week.

It was hoped an increase from $21 to $31 in steerage rates might check the outflow, but it failed, and the rush continued until the lines had to stop booking. Cargo space had been turned into steerage compartments, and freight was piling up on the piers. Thirty thousand emigrants sailed last week, and this week that record will be eclipsed.

In the steerage of the liner Seydlitz, which sails tomorrow for Bremen, there will be 1,950, and it is a conservative estimate to say that the seven other liners will average more than 1,200.

Ten big ships that leave on Saturday have all their steerage room taken, and it is not unlikely that the record for the week will reach 50,000.

At the Columbia students' mock republican national convention tonight Gov. Hughes was nominated "for president." The vote was made unanimous and after adjournment was taken the students paraded down Broadway following the lead of brass bands. On the first roll call Gov. Hughes received 287 votes and Senator La Follette of Wisconsin 223, with scattering votes for President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou, Secretary Taft, Vice President Fairbanks, and Speaker Cannon. The second roll call gave Gov. Hughes 525 votes as against 352 for Senator La Follette.

DOROTHY MASSEY IS PAROLED; NOW JUVENILE COURT'S WARD.

Judge Tuthill Shows Clemency to Lake View High School Girl Who Defrauded Chicago Merchants.

Dorothy Massey, 16 years old, who was arrested two weeks ago on charges of obtaining goods from downtown department stores by false pretenses, was paroled by Judge Tuthill in the Juvenile court yesterday to Mrs. Mary E. Long, assistant probation officer.

Miss Massey was accompanied in court by her parents, with the Rev. H. B. Gwyn, rector of St. Simon's Episcopal church, and attorney John K. Prindiville. She admitted her guilt and said she did not know what had first put the idea into her head.

In paroling the girl Judge Tuthill said she was guilty of a penitentiary offense, but he believed she never would be guilty again of a similar one.

"I hope this will be a lesson to you," said the judge. "If you have learned the lesson that honesty is the best policy it may save you something in the future. I shall parole you in charge of Mrs. Long and you may go home. That is the best place for you, and I hope you will turn around morally. You will be under the care of the court for the next three years and for five if necessary."

Then, turning to the Rev. Mr. Gwyn, Judge Tuthill said:

"Welcome her back into the church and forget that she has been here in court. Remember that this institution is to keep people from doing wrong, not to punish them. A few years ago Dorothy would have been sent to jail or to Geneva for such an offense as hers. But I think we shall accomplish more by letting her go home to her mother, her pastor, and her friends, under the care of the probation officer."

SINCLAIR HAS NEW DREAM

Jungle Explorer Would Lead Tribes from Landlords' Curse.

SIMPLE DIET ONE OF RULES.

Nomadic Band May Camp Long Where Grass Is Green and Water Pure.

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Upton Sinclair has another dream. It was inspired by the "curse of landlordism," which the doughty jungle explorer declares is about to drag a peaceful nation into a veritable cataclysm. If no rude person wakes up the one time head of Helicon hall, landlords may as well sell their rental property, put the proceeds into savings banks and prepare for a hard winter.

Mr. Sinclair's plan is to convert ordinary house and flat dwellers into roving bands of strong, healthy men and women who will live in the open air in the day and sleep in wagons at night, partaking only of fruits and vegetables for the sustenance of life.

The wagons are to be fireproof and only one story high, so the horrors which Mr. Sinclair's faithful band experienced when Helicon hall burned may never be lived through again.

Where the grass is good and water pure the "nomads" may camp for days and even months—that is, if landlordism does not interfere. Wives may accompany the men members of the caravan. The children will be cared for by an ambulatory governess, and parents will be allowed to see them occasionally.

An expert stenographer, who was once a press agent, but reformed because, in that profession, he was not allowed sufficient play for his imagination, is to be major domo of the caravan. If the newspapers do not publish at least a column of news from the wagon train every day it will be their own fault. "Copy" from the caravan will be as free as the nomads say rent should be.

"Moving day" for the caravan has been fixed as Jan. 1, four months ahead of that usually observed by people who pay rent to landlords.

WANTS $25,000,000 MORE FOR THE GERMAN BUDGET.

Prince Buelow, Imperial Chancellor, Explains Issue at Opening of Prussian Diet—Polish Land Bill.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The Prussian diet opened today in the White hall of the palace. Prince von Bülow, the imperial chancellor, in the emperor's absence read the speech from the throne. It stated that the growth of permanent expenditures had increased the budget by over $25,000,000.

The chancellor said a deficit is expected in the current year owing to the increased expenses in the railroad administration, and that the government would have to resort to a loan for extending the railroad system.

A bill was introduced authorizing the government to acquire Polish estates by condemnation proceedings under the law of eminent domain. The bill provides for a credit of $87,500,000 to continue the purchase of land in the Polish provinces and the settling of Germans thereon. This amount includes $12,500,000 to meet the expenses of the plan to expropriate from Polish owners. An equal sum already has been expended by the settlement commission since it began operations in 1886.

The Polish bill led to a sharp exchange between the chancellor and several Polish members. The chancellor said the government would take no backward step on the Polish land issue.

TWO HUNDRED LIVES LOST IN STORMS ON BLACK SEA.

Foundering of Steamer Kaplan Causes 110 Casualties—Other Craft Overwhelmed Increase List of Fatalities.

MAY ASK HELP OF ENGLAND.

Portuguese Government Said to Be Looking Forward to British Intervention if Matters Get Worse.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—A special dispatch from Madrid to the Echo de Paris says it is stated in Lisbon that the Portuguese government has made approaches to Great Britain with a view to English intervention in case the situation becomes worse.

The general in command of the Lisbon municipal guard resigned because the forces at his disposal, he claims, were insufficient to repress possible disorders. The king thereupon authorized the calling out of the reserves and otherwise increased the power of the commandant, who withdrew his resignation.

That current reports of trouble in Portugal are exaggerated and are sent out by revolutionists in the hope of causing an uprising among the enemies of the government was the statement last night of Count Santi Eulelia, Portuguese consul in Chicago.

"I received a letter from his majesty, the king of Portugal, today, written on his yacht Amelia. The letter does not contain a hint of any unusual trouble in my country. Had there been any crisis pending I am sure I would have been notified, so that I could guide myself accordingly. As far as I can learn all reports are unfounded and are being circulated by trouble makers."

Count Eulelia said that his letter contained comment upon European affairs in general, but did not indicate anything of special moment in Portugal.

GAIN ALLIES AGAINST FRENCH.

Benis Nassen Tribesmen Said to Have Been Joined by More Arab Warriors.

NEMOURS, Algeria, Nov. 27.—Five more tribes have joined the Benis Nassen tribesmen, who have been fighting the French troops at Lalla for several days. If not reenforced immediately the French forces may be annihilated.

A reconnoitering party was attacked today by 20,000 tribesmen and forced to retreat, having eight men wounded.

The troops which have been engaged in the battles returned to the town of Lalla today.

INDICTED BANKER OPENS ARTERIES.

Howard Maxwell, Deposed President of a Brooklyn Bank, Commits Suicide.

THREE MORE IN TOILS.

Jenkins Brothers, Bankers, Are Held by Grand Jury on the Charge of Forgery.

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Developments in the tangle in which three Brooklyn banks have been involved were sensational today. Two officials of the Jenkins Trust company and the former president of the suspended Williamsburg Trust company were indicted for forgery, and Howard Maxwell, the deposed president of the Brooklyn Borough bank, committed suicide.

Maxwell, who faced twenty-five years in the penitentiary if convicted on the three charges of forgery and grand larceny brought against him, cut his throat and severed an artery in his left wrist at his home, 182 Congress street, Brooklyn, this afternoon, and died at Long Island College hospital at 5:45 o'clock.

Uses Penknife and Razors.

He used a two bladed penknife and two razors to slash himself. He jabbed himself deeply in the right side of the neck with the penknife and then cut his left wrist through the tendons and artery to the bone. When discovered and removed to the hospital Maxwell was so weakened by the loss of blood that he could not rally.

Maxwell was late in rising today and no one in the house disturbed him. Mrs. Maxwell has been ill for many weeks.

A few minutes before 2 o'clock Annie Scott, a colored maid, heard a strange coughing noise coming from the bathroom on the second floor off Maxwell's bedroom. As she started to open the door she saw a bloody razor lying on the floor of the hall just a few inches outside the doorsill. The woman pushed open the bathroom door.

She saw Maxwell, clad only in his underclothes, half sitting, half reclining in a chair by the bathtub. Blood was running from his neck and from his left wrist, which dangled limply over the edge of the tub.

The servant screamed an alarm and the trained nurse who is attending Mrs. Maxwell sent a maid hurrying for doctors.

Operation Fails to Save.

Two physicians who arrived bound up the severed radial artery of the arm and sent in a call for the Long Island College hospital ambulance. Maxwell had by this time lapsed into unconsciousness without saying a word.

At the hospital doctors deemed it imperative to perform the operation of tracheotomy, which is an insertion of a silver tube into the severed windpipe to permit breathing. This operation relieved the wounded man in a measure, but the loss of blood had been so great as to weaken the heart action, and death followed quickly.

Acquaintances of the deposed bank president were inclined to attribute his act to a nervous breakdown brought about by the difficulties of the International Trust company and Borough bank and aggravated by his recent indictment by the grand jury and by his imprisonment.

Three More Bankers Indicted.

The Brooklyn grand jury which has been investigating the affairs of certain suspended banks handed down indictments today against the three Jenkins brothers—John G. Jr., Frank, and Fred Jenkins. The indictments are for forgery in the third degree and relate to the transactions of the Jenkins Trust company, of which John G. Jr. is president and Fred Jenkins director. Frank Jenkins was president of the Williamsburg Trust company until shortly after the suspension of that institution. The indicted men are sons of John G. Jenkins Sr., who as president of the First National bank and a member of the directorates of many other institutions, had been prominent in Brooklyn financial circles for many years.

The three men were bailed out at $10,000 each. Frank and Fred were compelled to go to police headquarters and submit to being photographed and measured by the Bertillon system. Frank was taken by the police after he had been arraigned in court and released on bail. He put up a fight on the streets of Brooklyn which resulted in his wife being torn from his side by the police. She was helped into the district attorney's office, where she fainted.

The upshot of the proceeding on the part of the police is that Acting Capt. Kuhne finds himself obliged to answer a charge of contempt of court before Justice Burr of the Supreme court for having failed to obey a writ of habeas corpus.

Fears Loss and Kills Himself.

Another tragedy connected with the financial trouble occurred today, when Valentine Hayerdahl of Mount Vernon committed suicide by shooting himself. He was worried by the belief that he had lost a $20,000 deposit in the Knickerbocker Trust company. Hayerdahl, who had been a salesman, resigned a short time ago to go into business. All that he owned was tied up in the trust company.

BANK PRESIDENT FORCED OUT.

Connection with Borough Institution of Brooklyn Cause of Resignation of Head of Oriental.

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Richard W. Jones Jr., president of the Oriental bank, has been forced to step down by the directors because of his connection with the Borough bank of Brooklyn.

The directors gave out a statement that Jones had been superseded owing to dangerous illness from pneumonia.

It was pointed out that the announcement read as though the directors had acted without consulting Mr. Jones.

"The inference is more or less correct," said one director, "although as a matter of fact Jones had sent his resignation to the board. So far as I am concerned, I do not see any reason for not repeating what I said at the meeting. I did not and do not now think Jones' connection with the Borough bank of Brooklyn a good thing for the Oriental, and I most heartily favored requesting his resignation had he not offered it."

The sum required is $50,000.

Search for Missing Girls.

The police of South Chicago have been asked to search for Ada Gilbert, 16 years old, and her chum, Mae Wallace, 16 years old, who ran away from their home, 112 West Madison street, Monday night after being reprimanded for attending a dance. The Wallace girl, an orphan, was being cared for by Mrs. Gilbert. The girls are believed to be staying with friends.

FORGAN LIKES THE OUTLOOK

Tells of Conference with President on Financial Situation.

THINKS STRAIN IS NEAR END.

Many Bankers Express Willingness to Resume Normal Payments.

James B. Forgan, president of the First National bank, returned yesterday from Washington, where he had a conference with President Roosevelt regarding the financial situation.

Mr. Forgan didn't go into all the details of his talk with the president, but he said he indicated the improvement in banking conditions in the west, as he saw it, and President Roosevelt received the information with considerable satisfaction.

The local financial situation gave evidence of considerable improvement during the day. Persons who had given thirty day notices of withdrawal of their deposits from the savings banks were notified several days ago that they could have their money, but comparatively few have applied for it.

"I was a busy man during the three and a half hours I spent in Washington," said Mr. Forgan. "I did not go to a hotel, but spent all the time conferring with the president and officials of the government.

Interest Shown by President.

"First I went to the office of Secretary Cortelyou of the treasury, where we discussed details of the purchase of $2,500,000 of the new 3 per cent government certificates of indebtedness by Chicago bankers. From there I went to the office of United States Treasurer Treat and then to the White house, where I went over the situation thoroughly with President Roosevelt.

"The president asked many questions concerning the financial situation in Chicago and other western cities, and I gave him my views. I told him matters were improving every day and I was hopeful that normal currency payments would be resumed before long. He seemed glad to receive this information, and at his suggestion I went to the office of Postmaster General Meyer, who also is much interested in the financial situation."

"Did you discuss with President Roosevelt the government plans for currency reform?" Mr. Forgan was asked.

"That question was taken up," the banker replied, "but I did not learn either from the president or Secretary Cortelyou what their plans were. At their request I gave them some of my ideas. I haven't any cut and dried remedy, and I doubt if any one has."

Mr. Forgan arranged the details of the purchase of $2,500,000 certificates of indebtedness. The government will require 25 per cent of the amount in cash, but will redeposit 75 per cent of the total amount paid for the bonds, subject to its check.

Currency Resumption Favored.

At the close of the day nearly 700 letters had been received from western bankers by the Chicago clearing house committee in response to the letter sent out asking their views on the resumption of normal currency payments. Most of the letters indicated that the bankers were ready and desirous of resuming currency payments. The letters received are from bankers in Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Missouri. Bankers in the far west have not had time to reply.

It developed that there is a shortage of $5 and $10 gold coins at the subtreasury. The supply of $5 gold pieces amounts to but $50,000, and there is not more than $75,000 in $10 gold pieces. There are plenty of $20 gold pieces—$35,000,000 worth of them.

GIRL SHOOTS SELF FOR LOVE OF NEWSBOYS' HOME ATTACHE

Police Censure Physicians and Hospital Authorities for Making No Report of the Attempted Suicide.

In the corridor of the Newsboys' home, 1418 Wabash avenue, Miss Louise Hollandback, 23 years old, 1330 Wabash avenue, a waitress, shot herself with suicidal intent Monday morning after Harry Crockett, 23 years old, one of the supervisors of the home, on whom she had called, had refused to see her. The girl's parents live at Cedar Rapids, Ia.

She was taken to St. Luke's hospital after she had been attended by Drs. J. F. Maltman, 1205 Wabash avenue, and J. C. Brydges, 1601 Wabash avenue. Neither the physicians nor the hospital authorities reported the shooting and the police did not hear of it until yesterday.

The bullet pierced the girl's left lung. Her condition is critical. As she fell she dropped a note, part of which read as follows:

> Sweetheart Harry: Please go to my room and pack everything up. Bring it to your room until you hear from my sister. Do not take my watch away and don't give it to any one. I want to take it with me to my grave because you gave it to me.
>
> You know, Harry, I loved you and you loved me, but someone has interfered. It is not your doing. I do not want you to suffer or be harmed. I did this all for you, for the love of you. I never could be happy, so I may as well die now.
>
> I want to be buried in Chicago, so that you can visit my grave and think of poor Louise (who loved you so). SWEETHEART LOUISE.

Crockett, who was taken into custody, told Inspector Wheeler that he loved Miss Hollandback, but that she was dissatisfied because she could not be with him always.

George Short, 40 years old, a mechanic, committed suicide at Chicago Heights in the forenoon by laying his head on one of the rails of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad track, where he was struck by the St. Louis special passenger train. Short changed his clothing, then walked from his boarding house to the tracks.

MOTHER'S TEARS WIN SON'S LIFE.

Mexican Ambassador Advises Clemency in Case of Condemned American.

THREE MEN WERE TO DIE.

Charged with Insurance Murder and Prosecuted by New York Life Company.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Moved by a mother's tears and pleadings, Ambassador Creel of Mexico wired tonight to José Marie Sanchez, governor of the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, recommending that the sentence of Dr. Charles S. Harle, William Mitchell, and Leslie Hulbert, Americans condemned to be shot there, be commuted to twenty years' imprisonment. The execution of the three men, who were condemned for two murders in connection with insurance frauds, had been set for Dec. 6.

Señor Creel is the actual governor of Chihuahua. He was detached to fill the diplomatic mission to this country and while thus engaged has no authority as governor. But his moral influence is high in his own country, where he not only is a commanding statesman but a member of a rich and powerful family.

Ambassador's Word Is Sufficient.

"I cannot command," said the ambassador tonight, "but I feel sure Señor Sanchez will follow my recommendation. He has full power to do so without reference to the central government. He will receive my message in the morning."

The appeal that may save the lives of the three Americans was made by Mrs. Annie L. Harle of Abilene, Tex., mother of Dr. Harle, after practically every other means of obtaining clemency had been exhausted. The three men, two of whom were from New York state, were convicted and sentenced in 1905.

Numerous petitions and letters have been received by the state department asking interference, but none of the papers bore any evidence of the innocence of the men, or doubt of their guilt. The state department found no ground upon which to act.

Many Congressmen Interested.

Mrs. Harle went today to see Senator Culberson and Representative Smith of Texas. Their sympathy being aroused, they awakened the interest of members of the New York delegation who are here. These members of congress united with the mother in the appeal to the Mexican ambassador, who yielded his influence more out of pity for the unfortunate woman than by reason of the suggestions made by the congressmen.

The New York Life Insurance company, which was defrauded through the murder of the two men, has been persistent in the prosecution of Harle, Mitchell, and Halbert.

SUDDEN ILLNESS OF COAL MAN.

Otto Heyden Is Stricken with Apoplexy and Falls Down Basement Stairs at Kaiserhof Hotel.

Otto Heyden, general manager of the Park County (Ind.) Coal Mining company, at the Kaiserhoff hotel last Saturday afternoon was seized with an attack of apoplexy and fell down the basement stairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Heyden had been in Chicago several days and were to return home to Rosedale, Ind., on the Saturday evening train. After the seizure and fall Mr. Heyden was removed unconscious to his rooms, and for a time his life was despaired of. Since Saturday he has improved steadily, and last night was reported to be almost recovered.

SMALL BANKS HOARD FUNDS

A. B. Stickney Says Country Financiers Cause Tight Money.

NEED NEW CURRENCY PLAN.

Present Laws Should Be Repealed and Restrictions Removed.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 26.—The ghost of Andrew Jackson and the timid conservatism of the country bankers are the two principal causes of the money panic, according to President A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western railway.

Mr. Stickney was one of the speakers tonight at a smoker given by the Roosevelt Republican club of St. Paul. He spoke at some length on currency problems and proposed financial legislation, declaring that a new banking system is needed in America, and all that stands in the way of a new system is the present federal banking law, which has not been repealed because of the ghost of Andrew Jackson.

Each Bank Plays a Lone Hand.

In part Mr. Stickney said:

"The banks of this country are not parts of a whole plan connected in such a manner as to create a chain of mutual support, but they are local and independent institutions. In times of commercial crisis each must depend upon itself, and it is evident that one bank, without the coöperation of the other banks, cannot support the enormous credits of a commercial nation like the United States; each begins to scramble to increase its cash reserve at the expense of the other banks.

"Such conditions now exist among the country banks. Each country bank is hoarding all the money it can get hold of, which produces a shortness of money in circulation.

"The commerce of this country demands that the antiquated primary banks now in use should be displaced by the modern system of banks, which can and will issue every day in the year and every hour of the day all the credit which commerce requires, exercising no repressive measures to reduce the volume of such credits except by raising the interest rate, so that every legitimate merchant throughout this vast country can feel assured that as long as he keeps his business solvent and entitled to credit he can obtain all the bank credits the conduct of his business requires by paying the interest rate.

Banks Are Hampered by Laws.

"This system has not been introduced into this country because commerce and banking are not free, and our laws forbid it.

"What stands in the way of repealing these laws?

"Nothing but the ghost of Andrew Jackson.

"No legislation whatever is required except to repeal the provisions of the national banking act, which prevent banks from doing business except at one specified office, and which prevent national banks from depositing their reserves in another bank in the same city, to repeal the laws as to reserves and the subtreasury laws, and to direct the tax collectors to remit directly to a designated central reserve bank; the genius of commerce inherent in the American people thus made free will do the rest."

LOFTIS SYSTEM Diamonds ON CREDIT

is a practical, dignified charge system with the added convenience of deferred payments. The terms are extremely easy and made to suit the convenience of the purchaser.

In the event of being compelled through sickness, accident or loss of position to discontinue payments we do not, as is customary in the installment trade, demand the forfeiture of the payments made and the return of the goods, but we allow our customer to return the goods and select any other goods to the full amount of the payment made. In this way you are absolutely safeguarded against loss in any form or manner. We do not ask, or expect unreasonable or impossible things from our customers. The Loftis system is not an installment system, but a charge system with all the courtesies and advantages of legitimate commercial credit.

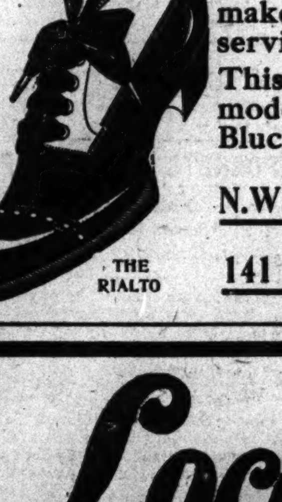

During the present money scarcity WE ACCEPT BANK CHECKS or CLEARING HOUSE CERTIFICATES AS CASH. Payments made on a diamond are the same as putting money in the bank with the added advantage that it is much safer and a great deal better because of the annual increased value. Diamonds increase in value 10 to 20 per cent a year. They are indestructible, never wear out or become second hand property. Put your money in a diamond and your money will always be safe. Bank failures and money panics will never affect you.

BEGIN ARRESTING SALOON OWNER[S]

TRIALS SOME DAYS LAT[ER]

Plan Agitated to Have Refer[en]dum of Subject at Spring Election.

Eight saloonkeepers, for whom warr[ants] charging violation of the Sunday closing on Nov. 24 had been issued on applicatio[n of] attorneys for the Law and Order lea[gue] were arrested last evening and released [un]der $300 bonds each.

The men arranged to appear this mor[ning] in two of the city's police courts. Som[e of] them called at the police stations last ni[ght,] "surrendered," and gave bonds, while ot[hers] were taken in custody by policemen.

The warrants were obtained early in [the] afternoon at the Harrison and Despla[ines] street police courts by Attorneys Eme[ry] Walker and Adolph Raphael.

When the cases are called this mor[ning] continuances will be taken by the defend[ants] according to John J. Swenie, attorney [for] the Chicago Liquor Dealers' Protective [As]sociation.

"A jury trial will be demanded by [each] of the defendants," said Mr. Swenie. "[It] is probable that none of the cases wi[ll be] tried for several days."

Named in the Warrants.

Those arrested were:

THOMAS CHAMALES, keeper of the s[aloon], 363 Wabash avenue.

JOHN DOERHOEFER, saloonkeeper, 353[.. Cot]tage Grove avenue.

HUGH DALY, saloonkeeper, 1 Twenty-[...] street.

EDWARD DREIFUS, saloonkeeper, 83 [Ran]dolph street.

ALEXANDER F. FORD, saloonkeeper, [...] West Madison street.

JOHN McNAMARA, saloonkeeper at 1047 Madison street.

AUGUST F. RENSCH, saloonkeeper at [...] West Chicago avenue.

JOSEPH STAMM, saloonkeeper at 1845 Chicago avenue.

The first four warrants named wer[e ob]tained at the Harrison street court an[d the] others at Desplaines street.

After the first batch of warrants had [been] obtained, Attorney Raphael announced [that] he was engaged on drawing capiases [and] "informations" on which from twen[ty to] thirty other warrants will be obtained t[...]

Mayor Shies at "Harmony" Mee[ting].

Mayor Busse said in the morning th[at he] had not as yet given the resolution [intro]duced by Ald. Downey on Sunday closing [...] consideration.

"The resolution," he said, "asks that [the] saloon men and those in favor of Su[nday] closing be given a hearing, but such a [meet]ing would be difficult to arrange. I [will] think the matter over and arrive at [a] conclusion during the week."

A challenge to Arthur Burrage Fa[rwell] and the Law and Order league to test pop[ular] opinion with a referendum next spring, [under] the provisions of the public policy act, [was] made by Henry F. Malwurm, preside[nt of] the Liquor Dealers' association.

Dares Farwell to Referendum.

"Let the Farwell coterie of reformer[s ride] their pet hobby on the people by acce[pting] some agreement for a referendum vo[te as] set forth in the resolution approved Mo[nday] night by the city council," said Mr. [Mal]wurm. "We dare them to make su[ch a] test of the popular opinion. Of cours[e we] don't expect them to agree to be bou[nd by] the vote of the people. They want t[o rule] or ruin us with an old blue law passed [forty] or fifty years ago, and which would [be an] anti-home rule despotism if put in [force] here.

"The proof positive that the so-called [Sun]day closing crusade is not regarded as a [home] rule measure in this city is the vote o[f the] council Monday night."

"I am satisfied," said Attorney Sw[enie,] "that a referendum vote will be tak[en in] the near future on the subject of Su[nday] closing and that the proposition wou[ld be] overwhelmingly beaten. It is unques[tion]able that Sunday closing is a matter of [pub]lic policy and therefore could be vot[ed on] under the public policy act."

Secretary M. J. McCarthy of the L[iquor] Dealers' organization said:

Dispute Obsoleteness of Law.

The statement in the council reso[lution] that the Sunday closing law is obsolet[e is] disputed by Attorneys Walker and Ra[phael] and President Farwell of the Law and [Order] league.

"What has become obsolete is not th[e law] but the disposition to obey the law," [said] Mr. Walker. "This disposition to di[sobey] the law is a horrible legacy left over fr[om] justice shops, now abolished forever. [Or]ganizations of the liquor interests ha[ve ex]isted in the past to defeat the law, bu[t now] for the first time there is in existence [an or]ganization of church forces to enfor[ce the] law."

The Chicago South Side Woman's c[lub at] a meeting in the New Jerusalem c[hurch,] Woodlawn avenue and Forty-sixth st[reet, in] the afternoon, adopted resolutions fo[r Sun]day closing.

BEGIN ARRESTING SALOON OWNERS.

Sunday Law Crusaders Have Eight Warrants Served on Liquor Sellers.

Plan Agitated to Have Referendum of Subject at Spring Election.

Eight saloonkeepers, for whom warrants charging violation of the Sunday closing law on Nov. 24 had been issued on application of attorneys for the Law and Order league, were arrested last evening and released under $300 bonds each.

The men arranged to appear this morning in two of the city's police courts. Some of them called at the police stations last night, "surrendered," and gave bonds, while others were taken in custody by policemen.

The warrants were obtained early in the afternoon at the Harrison and Desplaines street police courts by Attorneys Emery S. Walker and Adolph Raphael.

When the cases are called this morning continuances will be taken by the defendants, according to John J. Swenie, attorney for the Chicago Liquor Dealers' Protective association.

"A jury trial will be demanded by each of the defendants," said Mr. Swenie. "It is probable that none of the cases will be tried for several days."

Named in the Warrants.

Those arrested were:

THOMAS CHAMALES, keeper of the Savoy saloon, 363 Wabash avenue.

JOHN DOERHOEFER, saloonkeeper, 3537 Cottage Grove avenue.

HUGH DALY, saloonkeeper, 1 Twenty-sixth street.

EDWARD DREIFUS, saloonkeeper, 63 Randolph street.

ALEXANDER F. FORD, saloonkeeper, 1009 West Madison street.

JOHN McNAMARA, saloonkeeper at 1047 West Madison street.

AUGUST F. RENSCH, saloonkeeper at 1885 West Chicago avenue.

JOSEPH STAMM, saloonkeeper at 1845 West Chicago avenue.

The first four warrants named were obtained at the Harrison street court and the others at Desplaines street.

After the first batch of warrants had been obtained Attorney Raphael announced that he was engaged on drawing capiases and "informations" on which from twenty to thirty other warrants will be obtained today.

Mayor Shies at "Harmony" Meeting.

Mayor Busse said in the morning that he had not as yet given the resolution introduced by Ald. Downey on Sunday closing any consideration.

"The resolution," he said, "asks that both saloon men and those in favor of Sunday closing be given a hearing, but such a meeting would be difficult to arrange. I shall think the matter over and arrive at some conclusion during the week."

A challenge to Arthur Burrage Farwell and the Law and Order league to test popular opinion with a referendum next spring, under the provisions of the public policy act, was made by Henry P. Malwurm, president of the Liquor Dealers' association.

Dares Farwell to Referendum.

"Let the Farwell coterie of reformers try their pet hobby on the people by accepting some agreement for a referendum vote as set forth in the resolution approved Monday night by the city council," said Mr. Malwurm. "We dare them to make such a test of the popular opinion. Of course, we don't expect them to agree to be bound by the vote of the people. They want to rule or ruin us with an old blue law passed forty or fifty years ago, and which would mean anti-home rule despotism if put in force here.

"The proof positive that the so-called Sunday closing crusade is not regarded as a home rule measure in this city is the vote of the council Monday night."

"I am satisfied," said Attorney Swenie, "that a referendum vote will be taken in the near future on the subject of Sunday closing and that the proposition would be overwhelmingly beaten. It is unquestionable that Sunday closing is a matter of public policy and therefore could be voted on under the public policy act."

Secretary M. J. McCarthy of the Liquor Dealers' organization said:

"It is probable that a petition will be circulated for a referendum vote in the spring."

Disputs Obsoleteness of Law.

The statement in the council resolution that the Sunday closing law is obsolete was disputed by Attorneys Walker and Raphael and President Farwell of the Law and Order league.

"What has become obsolete is not the law but the disposition to obey the law," said Mr. Walker. "This disposition to disobey the law is a horrible legacy left over from the justice shops, now abolished forever. Organizations of the liquor interests have existed in the past to defeat the law, but now for the first time there is in existence an organization of church forces to enforce the law."

CLEW ON CHICAGOAN'S DEATH; SIX PERSONS ARE HUNTED.

Oakland Police Think Men Seen Near Tragedy Could Explain How Bellows Was Slain.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Police, investigating the death of Frank Bellows, the Chicago boy, are now trying to establish the identity of six persons seen near where his body was found on the night of the murder.

Bellows was found dead near the home of Harry G. Kleinschmidt, a student, and rival of Bellows for the affections of Blanche Kerfoot, after he had gone to meet young Kleinschmidt.

R. N. Peck, 2400 Dana street, accompanied Bellows, but refused to enter the house. While he was waiting nearby six persons passed him, coming from the direction of the Kleinschmidt house. These are the persons the police are seeking.

Counsel for Kleinschmidt are busy trying to secure a writ of habeas corpus. The writ issued by Judge Harris was made returnable on Friday at 2 p. m.

AIRSHIP FLIES FOUR HOURS

Dirigible Craft Proves Worth as Army Men Look On.

SEVEN IN CAR CROSS HILLS.

Leo Stevens and Party Begin 125 Mile Trip in Massachusetts.

Hammondsport, N. Y., Nov. 26.—A world's record in aerial navigation was broken here today, when Glenn H. Curtiss made a successful ascent in a dirigible airship and remained about four hours in the air. He made the ascent to demonstrate certain features of a special motor to a number of representatives of the United States war department.

The slight wooden car in which reposed the twin motors, with the steering apparatus and a seat for Mr. Curtiss, was suspended from a large gas bag. The ascent was made by the natural inflation of the bag, aided by the power of the motors applied to the twin propellers.

Curtiss ascended to a height of several hundred feet before he gave the full power to the motors, and showed the ship capable of a speed of thirty miles an hour or better. At times he descended within easy speaking distance of the earth and then ascended again until the machine was almost lost to view in the clouds.

The company which owns the machine is about to close a contract with the war department for the manufacture of a large number of the type of motors used in today's flight to be used by the department in its airship experiments.

New England Aeronauts Challenge.

St. Lous, Mo., Nov. 26.—Officers of the Aero club of St. Louis were informed tonight that the St. Louis club, together with the Aero Club of America and the Aero Club of Philadelphia, has been challenged by the Aero Club of New England to a time and distance flight, with Pittsfield, Mass., as the starting point.

The conditions call for a race of three and one-half hours' duration in balloons not exceeding 40,000 cubic feet capacity, the winner to be the balloon landing the greatest air line distance from Pittsfield within the specified time. The date was not stated.

Seven in Car Cross Mountains.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The balloon All America, carrying seven persons, today made a flight of 125 miles, measured as the crow flies, in five and one-half hours.

Piloted by Leo Stevens of New York, the balloon ascended from Pittsfield, Mass., bound for Boston. The wind was from the wrong direction, however, and although Mr. Stevens drove the balloon to an altitude of two miles he was unable to get into any current which would take him to the eastward.

He then dropped to within 2,000 or 3,000 feet of the earth and drifted over the Berkshire hills, across the mountains of southern Vermont, up the Connecticut River valley for a way, and then across New Hampshire, landing near Canterbury.

HIGHBINDER MURDER SUSPECT IS CAPTURED IN NEW YORK.

Supposed Slayer of Chinese Merchant in Clark Street Finally Admits He Was in Chicago.

When caught he denied he had lived in Chicago. Later he admitted that he had been here some weeks ago. He answers the description of the murderer.

RELIGIOUS PLEA FROM BENCH

Jurist Deplores Idea Not to Refer to Christmas in Schools.

TEXT IN NEW YORK ACTION.

Canadian Court in Talk to Grand Jury Warns of Trend of Times.

St. John, N. B., Nov. 26.—The reported order issued by New York City school authorities forbidding reference to Christmas by the teachers or pupils in the school exercises was the subject of remarks from the bench by Judge Daniel Hanington of the Supreme court in his address to the grand jury today. Judge Hanington is one of the foremost laymen in the Anglican church in Canada.

"This wiping out of the minds and hearts of the children of all reference to Christ, all reference to the religion of which we boast, is fearful to contemplate. Our children are the bone of the country, and it is our duty to inform them on matters religious. Think of it! In New York, no child shall hear the name of Christ, especially at the joyous season, the approach of Christmas. His name is to be stricken from the hymns and carols. It is a great calamity that such should occur in a great country of 80,000,000 people; to think that the country shall be educated as if there were no God. They do not state that, but they are tending to that.

"I do not hold up my hand in judgment, but I feel that it is right to call the attention of the representatives of our people to this occurrence by way of warning. We are doing our duty to our children to whom we some day will hand over this great country. We should not take a step that will call down the anger of God. It will be said that it is not my place to make these remarks from the bench, but I feel that it is my duty."

LIGHT FOR HEALY ON MILK COMBINE

Two Voluntary Witnesses Give Information Indicating Existence of Trust.

EFFORT TO RAISE PRICE.

Offer of $500 Said to Have Been Made to Officers of South Side Local.

Information that members of the Illinois Milk Dealers' association, comprising the dealers within the alleged milk trust, made overtures to certain officers of the Chicago Retail Milk Dealers' association on the subject of raising the retail price of milk was given to State's Attorney John J. Healy yesterday by two voluntary witnesses.

Mr. Healy declined to tell the names of his informants. The data they furnished on the methods of the alleged milk combine, however, will form the basis of the state's attorney's investigation during the next few days.

Two prominent members of the Illinois Dealers' association, it was said, approached officers of the south side local of the Retail Dealers' association early in October. These officers were given to understand that it would be worth $500 to them if the south side local would take the lead in raising the price. They were told that the big dealers, including the Borden Condensed Milk company, would back up the action by following soon afterward with an equal increase.

Action by the Borden Company.

After the proposition of raising the price had been made to the officers of the south side local of the retailers' association, a meeting was held on or about Oct. 13, at which a resolution was adopted increasing the price.

Later an attempt was made to have the central organization of the retailers' association adopt a similar resolution, thus binding the entire organization to an advance in price. This attempt failed and the south side local, it was stated, seeing it had been made a "cat's paw" for the big dealers, promptly repudiated its resolution.

These proceedings, Mr. Healy was told, were reported to the New York office of the Borden Condensed Milk company. A few days later orders came back from New York to the Chicago officials of the Borden company to take the initiative in raising the price. Notices of the advance then were sent out by the Borden company and the other dealers in the Illinois Dealers' association followed suit within a few days with identical notices to their customers.

Short Measure Bottles Found.

City Sealer Kjellander today will start a number of suits against dealers found to have been selling to short measure. The following dealers were found with short measure bottles:

John Galligan, 960 West Monroe street.
R. H. Foy, 1342 West Polk street.
Otto G. Bershold, 329 East Fifty-fifth street.
Joseph F. Rowe, 5471 Drexel avenue.
Dowd Pure Milk company, 4326 Wabash avenue.
Stephen B. Jones, 5314 Monroe avenue.
Ernest Stanley, 5216 Lake avenue.
C. Boeming, 417 Cleveland avenue.
A. Johnson, 1317 Wellington street.
R. Schultz, 388 Dayton street.
Lowry & Co., 461 East Division street.
E. Kalbom, 486 North Park avenue.
M. Merkle, 412 Sedgwick street.
William McCain, 493 La Salle avenue.

An attorney for the Bowman Dairy company told Mr. Kjellander it was impossible to make all bottles of uniform size.

"Measure up all your bottles and throw out all the short ones," said the city sealer. "That will give you the right size bottles."

Frank Jagulaski, 263 North avenue, and Joseph Kopola, 350 Carpenter street, were fined $25 and $50 respectively by Judge Scovel for selling milk below grade. More than 100 dealers accused of selling low grade milk will be summoned to court on Dec. 10.

Profits in Dairy Farming.

Light on the condition of the dairy farmers is thrown by the following communication from a correspondent for THE TRIBUNE:

"Within the last week or so, Chicago has been hearing and reading a great deal about the country producers of milk who have had to raise their prices or go out of business, there being little or no profit in conducting it.

"Up in Walworth county, Wis., where much of the Chicago supply is produced, one man with a herd of thirteen cows cleaned up $837 from milk sales in nine months, and another dairyman with seven cows sold in the same length of time milk to the amount of $420.

"Not long since a dairyman at Barrington, Ill., produced figures to show that from feeding thirty-two cows at a cost of $1,501 in one year's time he produced and sold products of his dairy to the amount of $2,787. This showed a profit of $1,286 from the thirty-two cows."

ACCUSED BY DEAD AND LIVING

Combined Evidence Against Mrs. Lucy Hagenow, Midwife.

LOLA MADDISON STATEMENT

Given by Sister of Mrs. Annie Bradley Just Before Death.

By a peculiar series of circumstances that only can be accounted for as a grewsome coincidence the spirit of Lola Maddison arose yesterday as from the grave to point an accusing finger at the woman held responsible for her death—Mrs. Lucy Hagenow. Mrs. Hagenow, the midwife, is on trial in Judge Chetlain's court charged with criminal responsibility for the death of at least two persons.

At the moment that the identity of the Maddison woman was revealed in Chicago lawyers in Washington were making a last plea for her sister, Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, on trial for the killing of Senator Frank Brown of Utah. It was not until yesterday that it was brought out at the trial that the Maddison woman was the sister of Mrs. Bradley.

It was a day of tension and sensations in the Hagenow hearing. Sergt. George Pearsall had testified to the circumstances which, it appeared, would convince the jury that the woman on trial was criminally responsible for the death of Mrs. Anna Horavitch. Then Assistant State's Attorney Barbour drew from his pocket an ominous looking paper which he threw upon the table right under the eyes of Mrs. Hagenow.

Offers Dead Woman's Testimony.

"There is the testimony of a dead woman—a woman whose death was brought about by this woman now on trial. Her dying statement will prove the responsibility of the prisoner," said Mr. Barbour.

Mrs. Hagenow's lawyers jumped up objecting to having the document introduced in evidence.

"But I insist," exclaimed Mr. Barbour. "It is the dying statement of Lola Maddison, who identified Mrs. Hagenow as the woman who performed the criminal operation upon her."

There was more arguing and it was decided by Judge Chetlain that the statement could not be admitted as evidence because of the fact that the defendant was not present when it was made. The Maddison woman's statement was heard, however, in another form.

Sergt. Pearsall told of taking Mrs. Hagenow to the Passavant hospital before Miss Maddison's death and how the girl had identified her as the woman who had performed the operation.

"After Miss Maddison had identified her," said the policeman, "Mrs. Hagenow leaned forward and rubbed her face, telling her to say nothing further. Then she whispered something in her ear."

Husband Locked In with Dying Wife.

Previous to this the jury had listened to a dramatic recital of the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Horavitch at her home, 480 North Clark street. Michael Horavitch, her husband, told the story.

"On the night my wife died this woman [indicating Mrs. Hagenow] absolutely prevented me from summoning any other medical assistance. I had noticed that Mrs. Hagenow acted peculiarly, even wearing a revolver attached to a little chain at her side.

"When I found that my wife's condition was so serious I said that I was going for another doctor. But Mrs. Hagenow refused to permit me to, saying that it was unnecessary. When I insisted upon going she waited until a favorable opportunity, then slipped out of my wife's bedroom while I was in there, and turned the key in the lock. There, in spite of my entreaties and threats, I was kept a prisoner.

"Until 5 o'clock in the morning I was compelled to remain a prisoner in that room, watching my wife slowly dying and unable to get any other medical attention than this woman. It was shortly before daybreak that I managed to make my escape and go for a doctor. When I returned I found that I was too late. My wife was beyond need of medical attention."

The interest being shown in the case by Chicago physicians was indicated by the presence during the hearing of Dr. Rudolph Holmes, representing the Chicago Medical society. Dr. Holmes said that it was because of Mrs. Hagenow's previous record that he was desirous of securing her conviction.

Dr. Holmes expressed the opinion that it was her work alone that caused the death of Mrs. Horavitch. Dr. Warren H. Hunter, coroner's physician, went further, saying positively that the cause of the woman's death was blood poisoning resulting from an illegal operation.

Some people, unknowingly, use up more energy digesting heavy foods taken in excess, under the false impression that the "more they eat the more they can do," than they exert in doing their regular work.

Why not economize energy? It means the capacity to accomplish more, and that means more money. Change off from a heavy meat and pan-cake breakfast to a dish of Grape-Nuts and cream, a soft boiled egg or two, and note how you can get through the morning's work and have a lot of energy left over—a thing that is a pleasure of itself.

Grape-Nuts contains all the food elements from wheat and barley for "economizing energy."

Northwestern Favors More Football Next Year. Start of Endurance Test. Siler.

WILL ADVOCATE MORE FOOTBALL.

Northwestern to Vote for a Seven Game Schedule at Conference.

STUDENTS SEE A LIGHT.

Resumption of Outside Games at Evanston School Rests with Trustees.

Advocates of a seven game football schedule for the universities of the "big nine" conference will find a supporter this year in Northwestern university. That school, through action by its trustees, is debarred from intercollegiate games, but will vote through its faculty representative at the conference meeting on Saturday against continuing the five game schedule which has been tried for two years by all the big nine members except Michigan and Northwestern, which has met no outside teams.

Less radical rules governing the players' time of eligibility also may be approved by Northwestern. There seems little hope this year for the return of the Methodist school to the intercollegiate football arena, but the students are preparing to petition to that end.

To Petition Trustees.

The students have voiced their protest at having to be satisfied with interclass contests and many alumni are ready to urge a return to former condition. The faculty, to which the students have appealed, is powerless to aid. The ban on football was placed by the university trustees, and only the trustees can rescind the action.

The sentiment of the Northwestern faculty toward football will be shown on Saturday at the conference meeting. All season the faculty has kept watch of western football and its advocacy of a longer schedule and less restrictive rules in other matters is the result.

Although the conference meeting and its actions will have nothing to do with the football situation in Northwestern, the meeting has increased interest among the student body, and the next step will be to petition the trustees for the reinstatement of the game at Evanston.

Purple Vote Is Settled.

"After discussion with the other members of the faculty committee here I will vote in favor of the seven game varsity schedule," said Prof. R. E. Wilson, Northwestern's representative. "I do not think this schedule is too heavy and am of the opinion that the other representatives will take the same view of the matter at Saturday's meeting of the conference."

Prof. Wilson said that while he and the other members of the school's committee on athletics discussed some of the other questions that will come before the conference no final conclusion has been reached, and his vote on these questions will depend to a great extent upon developments in the conference.

The proposed intercollegiate cross country run to be held annually under the direction of the Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association hereafter on the Saturday before Thanksgiving probably will be decided upon by the members of the conference.

In speaking of the probability of the reinstatement of intercollegiate football at Northwestern Prof. Wilson said he was of the opinion the student body would petition the trustees for this. "I suspect the students have something in regard to that on tap and will possibly take action by petitioning the trustees," Prof Wilson remarked.

The faculty athletic committee at Northwestern consists of Profs. Wilson, T. S. Deibler, J. Goldthwaite, and Lewis O. Gillesby, athletic director. Prof. Wilson is Northwestern's representative at the faculty conference and will attend the conference with Prof. Gillesby.

Wisconsin Faculty in Line.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin athletic council met with Dr. Hutchins tonight to talk over modifications of the conference rules at the meeting next Saturday. While no positive information was given out, it is said the council gave Director Hutchins permission to vote for a seven game schedule next year. This will have to be approved by the Wisconsin faculty before it is binding on the university.

READY FOR NOTRE DAME GAME.

St. Vincent's Eleven Gets Hard Scrimmage to Finish Work for Tomorrow's Contest—Officials Named.

When Notre Dame lines up against the St. Vincent's college eleven at the local team's grounds tomorrow it will be the first appearance of the South Bend team on a local gridiron since Notre Dame and Northwestern played a tie game before the cessation of football at the Evanston school.

Coach Haggerty of St. Vincent's gave his players their last hard work yesterday in a thirty-five minute scrimmage with the scrubs. The regulars scored 36 points. Quarter Back Burson drop kicked two field goals from the 30 and 43 yards lines. Capt. Obermeyer's knee is giving him much trouble, but he is expected to take part in the game.

The officials selected for the game are: Referee, McCornack of Dartmouth; umpire, Connor of Harvard; field judge, Merriweather of Beloit; head linesman, Steffen of Chicago; timekeeper, Casserly of Illinois.

St. Ignatius to Play Marquettes.

The St. Ignatius college eleven will play the Marquette college team from Milwaukee at West End ball park tomorrow afternoon. The visitors will come in a special train with a large number of rooters.

GAMES IN BOWLING LEAGUES.

High Scores Made by Business Men's Teams—Three Cosmos Rollers Beat 200 Mark.

High scores were made by the Business Men's league bowlers last night, the Cosmos club going at a faster clip than any of the teams have hit this year in that league for an average of 988 flat. The feature of the series was the work of the three leaders on the Cosmos five, who rolled nine games, every one of which went over the 200 mark. McCoy averaged 204 1-3, Harry Leffingwell 203 2-3, and Joe Rivest 223 1-3.

In the Monroe league the Blue Islands dropped a game to the Sunsets after averaging 933 to the losing side's 921. Scores:

IT'S A GAY LIFE IN THE GASOLINE WHIRL.

FORMER DIAMOND STAR DIES

"Eddie" Burke Succumbs in Charity Hospital at Utica.

ONCE A POLO GROUNDS IDOL.

Right Field in New York Named After Him While Playing There.

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Edward Burke, formerly a famous ball player with the New York Giants, died in the city hospital here today, a charity patient. Burke was 43 years old. For the last year or so he has worked as cook for a section gang on the New York Central railroad, in this vicinity.

"Eddie" Burke was for years one of the most popular baseball players in the National league, and the idol of many New York fans. He covered right field for the New York Giants when John M. Ward was a member of that team. Burke was a great outfielder, and the territory which he covered at the Polo grounds was named "Burkeville" in his honor. That name even now is sometimes used referring to right garden.

He probably earned more in one season as a ball player than he has received in five years since quitting the diamond, when the younger players began to crowd the older men from the ranks. Since he has been in this vicinity Burke has been but a shadow of his former self.

He was taken seriously ill over a month ago, since when he has been in the general hospital, where all possible has been done for him in his last days. Domestic difficulties were responsible for Burke's ill luck in recent years.

SECRETARY M'ROY CORRECTS OFFICIAL FIELDING AVERAGES.

He Finds Several Errors in Records Given Out—Washington Club Seventh Instead of Eighth in List.

Several typographical and clerical errors discovered in the American league's official fielding averages as promulgated this week prompted Secretary McRoy to give out a list of corrections yesterday.

In team fielding the Washington club was found to rank seventh instead of eighth, with a team average of 950 instead of 935. The Philadelphia club was robbed of an even 500 assists, its club total being 1,999 instead of 1,499, as the official list indicated. The Athletics' team average was correct, however. Other mistakes corrected follow:

Among the first basemen Anderson of Washington ranks sixth instead of twelfth, his average being .938 instead of .967. Grimshaw of Boston has a percentage of .973 instead of .966.

Bradley of Cleveland should be placed third among the third basemen instead of fifth, his average being .938. Thomas of New York ranks twenty-first among the catchers with an average of .953 instead of .898.

Congalton was incorrectly credited to the Cleveland club instead of to Boston, where he played this year. Harris of Boston has a pitcher's fielding average of .880 instead of .860, as published.

Artie Hofman's trip to Chicago in search of enthusiasm for indoor baseball may not be wasted after all. Several of the local colony of professional ball players are going in for the game this year, among them Billy Sullivan, the White Sox catcher, and Herman Schaefer and Charley O'Leary of Detroit, who have been secured to play with Frank McNichols' Lawndales. Hofman's purpose is to get up a team of Chicago players to meet a similar team of St. Louis players in that city.

The purpose of Secretary Knowles of the New York Nationals in visiting Chicago last week was disclosed by the announcement Mike Donlin had signed with the Giants for next year. It was not announced whether the new contract called for Donlin to settle with the national commission for playing "semi-pro" ball in this city last season or whether the club itself will pay the fine.

President Comiskey of the White Stockings settled the ghost of the story that he was going to the Pacific coast next week to spend the winter by announcing yesterday that he had a trip on the houseboat White Sox planned out and would adhere to it. "Doug," the boat's chef, was dispatched to St. Louis last night to board the houseboat, which will start south at once. President Comiskey and Manager Cantillon of Washington will be the backbone of a party which expects to pick up the boat on Dec. 5 and invade the Red river section before returning. Negotiations for the Sox training trip to California still are on, however.

President O'Neill of the Western league left last night for a trip to California for the better part of the winter. He will visit the different cities in his circuit before reaching the coast.

Mitchell, S. D., Nov. 26.—Dakota Wesleyan university today defeated the Yankton college eleven by a score of 21 to 0.

HANDICAP WON BY RED FRIAR.

Dwyer's Old Horse Gallops Home Three Lengths in Front of Ironsides in Bennings Feature.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—P. J. Dwyer's Red Friar was victorious in the handicap at a mile and a quarter at Bennings today. Bill Daly's Grace Cameron showed the way for half a mile, where Ironsides, Lally, and Red Friar passed her. Then McDaniel let Red Friar down and the old horse galloped home three lengths in front of Ironsides, with Lally five lengths back.

Joseph Marrone, who has been ruled off the Washington track for the alleged "doping" of the horse St. Joseph, says he is innocent and that he has been made a mark of because he raced at the Empire City meeting. NULLIFIES THE ANTI-POOL LAW.

Missouri Judge Gives Decision Which May Open St. Louis to Handbook Game Once More.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 26.—A decision was rendered by Circuit Judge George H. Williams today which practically renders void the new anti-pool selling law enacted by the last legislature and opens up the way in St. Louis for a resumption of handbook bets on racing. In freeing Frank O'Haver, a barber, of the charge of pool selling, Judge Williams ruled that, to prove the offense charged, it must be shown the race on which O'Haver placed a bet was actually run, and that the horse on which the money was placed ran. For this proof, the court holds, a published "form sheet" or subsequent published account of the races cannot furnish convicting proof.

EASTERN CRACK IS WINNER

Jack Atkin, 1 to 4 Choice, Beats Good Field at New Orleans.

WINS IN DECISIVE STYLE.

Pinkola Scores Fifth Straight Victory in the Third Event.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The appearance of Jack Atkin in a race at City park today marked the first appearance of the local season of one of the eastern stars which were promised for the winter racing. Schreiber's colt was made the top weight in a condition event that brought out several other candidates for stake honors.

In the field with Jack Atkin were Dashaway, generally considered one of the best of the string of Burlew & O'Neill, Chief Hayes, Faust, and John Carroll, but he beat his company and proved conclusively that he will be one of the good horses of the season. His winning margin was only two lengths, but he might have made it a dozen.

The crack western youngster Pinkola won his fifth straight race when he finished first in a field of four in the third event. There was early talk of the chance of his being beaten by Goldquest, but when the time for betting came Pinkola was at prohibitive odds and Goldquest a receding second choice. The Fizer colt had no trouble in disposing of his field and Goldquest, tiring in a hard chase after the favorite, bore out at the finish and lost the place to the 30 to 1 chance, Listerine.

The only sensational finish of the day was that between Tinker and Rebounder in the sixth race. Tinker was a pronounced choice in the bettting, while Rebounder was one of the outsiders. Tinker was much the best and had to be to win. Delaby got her away in front, but, being a slow beginner, Tinker was crowded back and shuffled about until on the backstretch she was last. From the half mile ground, however, she began to move up and after a hard drive through the last quarter, when she gained the lead, managed to last long enough to win by a nose when Rebounder came along with a booming challenge.

First race, ⅝ mile—Severus, 110 pounds [Heidel], 6 to 1, won; Benrose, 107 [V. Powers], 12 to 1, second; Polar Star, 107 [Leibert], 9 to 2, third. Time, 1:03 3-5. Cuernavaca, Darling Dan, Tim Kelly, Pink Cap, Bill Cowden, Knox Boyd, McCracken, Head Line, and Milo ran.

Second race, ¾ mile, selling—Glamor, 104 pounds [Sumter], 4 to 1, won; No Quarter, 106 [A. Pickens], 5 to 1, second; Coon, 110 [C. Koerner], even, third. Time, 1:17. George Bailey, Gold Duke, Blackburn, Grace George, and Sadie Gay ran.

Third race, ⅞ mile—Pinkola, 105 pounds [Minder], 1 to 3, won; Listerine, 107½ [Mountain], 30 to 1, second; Goldquest, 105 [Sumter], 5 to 2, third. Time, 1:31 1-5. Ansonia ran.

Fourth race, ¾ mile—Jack Atkin, 117 pounds [Finn], 1 to 4, won; Ed. Kane, 85½ [Delaby], 30 to 1, second; Dashaway, 108 [James Hennessy], 30 to 1, third. Time, 1:16 2-5. Mike Sutton, Chief Hayes, Faust, L. S. B., and John Carroll ran.

Fifth race, 1¼ miles, selling—Flavigny, 101 pounds [Delaby], 3 to 1, won; Seasalt, 92 [Sumter], 8 to 1, second; Agile, 104 [W. Walsh], 9 to 10, third. Time, 1:58 2-5. Little Lighter ran.

Sixth race, 1 mile, selling—Tinker, 101 pounds [Delaby], 8 to 5, won; Rebounder, 109 [J. Baker], 12 to 1, second; Goldway, 106 [C. Koerner], 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:45 2-5. Dr. McCluer, Arabo, Daring, Fonsoluca, and Horse Radish ran.

RELIABILITY TEST A RUN OF THRILLS

Three Cars Totally Out and Twelve Penalized Result of Drive to South Bend.

MISHAPS TO MOTORISTS.

Coey's Machine Goes Into a Ditch but No One Is Hurt; Twenty-three Perfect Scores.

Traveling 220 miles to South Bend, Ind., and return over roads that were far from being in the usual good condition totally eliminated three automobiles from the three days' reliability test of the Chicago Motor club. In all twelve of the thirty-five cars that started early yesterday morning were penalized. Twenty-three had perfect scores.

This result surprised many, as it had been supposed that as usual in reliability runs only three or four would suffer penalties. But the rules drafted by the Motor club proved so severe and so strenuous that twelve suffered. In all but one instance these penalties were for work done on the cars which was charged at so many points a minute.

It was a run that was filled with thrills, and in which there were a couple of mishaps that might have resulted disastrously to those riding in the machines. The first to get in trouble was C. A. Coey in the Thomas Flyer, who, being unfamiliar with the road, failed to notice the turn from Michigan avenue into One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street in time to check his speed. In consequence he went into the ditch and his observer, R. I. Eads, was scratched up a bit. C. E. Gregory, treasurer of the Chicago Automobile club, also was in the car, but he escaped without a scratch. The ditching broke an axle on the car and caused its withdrawal from the contest.

Cook Refuses to Give Up Run.

Near Dolton No. 1, the Royal Tourist, driven by R. W. Cook, got into hot water through the snapping of a rear anxle. Cook immediately jumped on a train, came into town, secured another rear axle, returned, and fitted it to the car, and was on his way again after a delay of four hours and forty-five minutes. This heavily penalized him, but he kept on and made up two hours before he checked in at the end. He intends to compete again today.

C. W. Price and the Marion also were eliminated. Price also had axle trouble just after striking the Indiana roads. He skidded on a piece of ice rounding a turn while trying to make up time and this brought about the disaster. The third car to retire was the Frayer Miller, which, while it went the route, came in with a cracked frame, which caused it to be scratched from the running.

The Rapid bus made a most creditable run. It had trouble with its switch before the start, which made it late in getting away, incurring 75 points penalization. After it got going, however, it made all the controls ahead of time, and practically made a perfect score. The driver of this rig neglected to take his tools with him, so if he had got into trouble he would have been sidetracked. The bus carried twelve passengers.

The first car in was the Pierce Arrow six, No. 2, which arrived a few minutes before 3 o'clock, nearly an hour ahead of schedule. It had had some trouble with a wire that wrapped around the rear brake, and fixing this brought on the penalization. From this time on the others came rolling in, and by 8 o'clock all were on hand and in the garage, whereupon the contest committee retired to make up its report.

Penalization of Cars.

In the case of the Reo and the Royal Tourist the committee was unable to arrive at the exact penalization. That will be settled today. The Matheson No. 7 was penalized because its driver was forced to tie a string around a sprag to keep it from dragging. The Matheson roadster had trouble with a radius rod, while a trifling brake adjustment cost one of the Locomobiles ten points. The Maxwell suffered a heavy penalty because of motor troubles, but pluckily made all its controls on time.

Following is the report of the technical committee in the matter of penalizations:

IN THE WAKE OF THE WALK.

BY HEK.

Walk and the world walks with you.
Ride and you ride alone.
For you would not stand
For the outstretched hand
Of the guinea without a bone.

Life would have been fuller for Old Sport Campana had he lived until yesterday. He would have met his old college chum on the outskirts of the city and sold him 15 cents' worth of gum.

Dan O'Leary, the elocutionist, was wont to resent the acceptance of himself as Dan O'Leary, the walker. In these hours of the walking renaissance he is not making any strenuous objections as to the mistaking of his identity, but on the contrary is making the most of it.

Let's revive the old yarn about "Scully the Walker." Perhaps a few of our old settlers who don't go back more than twenty years have not heard it. In the days when the heel-and-toe craze had Chicago by the neck the keeper of a Clark street drum laid out a fifty-four lap track in his drum and hired Scully to "pad the hoof" to a fare you well. Scully took his job quite serenely and only stopped to take a drink with all comers, which was a part of the contract.

We might as well pause here to explain that the yarn has been a classic in Chicago since the days Weston wore the sash and the riding whip, and that no claim to originality is now being urged. Very well. Tom Cusack painted a sign that hung across the front of the Clark street drum. It said: "Scully is still walking." A mad wag who had appeased Scully's thirst between laps many times conceived and carried out the following substitution: "Scully is a walking still."

P. S.—We expect only the younger generation to crack a smile at this, as we are Joseph to the antiquity of the wheeze.

Technically Weston completed his journey when his foot slipped over the state line just after leaving Hammond, Ind. Forty years ago Chicago began at Thirty-ninth street and did not begin to look like a settlement until Twenty-second was reached.

The vegetable diet which suffered quite a slump when the Indians overwhelmed Stagg's team took an upward turn when the grand old perambulator strolled into town.

Among those still sticking about who grabbed Weston's sterilized mitt when he strode into town forty years ago are Charley Matthews and Tom Foley. There are a few others, but as they are not at all proud of their age we withhold their names.

If getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning and traveling all day with one's knees up to one's chin in an automobile is not a reliability test it must be something else.

There's another O'Leary, who, if the grand jury keeps its word, is slated for a long walk.

The Law and Order league might make something of the fact that Mr. Weston always closes up on Sunday.

Now for the sound feet and the oatmeal diet.

Well, they are Mr. Weston's own feet.

If living to be 69 entails walking from Portland, Me., to Chicago we reckon we'll have to pass.

FARMER AND SULLIVAN READY.

Battle Between Chicagoan and "Twin" at Los Angeles Tonight Promises to Be a Rattling Contest.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—"Kid" Farmer of Chicago and Mike ("Twin") Sullivan of Boston, who meet here tomorrow night in a twenty round battle, have broken camp and will rest until the tap of the gong which sends them together for what may prove to be the last twenty round pugilistic event to be held in Los Angeles. Both battlers claim to be in the best of condition, and as the men were not required to make any stipulated weight a rattling fight should result.

The Boston boy has been installed favorite at 10 to 7. It is the belief of many that the hairless one is too clever for Farmer, who has nothing to recommend him except bulldog courage and wild swings. Should one of these land on the right spot it probably would send the "Twin" to dreamland.

Abe Attel, who is handling Farmer, says "Twin" will run into a surprise tomorrow night. This assertion only makes Mike smile.

YACHTSMEN ELECT OFFICERS.

The Chicago Yacht club, at its annual dinner and election in the Victoria hotel last night, elected the following officers, only one ticket being in the field: Commodore, John B. George A. Black and M. MacLeod hold over as trustees until 1908. Secretary Soule reported the last year was the most prosperous in the club's history. He said the last year had been a record breaker in the number of additions to the club, there having been admitted to the fleet two gasoline or cabin cruisers, two steam yachts, and seven sailing yachts, the fleet now numbering fifty.

NELSON WILLING TO MEET "PACKEY"

Dane, According to a Report from Denver, Will Fight if Coin Is Shown.

M'FARLAND TO BE BUSY.

Local Lightweight Has Offer of $5,000 for Three Battles in New York.

BY GEORGE SILER.

If reports from Denver can be relied on there is a possible chance of Batling Nelson and "Packey" McFarland coming together. The report states Nelson is in that city en route for the coast and that when he received the news that Joe Gans is touting McFarland as the coming lightweight champion and that he is willing to bet [illegible] "Packey" can defeat him, the Dane said he would fight the Chicagoan if any club shows the color of the coin.

Nelson, according to the dispatch, is made to say that the reason Gans wants to see him hook up with McFarland is because he, Gans, is afraid to fight him. A fight between "Packey" and Nelson, if staged in this neck of the woods, would draw a tremendous crowd, as they have a large number of followers throughout the middle west. "Packey" is known by reputation only in the far west and the promoters in that section of the country would not care to guarantee so large a purse for the fight as they would for one between Gans and the Dane. Should McFarland fail to match with "Bat" he would not be compelled to remain idle, as there are a number of good fighters in his division who would like to give him a whirl.

Yesterday Harry Gilmore Jr., who guides "Packey" over the pugilistic ruts, received a $5,000 offer for McFarland to fight two ten and one six round no decision fights in New York City. The men whom the promoter wants the Chicagoan to tackle are Matty Baldwin, Amby McGarry, "Young" Erne, Tommy Murphy, Johnny Summers, and Bert Keyes, but "Packey" can select his opponents. Gilmore said last night provided he accepted the proposition that he would match with Baldwin and McGarry first and if his boy beats them he will select the third man from the others named. He prefers, however, to meet Erne and Murphy at Philadelphia, because they are strong attractions in that city. "The man we most desire to fight," said Harry, "is Batling Nelson and we will not bother with any one else until we learn there is no chance to fight him. Philadelphia wants "Packey" for Murphy and Milwaukee would like him to fight either Murphy or Dick Hyland. The latter is expected here within the next forty-eight hours and if we cannot hook up with Bat we will match with him before we go east."

Tom McCarey, the Los Angeles fight promoter, has offered Hugo Kelly a chance to fight that tough colored middleweight, Sam Langford, before his club on Dec. 13. Hugo, however, turned it down for several reasons. First because the time is too short to condition himself properly for so tough an opponent; second, because he has drawn the color line; and, third, because he has something on hand at Buffalo. The man Kelly prefers to exchange wallops with is Bill Papke, and he says he cannot understand why Bill is so backward in coming forward. He signed a set of articles to fight the Spring Valley fighter and is patiently waiting for him to do likewise.

Tommy Ryan also would like to give Papke a tryout simply to convince the fistic fans and his friends in particular that he still is good enough to trim the aspirants for the middleweight championship. Tommy, however, would want at least six months to prepare for a fight and says he would not enter into a match until he gave himself a severe tryout. "I feel good and strong and imagine I am as clever as ever," said Tommy, "but I would like to be sure of myself before I get too deep into a match. I may have too much confidence in my ability, but I am willing to take a chance and if defeated I will take my hat off to my conqueror."

Bill Squires, ex-heavyweight champion of Australia, is to be given another chance to demonstrate his abilities. The latest regarding Bill is that a club at Bakersfield, Cal., has offered him a match with Jim Flynn, who recently was defeated by Jack Johnson. Bill accepted the offer, a guaranteed purse of [illegible],500, to fight twenty rounds on Dec. 24, and is waiting to hear from Flynn. The latter gave Jack "Twin" Sullivan two hard fights and as Jack beat Squires, he should beat the Australian.

A club at Worth, Ill., offers the following fistic spread for Thanksgiving afternoon: Johnny Connors vs. Nate Roberts, Frankie Brown vs. Jack Gritte, and Willie Murphy vs. Clarence Warner in a ten round windup.

Mike McGee, a Canadian heavyweight oarsman and fighter, 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighing [illegible] pounds, drifted into town and desires a chance to demonstrate his fistic skill.

DONKEY IS DEFENDED.

The four democratic doctrines the president will not indorse, the speaker gave as tariff reform, the election of senators by direct vote, the promise of ultimate independence to the Filipino, and the restriction of the use of the injunction in labor disputes. Two Views of Government.

Mr. Bryan then proceeded to present the democratic view and the republican view of government—Jefferson being the representative of those who view government from the standpoint of the whole people, and Hamilton representing those from the standpoint of those who deny the right and the capacity of the people to self-government.

"When I want to ascertain a man's point of view, I tell him the story of Lazarus and Dives. If he is a democrat he regrets that there is any one who is compelled to live on crumbs, and begins to devise some remedy that will enable that one to have a table of his own and not be dependent on the crumbs that fall from the table of another. "This is no imaginary test. It is a practical one. You will find that the democrat looks at public questions from the standpoint of the masses, and asks what will be best for the people as a whole, while the republican leaders subordinate the 'captains of industry' and regard the employer as a sort of trustee to whom the government should give all that is intended for the employes.

Merely Question of Remedies.

"And I may add, the difference in the point of view will explain the difference in the remedies proposed to relieve the present financial stringency. The republican leaders have so tied the country to Wall street that 80,000,000 of people must shiver when the Wall street speculators get cold. The republican remedies all provide that the high financiers shall be well paid for acting as guardians, while democratic remedies look to the protection of the depositors and the business of the country.

"The time is ripe for a democratic appeal to the democratic sentiment of the country. There is no doubt that a large majority of the people take the democratic, rather than the aristocratic, view of government and of society. All that we have to do is to convince those who are really democratic in sentiment that the democratic party can be trusted to be democratic if intrusted with power. I believe that in the coming congress our democratic senators and representatives will prove themselves equal to the task imposed upon them, and demonstrate the fidelity of the party to democratic principles. With a united party we can face a divided opposition and enter the campaign with the assurance of a victory."

Tammany Man Quotes Vest.

District Commissioner West was introduced by Willis J. Abbot as toastmaster at 11 o'clock and at once inaugurated the speech making. J. J. Hagan of Tammany Hall began by quoting a saying of the late Senator Vest, "Whatever may be said of the Tammany tiger, its claws are always dripping with republican blood."

Representative Ollie James of Kentucky paid his respects to President Roosevelt for his action in leaving the words, "In God We Trust," off the new ten dollar gold coins. "The republican party has destroyed all the ideals of the revolutionary fathers," he said. "The final act is taking the words 'In God We Trust' from the gold coins—the symbol of the United States as a Christian nation. We may suppose that Roosevelt will sanction the substitution of the Teddy bear in the place of these words. But, it may be said, that the people of the country may well trust in God now as the republican party has become a party of panic instead of prosperity."

More Cheer from Williams.

Representative John Sharp Williams, minority leader in the house, spoke more courage for the democratic party now than for many years.

"Nothing but the democratic party," he said, "could have survived all the mistakes you and I have made, but it is the hope of the republic."

While Mr. Williams bore testimony that democrats in congress outworked and outtalked the other side, "the trouble is that you can't get eight of them into a mule team to pull the same way. We should recall that old proverb, 'In essentials unity, in nonessentials charity.'"

Although Mr. Williams admitted he would stultify himself if he said he agreed with Mr. Bryan about all things, he had come to the conclusion that the best chance of cohesion would be in the nomination of Mr. Bryan, who, he said, was the real leader of the party.

"The south will support him and if he cannot win then some of these days it will have something to say for itself."

BRYAN AND DANIEL IN TILT.

Senator John W. Daniel and William Jennings Bryan had an argumentative set-to in the Willard hotel today.

The peerless leader and the Virginia orator came face to face just outside the ladies' waiting room off the main lobby of the Willard. They had not seen each other for a long time, and in the interval Senator Daniel had criticised Mr. Bryan publicly for his several new "isms," particularly for his government ownership proposition.

Hardly had they shaken hands when the subject of Senator Daniel's criticism of Mr. Bryan came up.

"I like you personally, Mr. Bryan," said Senator Daniel, "but I do not like your methods."

"To what do you object particularly?" asked the Nebraskan.

"I object particularly, sir, to your attempt to dictate to the democratic party," responded Senator Daniel, promptly.

"When did I ever attempt to dictate to the democratic party?" came from Mr. Bryan.

"You dictated to it in 1900, sir, when you refused to run for president unless a free silver plank were retained in the platform," Senator Daniel answered.

"But you helped to draft the free silver platform in 1900, and were in favor of it," said Mr. Bryan.

Daniel Opposed Silver Plank.

"You are mistaken, sir," retorted Senator Daniel to Mr. Bryan's last remark. "I was temporary chairman of the '96 convention, and it is true I was a member of the committee on resolutions which drafted the platform. But I opposed a silver plank in committee. I regarded it as fatal to the party's prospects, and said so."

Mr. Bryan disclaimed any intention of dictating to his party, but Senator Daniel stuck to his point and then threw this hot shot: "Mr. Bryan, it is time you quit taking your cue from the Independence league and defer a little to the democratic party."

Bryan flushed under the thrust of Senator Daniel. There was an angry note in his voice as he came back sharply: "It is time to stop this discussion when you tell me where I shall get my cue."

Mr. Bryan turned on his heel and walked away. Senator Daniel walked away also, shaking his head vigorously.

DENOUNCE RULE OF TAGGART.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A federation of democratic clubs to be known as the "Bryan Volunteers" and organized under suggestions from Bryan at the Lafayette meeting last week was perfected today, and it is now the purpose of the organizers to form clubs in every township of the state.

The meeting was singular in the pronounced opposition of those present to Thomas Taggart and his methods. J. Kirby Risk, a member of the state central committee, presided, and his denunciation of Taggart and machine methods evoked great applause.

He declared that democrats are tired of Taggart's domination of the state organization and that the first duty of the party is to rid itself of him.

Three year term—R. T. A. Loftis, Dr. J. B. McFatrich, William Hale Thompson, Elmer E. Baldwin, and P. M. Hanney.

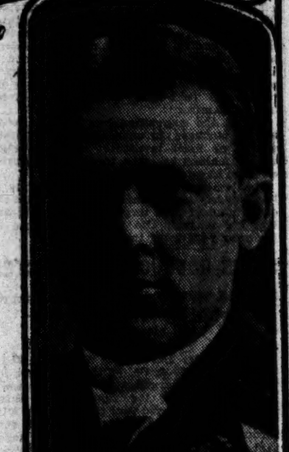

Two year term—E. C. Racey, E. T. Trigg, and W. C. Moulton.

One year term—Charles Stevenson, R. H. McCormick Jr., and W. J. Raymer.

Church Being Built Without Cash and Pastor Who Invented the Idea.

ST. PAUL'S ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH.

THE REV. LEO. HARRISVILLE

Instead of being only a nine days' wonder, the church in process of construction at Hirsch street and Washtenaw avenue promises to hold a permanent niche in the halls of fame because of the manner in which its financing has been handled. The Rev. Leo Harrisville, pastor of the church, the St. Paul's English Lutheran, declared yesterday that a new interest has sprung up in his plans since they were given publicity and that he is confident of completing his $75,000 church and parsonage with an expenditure of actual cash not exceeding $5,000.

Mr. Harrisville's plan has met with wonderful success up to the present time, which marks the halfway point in the building of the church. His system has been not the ordinary raising of funds, which would have proved difficult with such a small congregation as his, but the solicitation of contribution of materials and labor directly from the men who can supply his needs whether or not they are connected with his church or any other church.

Since September of last year, when he had plans drawn for the building, he has received seventy-two carloads of material, ranging from sand, cement, and crushed stone to wall paper, stained glass, and nails. The contributions of labor have been made mainly by the men and boys of his congregation, who have worked on the building nearly every evening from its beginning.

POPULISTS CHOOSE CONVENTION CITY.

St. Louis Wins Nominating Meeting; Time Is Fixed as April 2.

HAPPY OVER VICTORIES.

"Leading Figures" of Old Parties Praised as New Members of "Third" Clan.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 26.—After protracted balloting and consideration of the merits of several cities, the national committee of the people's party tonight selected St. Louis as the place for the national nominating convention, and set April 2 as the date for the gathering.

Besides disposing of the convention matter the committeemen, behind closed doors, prepared an address to the voters of the country which was issued tonight, and in which the "leading figures of the older parties" are complimented for taking up populistic teachings and are welcomed as converts.

An appeal for members of other parties to become populists concludes as follows:

"Those who can turn their backs on the flesh pots and fight for the right because it is right are ever welcome. We are content to stand as we have stood since the birth of our party, holding aloft the tribune banner of reform-money, land and transportation, which includes the transmission of intelligence."

LABOR MEN FIGHT CANNON.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A message designed to defeat the election of Joseph G. Cannon as speaker of the house in the Sixtieth congress has been sent to all trades unions in the country by the officials of the National Federation of Labor.

The proclamation, which is signed by all the officials of the federation, sets forth the alleged shortcomings of Cannon during the three congresses he has served as speaker, and each instance where, by his vote or ruling, he has acted in any way inimical to the interests of labor.

Chief of the allegations is cited Cannon's action in regard to the labor amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law, the employer's liability bill, the project of creating a department of labor with a secretary in the president's cabinet, the eight hour labor bill, the abuse of injunctions measure, and the bill relating to alien labor on the Panama canal.

The proclamation appeals to all central bodies and local unions to pass resolutions asking the representatives of their respective districts to vote against Cannon's reelection.

"It is well known," reads the message, "that, with the exception of a few members of the house of representatives who primarily benefit by Speaker Cannon's methods, nearly all the members of congress, regardless of whether they are members of his own party or of the opposition, chafe under his methods of administrating that office.

"Cannon's opponents, because of the power wielded by him, are singly impotent to correct the abuse, but they would, if given an opportunity, gladly cooperate for its correction."

CHICAGO MEN SEE ROOSEVELT.

Chairman Knight and Other Members of Convention Committee Call at the White House.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Thomas D. Knight, chairman of the committee to secure the next national convention for Chicago, and Alexander H. Revell of the Hamilton club called upon the president today. They were accompanied by Representative Frank O. Lowden.

Mr. Knight extended an invitation to the president to attend the Appomattox day banquet of the Hamilton club, which will be held in Chicago next April. He told the president that he spoke not only for the club but for Senators Cullom and Hopkins, Gov. Deneen, Mayor Busse, Postmaster Campbell, and other prominent persons.

Mr. Revell had prepared a short speech, but was prevented from delivering it by the president, who spoke of the great pleasure he had derived from the hospitality of the Hamilton club, and referred in most glowing terms to the organization.

"I cannot deliver the speech I had prepared," Mr. Revell told the president, "because you have spoken it yourself."

The president did not decline the invitation, but indicated he probably would be compelled to remain in Washington. An effort was made by Mr. Knight to induce the president to commit himself for Chicago as the convention city of the republican party, but Mr. Roosevelt refused to do so.

After leaving the White house Mr. Knight and Mr. Revell lunched with Vice President Fairbanks, and then went to the interior department, where they asked Secretary Garfield to deliver an address at a Lincoln day banquet of the club. The secretary took the invitation under consideration.

It was stated tonight by Mr. Knight that Gov. Deneen, city officials of Chicago, and a delegation of the Hamilton club will come to Washington on Dec. 6 to urge the national committee to select Chicago for the convention.

COURT IS AGAINST TAGGART

State Within Rights in Seizure of Gambling Paraphernalia.

CHARTER MAY BE REVOKED.

Hotel at French Lick Springs Had No License to Commit Crimes.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—National Democratic Chairman Taggart received a body blow today, when the Supreme court held in the French Lick gambling cases that the state had acted within its authority in taking possession of the gambling paraphernalia and that the charter under which the hotel company is organized may be revoked by the state.

The trial judge decided that the action should have been brought against the French Lick and West Baden Hotel company by the local prosecutor, but today's decision affirms the right of the state to proceed through the attorney general and in every point sustains the action of that official and of the auditor of state in making his investigation.

Habitually Violated the Law.

The court points out the fact that the hotel company habitually and persistently violated the criminal law, and that the resort was widely advertised throughout the United States as a place where gamblers could pursue their avocation with none to molest or make afraid, and that the local officers were unable or unwilling to enforce the law.

The court turns to the argument of the hotel company, and declares that the law permitting incorporation of companies does not give a license to commit crime, and that, when the defendant asserts that the hotel business was successfully managed, the charge of contributing to the delinquency of children is not thereby answered, and the agreement for a division of the spoils, that is, an agreement for a per cent of the profits of gambling, is entirely immaterial, the chief question being the carrying on of gambling and its illegality under the law of the state.

Charter Is No Protection.

The conclusion is drawn from this that the statute empowering the auditor of state to make examinations of corporations was not intended as a protection to corporations conducting gambling houses. The power may or may not be exercised, says the court, but if it is the attorney general acquires authority for proceedings against such corporations.

It is regarded as possible that both hotel companies may surrender their charters and continue in business as private companies, and while this would not give them license to carry on gambling it would exempt them from prosecution under the corporation laws.

WOULD AIR CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

Society to Procure Publicity of Contributions Urges Action at This Session of Congress.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—At a meeting of the Association for the Publicity of Campaign Contributions, called by Perry Belmont here today, the chief feature was a short address by W. J. Bryan.

Bryan asserted that if the movement for publicity of campaign contributions did not take form through democratic members of congress during the next session it would in the next democratic national convention if he had anything to do with it.

"Although the democratic party is not in a position illegitimately to acquire campaign funds at present," he said, "it has been in a position to do so before, and undoubtedly will be in that position again when it makes the necessary promises. I hope that no party will yield to the temptation to sell legislation or immunity for contributions. There is no doubt that such has been done in the past."

The following resolution was offered and adopted:

"Resolved, That, in view of the approaching presidential election, the members of this association urge upon senators and representatives of their respective states to aid in the enactment of the proposed publicity law at the present session of congress, and that a committee of this organization be appointed to go before the committees of the senate and the house."

SENATOR ALLISON IN CHICAGO.

He Arrives with Party of Eastern Friends and Will Go to Iowa Today.

United States Senator Allison arrived at the Auditorium Annex hotel last night on his way to his home in Iowa from Washington. He was accompanied by a small party of eastern friends, who will remain in Chicago for several days, the senator going on to Iowa this morning. During the evening Congressman Robert Cousins of Iowa and other friends visited the senator.

SUSPECT WILKINS SLEW MAN ALSO.

Oakland Police Seek to Fasten Second Crime on Alleged Murderer of Wife.

BURGLAR'S BULLET FATAL

Horace S. Davis of Kalamazoo, Father of Chicago Woman, Killed Defending Wife.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Two murder charges may be made against M. A. Wilkins, already under arrest on suspicion of having slain his wife last July, the discovery of whose body yesterday was due to a neighboring woman's dream.

The sheriff is now endeavoring to locate the body of T. K. Kimmons, who disappeared suddenly from the Wilkins home.

Mrs. Wilkins' body was found buried in a shed beneath five feet of lime and sand, after Mrs. J. M. Anderson had told the police that she had a nocturnal vision of the dead woman lying on the ground with her arms crossed.

Woman Not Really His Wife.

Wilkins admitted today that he was not married to the woman who passed as his wife.

An autopsy was performed and it is said that traces of poison were found. After completing the autopsy the doctors consulted District Attorney Brown.

The discovery of a bottle of strychnine in the shed where the body was uncovered has given rise to the impression that poison was the agency which caused death.

Dies Defending His Wife.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Horace S. Davis, father of Mrs. Roy L. Sergeant of Chicago, and a prominent business man of Kalamazoo, was instantly killed early this morning while defending his wife from a burglar who had made his way into their bedroom.

Husband Shoots Wife's Friend.

Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 26.—Ross Lepari, aged 37 years, is in the hospital in a dying condition from a pistol wound in the breast. B. B. Shadle, who confesses to the shooting, is in jail. Mrs. Shadle, the cause of the shooting, is also a prisoner. Shadle watched outside his home last night, saw Lepari go in, listened at the door, then ran in upon them.

Paramour Slays Eloping Woman.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Ida Wolker, 22 years old, was shot three times today by Herbert Freund and was probably fatally wounded. Freund, who is but 20 years of age, then fired two shots at himself. He will recover. Freund was arrested. The couple recently eloped from Lehighton, Pa., where Mrs. Wolker deserted her husband and two children. Jealousy on the part of Freund led to the shooting.

Kills and Commits Suicide.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—Charles Weeler, assistant chief of the Waukesha volunteer fire department, shot and killed Miss May Lynch and then committed suicide. The tragedy took place in the kitchen of the home of Frank P. Staer, president of the Wisconsin Canning company, where the woman had been employed, and is believed to be the result of a lovers' quarrel.

Refuses to Wed; Shot.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Charles Holmes tonight shot and killed Mrs. Mary Hamilton at her home, 1428 Duncan street. It is said that Holmes had been devoted to Mrs. Hamilton, and was in a frenzy because of her refusal to marry him.

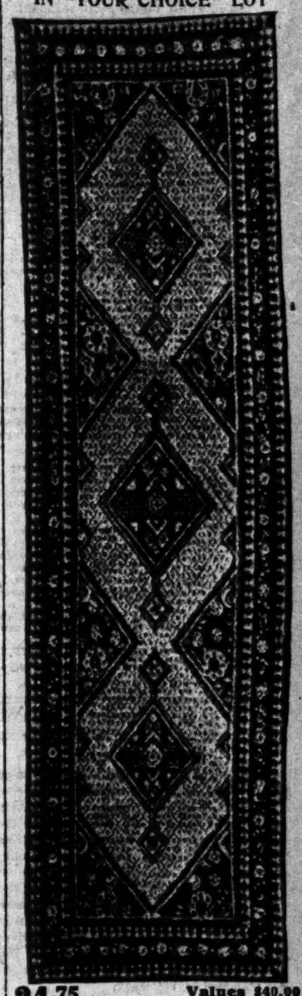

Pullman Porter Has Smallpox.

Two additional cases of smallpox were reported to the health department yesterday. The victims were Abraham Courtney, a negro, 350 Randolph street, and Cecilia Anderson, 208 West Ohio street. Courtney said he was a Pullman car reporter and had contracted the disease on his run from Kansas City. The victims were taken to the isolation hospital.

CURE BY CUTICURA AT CITY MISSION

Young Woman Found in Awful Condition with Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Scratching—Tried Many Remedies for Seven Weeks—Result Was Discouraging, But

ITCHING TORTURES YIELDED TO CUTICURA

"While I was doing missionary work in the lower portion of several cities I found it necessary to know a little of the efficacy of a few medicines and after a while I found that a little knowledge of Cuticura was about all I needed. One of the very bad cases I had to deal with was that of a young woman who had come to us not only broken in spirit but in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), incipient paresis, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure and the effects of her ragged-edged life. Her poor body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We tried many things, a good tonic was prescribed and baths with a rubbing of lard and sulphur. We worked hard for seven weeks and you can imagine how discouraged we were when, after all that time, we could see so little improvement. One day I happened to see a Cuticura advertisement telling how a little baby had been cured of a bad case of skin eruption, and although I had but ninety-seven cents with me, I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. When I reached home I was like a child with a new toy, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept that night better than she had since she had been with us and the next day I located the price of a box of Cuticura Ointment. I am not exaggerating when I say that in exactly five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, being strong enough to work and full of ambition. In another month she left the home, and now has a good position in a nice family where she is respected and is strong and well. You may refer any one you wish to me, personally. Laura Jane Bates, 85 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y., Mar. 11, 1907."

Public School a Weapon In Fight With Disease.

The public school is to be used as a weapon in the fight to prevent the spread of tuberculosis. A movement has been started to establish an adequate system for protecting the countless army of school children from the White Plague. Among other innovations, children suffering with tuberculosis in a contagious form will be segregated, and provision made for their especial education.

Parents should be very careful to act promptly in checking a cough or cold. The strain on the respiratory organs from coughing leaves them sore and susceptible to the tubercular germ.

To break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable, the mixture of two ounces of glycerine with a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine and eight ounces of good whisky, given in doses of a teaspoonful every four hours, is most effective. Five ounces of tincture of Cinchona compound can be used instead of whisky with the same effect.

The ingredients are inexpensive and can be purchased without trouble at any good drug store. To avoid substitution of some inferior pine product for the Virgin Oil of Pine, it is better to purchase each separately and mix them at home.

The genuine Virgin Oil of Pine is put up for dispensing only in ¼-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case with an engraved wrapper showing plainly the name—Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act of June 30, 1906, Serial No. 451, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio. Be sure to get the genuine, as the oil sold in bulk and cheap imitations put out to resemble Virgin Oil of Pine in name and style of package are ineffective, being largely composed of a distillation of pine needles, or leaves, instead of from the pine tree proper.

These pine needle oils are not intended for internal use, and when taken internally usually cause nausea. Their use is mainly confined to the manufacture of soap and similar purposes. This is published for the Leach Chemical Co., manufacturers of Virgin Oil of Pine.

RAISE THE PAY.

The United States, with a population of 86,500,000, cannot get under present conditions the handful of men, comparatively speaking, needed to fill the ranks of the regular army. The situation is getting worse year by year. Desertions outnumber enlistments, and if that shall go on there will be no army. That may suit the peace societies, but it should alarm those who know that the nation cannot safely be without a regular army, comparatively small in numbers but composed of the best material and educated up to the highest standard of efficiency.

The adjutant general of the army says the government must do one of two things. It must either compete with private employers by giving the soldiers more pay, or get rid of competition by drafting what men may be needed. Probably the adjutant general has no thought of being taken seriously as far as this last suggestion is concerned. He must be aware that the people would have none of it in time of peace, but it may have seemed to him that by stating the case as he has congress might be induced to give the matter its attention.

"More pay and less work" is the adjutant general's real recommendation. The war department can decrease the amount of work required of the soldiers, though it should not go so far in that direction as to impair their efficiency. Congress alone can raise the pay, and it should do so. The army needs good men and they cannot be had without paying for them.

WESTON.

Edward Payson Weston did a remarkable thing when he walked from Portland, Me., to Chicago in 1867 when he was 29 years old. He has done a wonderful thing in repeating the walk at the age of 69. Thanks to the southward growth of the city he was able to reach the city limits nearly a day earlier than he did last time, and after resting for the night in Chicago he will finish his walk this morning, proceeding to the same point of the city which he reached in 1867, accomplishing the same distance as forty years ago in a little less time.

Mr. Weston has walked so much since that he probably does not remember in detail the condition of the roads forty years ago. It is safe to say that however bad they are now they were worse then. Yet even with this slight advantage, if it existed, the weight of forty years more was a severe handicap. While no one grudges Mr. Weston his 1,200 mile walk there are many younger men who would be glad to possess his sturdy health and power of endurance.

The city has changed beyond all recognition since 1867. If he were coming back without some preparation for the different sights that will meet his eye he would be worse bewildered than Rip Van Winkle. Rip slept only twenty years. Twice twenty years have made their changes here. Chicago welcomes the returning guest as a link between two ages, turning back in thought to the prehistoric days "before the fire," and trying to see with his eyes the mighty things that have been accomplished.

TAXIMETERS.

The taximeter ordinance failed to pass the council. This can be considered nothing more than a postponement of the ordinance. The arguments which were used to defeat it amounted to nothing more than a charge that cabmen are so dishonest that they can cheat passengers in spite of a machine. Without attempting to disprove the allegations of aldermen that cabmen would try to cheat it may be said that in the cities where taximeters are used there is no complaint against the machines on the ground of unreliability. Inspection of the machines at frequent intervals and without previous notice would make it practically impossible to make them go wrong without detection.

It is because there is complaint of overcharges that there is a demand for a method of determining distance traveled or time spent in a cab. If cabmen are confessed by their defender to be likely to cheat in spite of a machine it is far more likely that they would try to cheat without a machine. There are many honest cabmen, but there are enough unscrupulous ones to make it necessary to protect passengers who often have no way of ascertaining the character of a cabman before employing him. The honest ones do not object to the taximeter, but the dishonest ones do, and they had the most friends in the council.

Chicago will not remain indefinitely so far behind other cities. As more and more of the citizens of this city become acquainted with the successful working of the taximeter elsewhere the demand for the taximeter will grow until the council is forced to require it.

DIRECT PRIMARIES.

The combine in the Illinois senate is opposed to the nomination at the primaries of a candidate for any office. When its representatives in the conference committee were holding out for the senate amendment taking delegates to national conventions out of the bill they were simply trying to create a deadlock and beat the whole measure. They are not one-hundredth part so much interested in the method of selecting delegates as in that of making nominations for the legislature and for state and county offices. Those are the places that touch them.

The house members of the conference committee acted wisely yesterday in voting to accept the senate amendment. All members of the house who honestly favor direct primaries will stand by them. Sensible men are always ready to let the nonessentials go in order to secure essentials. If a bill can be got through providing for the nomination of members of the legislature at the primaries the first general assembly elected after its passage may be relied on to extend the system of direct nominations if the people shall so desire.

Members of the general assembly who insist on provisions that are not of vital importance are simply playing into the hands of the unrelenting enemies. That clause is needed, and trifles should not be allowed to stand in the way of getting it. A bill that may pass without it will not govern next year's primaries.

The members of the legislature know that their constituents, in spite of all that editorial postmasters may say to the contrary, wish them to enact a direct primaries law under which they can make nominations next year.

THE LEGISLATURE WAKES UP.

Yesterday the house passed the bill empowering Chicago to levy a wheel tax and it goes to the governor for his signature. It has an emergency clause, so it will become operative when signed, and the council can proceed at once to act under it. The city can get from this source $500,000 or more of revenue to be used exclusively on the streets. There should be a marked improvement in their condition next year. The act does not apply to Chicago alone, but is a general one and any municipality can utilize it. Those whose revenues are insufficient doubtless will do so.

The senate passed with the emergency clause attached the bill declaring the Desplaines and Illinois rivers navigable throughout their courses. Senators who a short time ago were opposed to the measure suddenly had a change of heart and decided that it was better not to go on record against the deep waterway.

The senate, desirous to make further amends for past misbehavior, also put through the state interest bill, which failed of passage several weeks ago. It goes to the house, which should concur in so excellent a measure. The state is getting the interest on deposits now through the voluntary action of State Treasurer Smulski. A less conscientious successor might refuse to follow his example. The law should be such that the state could not lose the interest.

A GIFTLESS CHRISTMAS.

With Christmas scarcely five weeks away it is to be expected that the annual crusade against the "pernicious custom of giving" should be vigorously begun. And the fact that the present attack will be instituted by the Chicago Woman's club lends additional interest to the foray. Of course the members will not lack the courage of their convictions. Merely because a great many extremely foolish persons have enslaved themselves in weak deference to a custom they will not hesitate in setting the example of reform.

The mandatory "Please omit flowers" is usually obeyed, and in all social functions the positive member of society will customarily find that in many important respects she is a law unto herself. Much may be accomplished in five weeks. The reformer has plenty of time to send out her card among her friends and acquaintances with the inscribed sentiment "No presents," or "Please omit gifts," or "Nothing doing Dec. 25." This will be explicit. Even she who runs may read.

So far as a matter merely of pernicious custom is involved the path of personal inclination should be easy. It is true that all diatribes against the Christmas habit lack the charm of novelty, but perhaps if accompanied by concerted action they may start a mighty movement of revolt. Once publicly committed to a work of reformation it is not so difficult to proceed, and we may expect that this assertion of independent thought will be followed by equally independent action which eventually will bring about the desired results. Nothing should disturb the serenity of a giftless Christmas when one is perfectly sincere and lives up to convictions and professions.

DRIFTING TOWARD AMERICA.

St. Croix and St. Thomas are reported to be much discontented with their present condition. Their trade which once flourished has fallen off so greatly that empty stores and warehouses abound where there was prosperity a dozen years ago. The mother country lays taxes and duties on exports which have become oppressive. It takes what it can get out of the islands, but spends nothing upon needed improvements. The principal exports go to New York, but the duties so eat into the profits that little is left for the planter. The splendid harbor of St. Thomas, with its protecting coral reef, might easily be made one of the finest in the West Indies, but it receives no appropriation from the home government. For all these reasons the sentiment favoring annexation to the United States is becoming stronger each year.

These conditions in the Danish islands are much like those in the British possessions in the same part of the world. The largest and most influential newspaper in the British West Indies recently printed an editorial which pointed the way toward the inevitable union with the American republic. It said that most of the exports of the islands now go to the United States, that stagnation would result if this trade connection were interfered with or lost, and that American market conditions and American industrial development are more and more to be the determining factors in insular life.

The interest of the people is in American topics. The building of the American fleet, the digging of the isthmian canal by America, and particularly the prosperity of the American possessions in the West Indies are the themes which are discussed by the people rather than subjects connected with far distant and unresponsive Britain. The result is that, almost against their will, the inhabitants are becoming Americanized. As the writer of the editorial expressed it, the commercial stagnation in the British islands is driving them to depend economically upon America, and also to regard it as the future dominant influence in the West Indies.

In producing the discontent which is plainly apparent in the Danish and British islands the prosperity of Porto Rico under American ownership and of Cuba under an American protectorate is most potent. The contrast is marked. Right at hand is prosperity, with favoring trade relationships and watchful oversight. The path of the future is clearly marked.

There are Englishmen at home who are beginning to recognize the inevitable destiny of the islands. Some of these are advocating the cession of the West Indian colonies to the United States on the strange ground that the mother country exists for the benefit of the colonies, and that when it ceases to be a benefit to them it should retire from the field. The remarkable difference between this view of colonies and the one of 1760 is as interesting as is the main argument.

The United States itself is in a favorable position respecting this West Indian situation. It has no immediate need for the islands and no strong desire for their immediate possession. It can afford to wait. But a glance at the map is all that is needed to convince one of the inevitable. There is no future for the West Indian islands except in close relationship with America.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1907: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LORD CHESHAM has had so many narrow escapes from death through croppers in the hunting field, sustaining on several occasions quite severe injuries, that the news the other day that he had broken his neck while following the Pytchley hounds, though it shocked his numerous friends and acquaintances, can scarcely have surprised them.

He was a tall, heavy man, considerably over six feet, was obliged to ride big, powerful horses to carry his weight, and, being in the neighborhood of 60, fell extremely heavily when he did come a cropper.

Consequently, when his horse, in taking a fence, caught its feet in some wire and turned a somersault, throwing its rider on his head, it is not astonishing that his neck should have been broken.

At one time it was thought that Lord Chesham would abandon hunting. For his younger daughter, Marjorie, a child whom he literally idolized, was killed in the hunting field some years ago by being thrown from her pony and dragged along, shockingly pounded by the horse's hoofs, her foot having caught in the stirrup.

Lord Chesham's eldest son was killed while serving as an officer of the Seventeenth Lancers in the Boer war, and the only surviving son, who has now become third Lord Chesham and who has succeeded to the extensive estates of his father, is an Eton schoolboy of the age of 14.

The late Lord Chesham was the chief of one of the younger branches of the historic house of Cavendish, the head of which is the duke of Devonshire, and in the early stages of the South African war managed to raise in a few weeks' time a force of some 8,000 volunteer cavalry, composed of men who had all received some cavalry training, either in the army or in the yeomanry, performing, in conjunction with Lord Lonsdale, much the same task as that accomplished in this country by President Roosevelt and Gen. Leonard Wood when, on the outbreak of the war with Spain in 1898, the former organized the corps of Rough Riders.

For his services in this respect, and also in the field during the war, Lord Chesham was restored to the regular army with the rank of major general besides receiving the military star of knight commander of the Order of the Bath.

He had quitted the army as a subaltern under romantic circumstances, having been indiscreet enough to elope with the wife of the colonel of the smart cavalry regiment to which he belonged.

This was held by the authorities at the war department to be such a piece of insubordination, disrespect to a superior officer, and general disregard of military regulations that he was asked to send in his papers, though he was excused by his fellow officers on the odd ground that the colonel, after all, had been merely an officer of infantry who had managed to exchange into the cavalry, and that, in view of the circumstances, Lord Chesham could not be said to have violated cavalry ethics.

Latimer, the principal home of the late and new Lord Chesham, is one of the finest Elizabethan mansions in Buckinghamshire. Standing in a grand old park of over a thousand acres, it has been the home of the Cavendishes ever since the reign of the virgin queen.

Charles I. spent a considerable time at Latimer while a prisoner of parliament, and, according to contemporary history, was fond of looking out upon the peaceful view from the front of the house across the river Chess to the woods of the Chenies.

The mansion has been modernized, though with taste and discretion. While stately, it is essentially a homely, cozy looking house, the front charmingly clothed with creepers. It is full of family portraits of great value and of old masters—Sir Joshua Reynolds, Titian, Murillo, etc., being represented on the walls.

The Chesham estates extend from Latimer over an area of some 20,000 acres in every direction. Besides the property in Buckinghamshire, the new Lord Chesham inherits a quantity of high priced real estate in London, including the Burlington Arcade in Piccadilly, which is familiar to ever American who has visited London.

The new Lord Chesham is the fourth of his line, the first having been a grandson of the fourth duke of Devonshire.

The late Lord Chesham was popularly known, especially in his younger days, as "Fatty" Cavendish. This was due not so much to his own avoirdupois as to that of his father, whose girth was absolutely colossal.

In spite of his enormous bulk, which rendered walking a matter of some difficulty, the second Lord Chesham insisted on always going on foot to church on Sunday, refusing to allow his horses to be worked on that day, and on one occasion, when the servants rebelled and insisted upon riding the considerable distance between Latimer and the parish church, he had them driven in an omnibus, at a funereal walking pace, he himself trudging behind in the rain afoot, under an umbrella, as if he were the chief mourner.

Talking of omnibuses, which now play so important a rôle in modern life, it may be of interest to state that although they seem to have been known in the times of the ancient Romans (since a bas relief dating from the reign of the Cæsars may be seen in a museum of antiquities at Dijon, representing a vehicle which is nothing more or less than an omnibus drawn by two horses, with the driver snugly seated on the box and the passengers looking out of the windows), yet they were unknown in the middle ages and were first revived by the duc de Rohan at Paris in the reign of Louis XIV. by virtue of the latter's royal decree, which called into being the first omnibus company, with the duc de Rohan as its president and the celebrated Pascal as one of the directors.

The inauguration of the enterprise partook of the nature of a state ceremony, which was attended by the great dignitaries of the court and of the government in their robes of office, the drivers of the dozen omnibuses being arrayed in blue liveries, with the royal arms embroidered on the stomach and the city arms on the back.

Escorts of cavalry and of infantry accompanied the omnibuses on their initial trip, together with public criers, who threatened on the part of the king severe penalties against any one who should injure the new vehicles, obstruct their progress, or annoy the passengers.

Each of the coaches was numbered, so that an insolent driver or inattentive footman could be easily brought to book.

For a time the Parisians were delighted with the new service. But the novelty wore off, the number of passengers began to decrease, and within four years after their introduction the omnibuses had vanished from the streets of Paris, not to reappear until 1828.

Then they proved far more popular, and what served more than anything else to establish them in the good will of the public was the rôle which, after being overturned, they were able to play in the construction of the barricades in the revolution of 1830, which robbed Charles X. of his crown and landed the duke of Orleans on the throne as King Louis Philippe.

In London they made their appearance about the same time, thanks to the enterprise of a man of the name of Shillibeer, celebrated as a cheap funeral contractor.

Lady Aileen is a little over 30 and Lord Ardee several years her senior. He is a lieutenant colonel of the Grenadier guards, with which he served with considerable distinction throughout the South African war, and is the eldest son and heir of the earl of Meath.

The latter is the chief of the house of Brabazon, makes his principal home at Killruddery, near Bray, in County Wicklow, whence Sir Walter Scott, a frequent visitor at Killruddery, took his idea of the novel of "St. Ronan's Well."

RECEIVER FOR WORLD'S FAIR

Action Will Follow Closing of Gates at the Jamestown Show.

NATION A HEAVY CREDITOR.

Besides $1,000,000 Loan It Will Be Asked to Shoulder $2,000,000 Debt.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A flat failure from the standpoint of attendance and as a moneymaker, it is expected the Jamestown exposition will be placed in the hands of a receiver on Monday. The gates will close on Saturday, winding up the summer of poor success.

Liabilities, according to official figures, will reach the sum of $3,465,000. The total assets are $710,000. Therefore the exposition is bankrupt to the tune of $2,855,000. Second mortgage bonds will be due next month for $376,000. There are first mortgage bonds due next year for $400,000, and the exposition owes the United States government up to date $888,000.

The United States government will lose its loan of almost a million dollars, and a lobby is preparing to invade Washington to try to saddle the public treasury with the other $2,000,000 or so of the exposition's debts.

Poor Management Cause.

The failure of the exposition is blamed here on poor management and the fact that the purpose of some of the originators of the fair was to promote a clever real estate speculation. The early opening before any of the buildings were in readiness, played a large part in scaring away expected visitors.

A score or more of suits already have been filed against the company, and early in November the creditors showed a desire to scramble over the carcass, causing a petition to be filed in the United States District court asking for the appointment of a receiver. Judge Waddill, sitting in the case, refused to grant the petition, holding that to do so might cause the exposition to close down and damage all creditors. It is understood that he indicated to petitioners that he would consider and act favorably on the petition after the exposition closed.

Minor Shows Also Losers.

It is understood that the petition for receivers will be renewed before Judge Waddill next Monday morning and the company's affairs be wound up by the court. Such action on the part of creditors is anticipated by the officials of the company, although they are silent.

The failure of the exposition from a financial standpoint is admitted by the officials. The attendance will hardly reach the three million mark. Concessionaires declare that those attending were not money spenders, and the majority claim to have lost money. One thing is certain—the exposition company secured less than one-fifth of what was expected as "rake-offs," or percentage from concessionaires.

While the exposition has brought additional business to merchants and hotels, scores of local investors who launched money making schemes, theatrical ventures, etc., are known to be heavy losers.

It is believed the government will buy in the property and permanent buildings for the establishment of a large naval and military training station, the present quarters at the navy yard being too limited.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. INDICTED

Charged with Using Mails to Defraud and in Misrepresenting Articles Sold.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago were indicted today charged with using the mails to defraud. The indictment is on three counts. It is alleged that the company misrepresented articles in its catalogues sent through the mails. The first count charges that on June 13, 1907, the company devised a scheme to obtain money by false pretenses from Dr. C. F. Spring of Des Moines by selling him white lead that Sears-Roebuck claim to have made. The indictment alleges it was made by others. A second count is on a ring bought by R. H. Miles, and the third count is the sending of another ring, alleged to have been misrepresented, through the mails.

R. W. Sears, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said last night that he had only learned of the indictment returned in Des Moines.

"We read in the newspapers this morning that there was some trouble in Des Moines," said Mr. Sears. "The unfortunate thing about the whole affair is that we can be given much notoriety without having an opportunity to present our side of the case. If we have sold white lead in Des Moines or anywhere else we are ready to stand on our reputation that it is white lead. And so in regard to anything else that we may sell. We shall be glad to meet any one in Iowa on this proposition."

MINCEMEAT LOVERS PAY $720.

School of Domestic Arts and Science Benefit Sale Proves a Big Success.

The board of managers of the School of Domestic Arts and Science at 39 State street yesterday held its first sale of products made at the school. The wares were mincemeat and mince pies made by the women of the board, and the purpose of the Thanksgiving sale was to raise a fund to send a teacher among the social settlements during the winter.

One thousand quarts of mincemeat were sold by night, and $720—more than enough to complete the fund—was raised. Among the customers were the Chicago university, Union League, and Chicago Athletic clubs.

The members of the board of managers have spent their Saturdays at the school for four weeks, making mincemeat. Mrs. Lynden Evans, Mrs. Albert W. Hester, and Mrs. James B. Barnett were in charge of the sale.

The teacher to be sent out by the school will establish classes at the following points:

Christopher house.	Elmhurst.
Olivet settlement.	Ogontz creche.
Armitage house.	Illinois Industrial School for Girls, Evanston.
Neighborhood house.
St. Mary's mission.	Visiting Nurses' association.
Fourth Presbyterian church.

Anti-Race Suicide Exponent Sentenced as Counterfeiter After Telling Judge of Big Family.

G. Ginsberg, 381 Maxwell street, was sentenced to one year in the house of correction and fined $100 yesterday by Judge Newcomer on a charge of counterfeiting union cigar labels.

Ginsberg was arrested on the complaint of George J. Thompson, business agent of the cigarmakers' union, who testified Ginsberg had been counterfeiting labels for seven years. Ginsberg denied the charge and said he worked honestly to support a family of twelve children.

"If I could believe your testimony," said the judge, "I should let you go with the lightest penalty, but I am convinced you have testified falsely."

RAISES CASH FOR RESCUE RENT.

Rose Johnson Gets Money in Nick of Time—Will Cable It to Panama Today.

An appeal in behalf of the rescue work in Panama by Miss Rose Johnson, who has been working in Colon for two years and a half, was made to the Woodlawn Women's club yesterday. Miss Johnson said that the rent of the home in Colon had not been paid for this quarter, and that it must be paid by noon today. It was also affirmed by Miss Johnson that Chicago was a center of the white slave traffic. A recess was taken and $26 was collected. During the evening sufficient money was raised to pay the balance of the amount due, and it will be cabled this morning to Panama.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Grand Opera to Remain.

The Italian Grand Opera company will remain at the International for an additional five weeks after the first five have been completed one week from next Saturday night. This decision was reached yesterday after a long conference between the men directly interested in the enterprise and the theater.

Seen last evening, Manager Abramson of the company said that while thus far the operas had been given at a loss, he and his associates felt encouraged by the interest shown by the public in general, and he still was confident that as Chicago music lovers came to recognize the worth of the organization and the general merit of the performances now being given, patronage sufficiently liberal not only to make the present season safe but to assure the permanency of the company here would be forthcoming.

He had worked under great difficulties, for his singers met for the first time here a few days before the season opened, and lack of rehearsal, absence of public confidence in the theater and in the undertaking, and difficulties with certain of the musical forces he had to employ, had hampered him during the first weeks. Now the company was getting into condition, the operagoers were finding that the International is both comfortable and accessible, and the difficulties had been so straightened that rehearsals were possible. He was busy now preparing "Otello" for presentation next week with a cast stronger than any he yet had offered, and it was his intention, now that the company was to remain another five weeks, to produce a new opera each week, and he hoped to include among them several which had not been given here of late or were wholly new to the Chicago public.

It is subject for congratulation that the company is to remain, for good work is being done, the performances are of worth and are steadily improving, and the undertaking gives to Chicago a new musical element and one which is greatly needed. The International is not centrally located, as are the downtown theaters, and yet it lies within easy access, being nearer the loop than is the Coliseum, to which the general public flocks for its summer concerts, its horse shows, and its numerous festivals. The Auditorium is not considered far south nowadays, although when first it was built it seemed almost in the suburbs. The International is but a couple of blocks farther removed, and those who wish to hear grand opera given in commendable and rightly proportioned style at reasonable prices will find the theater by no means too difficult of access to repay for the enjoyment obtainable when once there.

Last evening the company began the fourth week of its engagement by presenting "Faust," this being the first time the organization has sung the favorite Gounod opera here. The performance showed careful preparation, and, barring the blemishes which nervousness caused in the singing of some of the principals in the first acts, the pressing of breath so that pitch values did not remain true, the work was admirably presented. The orchestra under Sig. Merola gave a reading of the score which calls for the sincerest and heartiest commendations. Frequently has the New York Metropolitan organization with an all star cast not had the instrumental portion of "Faust" played with such finish and such sympathy and understanding as the orchestra brought to the performance of it last night at the International. And the chorus covered itself with glory, too.

The tricky, difficult choral music of the Kermess scene was sung with a surety and a clarity last evening that has been found but rarely in numerous years of listening to "Faust." As for the "Soldiers' Chorus," it went with such a swing that the audience would have it repeated. The singers all had marched gayly off the stage and Valentine and Siebel had made their appearance, but the applauding kept up and the whole chorus had to come trooping back. Then the singers lined up at the front of the stage and the march went with a vim that made the rafters ring. It was an unusual and merited tribute to the little band of hard working and capable choristers.

With the orchestra and chorus both good, a performance of "Faust" is a long ways toward satisfactoriness. Add to these a Mephisto and a Valentine who sang and acted their parts more than merely well and the assurance of satisfaction is strengthened still more. Sig. Bozzano was the Mephisto, and he did the part in thoroughly praise meriting fashion. He has not any great subtlety in characterization of the fiend, but he acts him conventionally and he sings the music of the part clearly, intelligently, and effectively. Especially good was his delivery of the "Calf of Gold" and the "Serenade."

As Valentine Sig. Marturano disclosed unsuspected powers as vocalist and gave the "Dio Possente," the curse scene, and his part of the Trio in highly satisfactory manner. Mme. Merola was the Marguerite, and although in the first scene nervousness affected her voice, in the church scene she found herself again and did really excellent work. The part is one which lies not best for her voice, but she is artist enough to make it interesting and to do the more dramatic portions of it in telling fashion. Sig. Torre was laboring under unusual nervousness, and it is understood that it has been some time since he last sang the rôle of "Faust," and that he therefore was uneasy concerning it. He began the "Salve Dimora" timidly, but the middle section seemed to give him courage and the ending was carefully taken, but with enjoyable tonal quality. In the Trio he was again more at home and let his voice out clear and strong.

Mme. Zarad was the Siebel and a handsome one she made. She was nervous and her voice suffered in consequence, but the rôle is one which should suit her well as she is confident of it. Tonight "Lucia" will be repeated. W. L. HUBBARD.

When We Were Twenty-One.

As the fifth and last in the series of revivals which he has been making at Powers' Nat C. Goodwin brought forward "When We Were Twenty-One" on Monday evening to the complete and thorough enjoyment of the large audience present. This comedy by Henry V. Esmond easily takes rank as the most satisfactory piece of work that the English dramatist has given us. Its comedy is buoyant and refreshing, its characters are drawn firmly and unerringly, and through it all there runs a vein of human kindliness and sentiment.

The rôle of Richard Carewe is one which fits Mr. Goodwin with the nicety of the proverbial glove. He makes clear at the outset the doting fondness which he has for the Imp and thus makes possible and probable the sacrifice which he afterward makes in his effort to save the youth from folly and rashness. The Goodwin art is as polished, as brilliant, and as technically proficient as it ever has been, and it illumined the entire portrayal, making the character stand out clearly and distinctly, with nothing undone and nothing overdone. Particularly happy were the scenes with Phyllis in the second act and the reconciliation with the Imp in act four. The cry of joy with which he welcomed back the wayward youth thrilled and enthused and found a ready response from a sympathetic audience.

Miss Goodrich appeared as Phyllis and gave the most creditable performance witnessed thus far. In moments of emotion and deep feeling she is helpless and appallingly at sea, but in the comedy scenes her acting was delightful, being free from the constraint and artificiality which have characterized it previously. She romped and played about, coquetting with dear old Dick, teasing the Imp, and plaguing the trinity, but never stepped beyond the bounds of charming and modest girlhood. Nell O'Brien, H. G. Lonsdale, and Harrington Reynolds are, with Mr. Goodwin, the members of the "quadrinity," and all acquit themselves admirably. A. Hylton Allen as the Imp, the cause of all the trouble, is boyishly handsome, impulsive, and a trifle conceited and worldly wise as the spoiled darling of the quadrinity" should be.

Quite appropriately, since her mother, Lydia Thompson, was for a long time the acknowledged queen of burlesque on two continents, Miss Zeffie Tilbury was cast as Kara Glynesk, the Firefly. She accentuated the asperity, the commonness, and boldness of the creature, but failed to lend her sufficient seductive charm to make credible the spell which she was supposed to cast over all the men with whom she came in contact. Miss Rose Snyder made Mrs. Ericson a simple, motherly old lady and rounded out a cast which was eminently satisfactory and praiseworthy.

"When We Were Twenty-one" will be given Saturday afternoon and evening. This afternoon and tonight "An American Citizen," by Mrs. Ryley, will be repeated.

At the Great Northern.

Following Williams and Walker's engagement at the Great Northern E. D. Stair will present George Sidney and his company of singers and dancers in a brand new musical frolic entitled "Busy Izzy as the Mascot Man." Mr. Sidney has few equals on the stage as a delineator of the Hebrew type. His jovial humor is natural without being offensive or obnoxious to those who question the advisability of racial characterization. The engagement is for one week only.

The attraction for the holidays will be Hap Ward in the musical comedy, "Not Yet But Soon."

STORIES OF THE HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS OF WASHINGTON.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

SECRETARY of the Navy Metcalf has had an experience with a phonograph which causes him to lean all the more strongly upon stenographers. When arranging to prepare his annual report the other day he found all the shorthand clerks in the department engaged upon work they could not suspend, and he decided to use a phonograph. The first day he dictated something like 15,000 words into the little instrument. The cylinder turned with an easy motion and the machine apparently registered what the secretary said without a hitch. The next day thousands of more words were uttered by the secretary in the little wonder's ear. The third day he completed the report. The cylinders were turned over to the typewriters, and the secretary went out to play golf. When he returned a typewriter came to him.

Metcalf Will Try to Dictate to Phonograph No More.

"Mr. Secretary," he said, "the phonograph did not register properly. Something was the matter with it."

"What's that?" asked the secretary, astonished. "Let's hear it."

The story circulating at the navy department is that the secretary put the receiver to his ears and heard the phonograph gurgle. There was a buzz, then "twenty thousand battleships are required"—buzz, buzz—"submarines are weapons, the armor of which causes them to make not less than nineteen knots per hour."

Then the secretary said a few words which were not registered on the cylinder, and called to his stenographer. He is now engaged in dictating his report to his private secretary.

Judson C. Clements, commissioner of interstate commerce, has just had the experience of having another man reap where he has sown. Judge Clements is an enthusiastic farmer. He hired a small place near Gaithersburg, Md., last spring. He sprang out of bed almost at daylight, plowed and sowed until it was time to catch the train for Washington. He watched the clock in the afternoon as closely as a clerk, and at 4:30, the closing hour, he would slam his desk with a bang and dash for the train. Upon arrival home he would resume work in the fields.

Another Man Reaps Good Where Clements Has Sown.

It was a great experience. The judge saw the tender shoots appear and watched their development with the keenest interest. He would wake up at night and look with swelling breast upon the growing crops.

There was no drought to disturb him and the bugs kept away from his place. The callous skin on his hands hampered him in the use of the pen, but he did not mind the inconvenience. His mouth watered in anticipation of the good things he should eat when the crops were gathered.

Suddenly his dream was rudely shattered. The business of the commission required his presence in Washington. He was unable to arrange it so he could return to his farm in the afternoons. He reluctantly decided to transfer his place to another man, and that man is now gorging himself upon the tender vegetables that Judge Clements planted.

"I would not care so much," the judge declared, "were it not for the fact that love's labor has been lost. I know many men reap where others have sown. My sympathies decidedly are with the latter, but I should prefer for personal reasons to give them to the other class."

David Jayne Hill, who was appointed ambassador to Germany a few days ago, is an authority on European diplomacy. When in Washington as assistant secretary of state he delivered lectures at the George Washington university on the relations of European states, and upon his transfer to Europe continued his studies. In Berne and at The Hague he was able to investigate at first hand the turgid stories of the development and existence of those two buffer states. It has been Dr. Hill's ambition always to go to Germany as the ambassador of the United States, and Mrs. Hill also has been filled with this worthy desire.

Good Intentions of Hill Meet with Misunderstanding.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Hill speak German and French. When they were in Washington Mrs. Hill gave "foreign evenings," when the language spoken was nothing but German or French, or Spanish, as the case might be. It was a form of entertainment intended for the benefit of diplomats who had little opportunity to talk in any such manner, but the Europeans thought it was primarily for the purpose of improving the accent of the Hills, and they looked upon it as a bit of Yankee shrewdness. However, this deduction was erroneous, as the Hills had spent a great deal of time in Europe, and probably had moved in better society than that frequented by many of the diplomats when they were at home.

A naval officer of distinction, after months of consideration, submitted to the secretary of the navy a plan for the improvement of the administration of the battleship fleet. It was returned to him "disapproved." His anger flamed up at the way in which he had been turned down. "There you have it," he said bitterly. "You work like thunder for the government and even your recommendations meet with no favor. I feel, however, there is one more thing I should recommend to the department—that is the organization of a veterinary corps."

suspected powers as vocalist and gave the "Dio Possente," the curse scene, and his part of the Trio in highly satisfactory manner. Mme. Merola was the Marguerite, and although in the first scene nervousness affected her voice, in the church scene she found herself again and did really excellent work. The part is one which lies not best for her voice, but she is artist enough to make it interesting and to do the more dramatic portions of it in telling fashion. Sig. Torre was laboring under unusual nervousness, and it is understood that it has been some time since he last sang the rôle of "Faust," and that he therefore was uneasy concerning it. He began the "Salve Dimora" timidly, but the middle section seemed to give him courage and the ending was carefully taken, but with enjoyable tonal quality. In the Trio he was again more at home and let his voice out clear and strong.

Mme. Zarad was the Siebel and a handsome one she made. She was nervous and her voice suffered in consequence, but the rôle is one which should suit her well soon as she is confident of it. Tonight "Lucia" will be repeated. W. L. HUBBARD.

When We Were Twenty-One.

As the fifth and last in the series of revivals which he has been making at Powers', Nat C. Goodwin brought forward "When We Were Twenty-One" on Monday evening, to the complete and thorough enjoyment of the large audience present. This comedy by Henry V. Esmond easily takes rank as the most satisfactory piece of work that the English dramatist has given us. Its comedy is buoyant and refreshing, its characters are drawn firmly and unerringly, and through it all there runs a vein of human kindliness and sentiment.

The rôle of Richard Carewe is one which fits Mr. Goodwin with the nicety of the proverbial glove. He makes clear at the outset the doting fondness which he has for the Imp and thus makes possible and probable the sacrifice which he afterward makes in his effort to save the youth from folly and rashness. The Goodwin art is as polished, as brilliant, and as technically proficient as it ever has been, and it illumined the entire portrayal, making the character stand out clearly and distinctly, with nothing undone and nothing overdone. Particularly happy were the scenes with Phyllis in the second act and the reconciliation with the Imp in act four. The cry of joy with which he welcomed back the wayward youth thrilled and enthused and found a ready response from a sympathetic audience.

Miss Goodrich appeared as Phyllis and gave the most creditable performance witnessed thus far. In moments of emotion and deep feeling she is helpless and apparently at sea, but in the comedy scenes her acting was delightful, being free from the constraint and artificiality which have characterized it previously. She romped and played about, coquetting with dear old Dick, teasing the Imp, and plaguing the trinity, but never stepped beyond the bounds of charming and modest girlhood. Neil O'Brien, H. G. Lonsdale, and Harrington Reynolds are, with Mr. Goodwin, the members of the "quadrinity," and all acquit themselves admirably. A. Hylton Allen as the Imp, the cause of all the trouble, is boyishly handsome, impulsive, and a trifle conceited and worldly wise as the spoiled darling of "the quadrinity" should be.

Quite appropriately, since her mother, Lydia Thompson, was for a long time the acknowledged queen of burlesque on two continents, Miss Zeffie Tilbury was cast as Kara Glynesk, the Firefly. She accentuated the asperity, the commonness, and boldness of the creature, but failed to lend her sufficient seductive charm to make credible the spell which she was supposed to cast over all the men with whom she came in contact. Miss Rose Snyder made Mrs. Ericson a simple, motherly old lady and rounded out a cast which was eminently satisfactory and praiseworthy.

"When We Were Twenty-one" will be given Saturday afternoon and evening. This afternoon and tonight "An American Citizen," by Mrs. Ryley, will be repeated.

At the Great Northern.

Following Williams and Walker's engagement at the Great Northern E. D. Stair will present George Sidney and his company of singers and dancers in a brand new musical frolic entitled "Busy Izzy as the Mazuma Man." Mr. Sidney has few equals on the stage as a delineator of the Hebrew type. His jovial humor is natural without being offensive or obnoxious to those who question the advisability of racial characterization. The engagement is for one week only.

Good Intentions of Hill Meet with Misunderstanding.

David Jayne Hill, who was appointed ambassador to Germany a few days ago, is an authority on European diplomacy. When in Washington as assistant secretary of state he delivered lectures at the George Washington university on the relations of European states, and upon his transfer to Europe continued his studies. In Berne and at The Hague he was able to investigate at first hand the turgid stories of the development and existence of those two buffer states. It has been Dr. Hill's ambition always to go to Germany as the ambassador of the United States, and Mrs. Hill also has been filled with this worthy desire.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Hill speak German and French. When they were in Washington Mrs. Hill gave "foreign evenings," when the language spoken was nothing but German or French, or Spanish, as the case might be. It was a form of entertainment intended for the benefit of diplomats who had little opportunity to talk in any such manner, but the Europeans thought it was primarily for the purpose of improving the accent of the Hills, and they looked upon it as a bit of Yankee shrewdness. However, this deduction was erroneous, as the Hills had spent a great deal of time in Europe, and probably had moved in better society than that frequented by many of the diplomats when they were at home.

Two and one-half cups sugar, two cups sweet milk, two eggs, a pinch of salt, one cup of butter and lard mixed, 5 cents baking ammonia, 5 cents lemon oil; pound the ammonia fine and soak in half the milk over night. Put together the ingredients and enough flour to make a stiff dough. Roll out very thin and prick with a fork to let the ammonia evaporate. Bake in a quick oven. Set aside at least forty minutes before eating.

How to Choose Game.

Grouse, partridge, and quail should have smooth, heavy, dark bills and yellowish legs. Wild ducks have reddish feet, while tame ducks have yellow feet. Young rabbits have smooth, sharp claws, tender ears and paws, and short necks. The meat of the young rabbit is white and savory, and when old it is dark. Venison should be dark red, with some white fat. Young pigeons have light red flesh on the breast and full flesh colored legs. Old birds are thin and breast dark.

Put Snow in Cakes.

A cupful of light, new fallen snow stirred into cake, or other batters, briskly, the last thing before turning it into the baking pan, is a good substitute for eggs. When snow is used more flour is required—about two tablespoonfuls.

Neat Button Bag.

Take a round piece of figured silk or silkoline eighteen inches in diameter, cut plain sateen the same size for lining, then sew nearly around on the wrong side, fastening in at intervals a dozen brass rings about three-fourths of an inch in diameter, turn right side out, finish sewing, spread on table, draw ribbon through the rings, and draw up. The bag now is ready to hold the loose buttons cut from wornout garments, as well as those on cards, and by spreading the bag out flat on the table the desired buttons can be found easily and quickly.

With the Girl Workers

Housework Not Only Calling.

There is absolutely no reason in the world why any married woman should be barred from employment in offices, and in the fact that women workers are thus liable at marriage to be removed from an active life which interests them and affords them independence and regular and healthful work into the realm of the tea table, gossip, and the servant problem we have an explanation of the large number of such workers who refuse to be gathered into the domestic fold or who get out of it via the divorce courts by thousands every year.

There is, so far as I recall, no animal except the female of our own species that completely changes its mode of living when it mates, thereafter relegating the catching of its food to some one else, and the time is coming, I surmise, when women also will refuse to abandon their professions and trades when they wed. There is no reason in the world why housekeeping should be considered the only profession open to the married woman, and so long as such an opinion holds many women, as I have intimated, intend to cling to single—busyness.

BRADLEY DEFENSE IS ENDED

Dramatic Climax When Thaw Expert Says She Was Insane.

VICTIM'S ACTS UNDER FIRE.

Dr. B. D. Evans Arraigns Former Senator Until Court Checks Speech.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The defense of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley was brought to a dramatic close today. Dr. Britton D. Evans of New York, the insanity expert who baffled District Attorney Jerome in the Thaw case, was the last witness for the defense. He testified that Mrs. Bradley was insane when she killed Brown; then, in an eloquent and forceful statement, arraigned Brown's acts as sufficient to sweep away the last vestige of reason from the woman who killed him. The prosecution objected to this declaration by Dr. Evans, who retorted that it was necessary to bear in mind Brown's acts in analyzing Mrs. Bradley's mental attitude on the day of the tragedy.

Counsel for the government declined to cross examine Dr. Evans. They had subjected Dr. Charles B. Hill of Baltimore and Dr. Isaac Rich of New York to a grueling quiz, but concluded it would be unwise to draw Dr. Evans' fire.

The defense rested as Dr. Evans left the stand, and the prosecution at once began its evidence in rebuttal. Letters from Mrs. Bradley to Brown were read, and then Max Brown, son of the former senator, was called. He was followed by several other Salt Lake witnesses. R. G. Livingston, Brown's former stenographer, was on the stand when court adjourned for the day.

Dr. Evans Denounces Brown.

When Dr. Evans was called to the witness stand a thrill of eager anticipation ran through the courtroom. Mrs. Bradley leaned forward in her chair, and while the hypothetical question was being propounded to the medical expert no other sound than Judge Powers' voice was audible.

Without an instant's hesitation, when the attorney ceased reading, Dr. Evans answered, referring to the time Mrs. Bradley shot Brown:

"I am of the opinion she was insane. She was not able to distinguish between right and wrong and was not able to avoid the wrong and choose the right, as a sane person does."

Dr. Evans' recital of the reasons which led him to reach his conclusion was dramatic. He spoke with a feeling of the utmost sympathy for the defendant. He spoke of the hereditary taint in Mrs. Bradley's family; the blow on her head when she was a child; her attack of smallpox and pneumonia; her unhappy married life; the domination of Brown over her, and finally his complete possession of her. Referring to the several abortions which Mrs. Bradley had undergone, Dr. Evans, speaking of Brown, said:

"And then, after all this, that man, by his own hand, destroyed the child he had begotten, poisoning the circulation of this woman, or introducing germs of infection into the body of the woman he had sworn to love, protect, and care for."

Court Checks Arraignment.

He spoke of postponed promises of marriage and finally of Brown casting Mrs. Bradley adrift.

"We see him," he said, "taking every principle of society and motherhood——"

At this point counsel for the government objected.

"Remember," remarked the court, "that we are not trying Mr. Brown. He is not here to defend himself. We are not to characterize his conduct any further than it may have affected her mind."

"These principles," continued Dr. Evans, after the court's admonition, "affect the mind of a woman who aspires to be a mother and a wife, and when such conditions exist they are apt to upset the mental balance more than any other force that was brought into action. It is a recognized fact that she had this disappointment, and in addition to that she had a positive infection and loss of blood time and time again. It is well recognized that a loss of blood or anæmia upsets the mind. She was subjected to the effect of toxic agencies, and, going to the room of this man and seeing the letters that showed he had violated all obligations he had made to her, her mind could not stand the strain."

Brown's Son on Stand.

After the noon recess Max Brown, son of the late Senator Brown, was called by the government in rebuttal. He was quiet and dignified, and his effort to keep his eyes from Mrs. Bradley was apparent. Mrs. Bradley looked at him intently from the time he went to the stand.

Max Brown said he first saw Mrs. Bradley in 1898 in St. Louis. He did not see her then much, but saw more of her in 1897 and 1898 at their home in Salt Lake City. In 1898 and 1899 he saw her frequently at his father's house. He said she appeared to come to see his mother.

The disclosure of his father's relations with Mrs. Bradley, he said, came in 1901. In the fall of 1901, he said, his mother left the city and during her absence Mrs. Bradley was at their home.

The witness also said he saw his father and Mrs. Bradley at the ranch.

David H. Wenger, judge of the police court of Salt Lake City, testified to having known Mrs. Bradley for ten years, having met her in political campaigns. He said he refused to help Mrs. Bradley in her efforts to have Brown get a divorce from his wife.

Why Money Was Rejected.

Judge William H. King was recalled to the stand. He is the attorney at Salt Lake City who offered a money settlement to Mrs. Bradley to induce her to leave Mr. Brown. She refused this. On cross examination he admitted that at the time he made the offer Mrs. Bradley declared she did not want money for herself, but only wanted Brown to marry her and give the children a name.

James Rowen, who previously testified in the case, said that in 1906 he talked with Mrs. Bradley and she was perfectly rational.

A. H. Kelly of Salt Lake was recalled. He said that in all the time he knew Mrs. Bradley, which was several years, she appeared rational, pleasant, and affable.

R. G. Livingston, stenographer for Brown at Salt Lake City, was on the stand when court adjourned for the day.

MUCH WORK DONE ON PANAMA CANAL

Annual Report of Commission Shows Satisfactory Progress During Year.

YELLOW FEVER CHECKED

Efforts at Sanitation Satisfactory, but Labor Question Still Unsolved.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—There has been spent already on the Panama canal a total of $48,285,110, according to the report made to Secretary Taft by Col. George W. Goethals, chairman and chief engineer of the canal commission, the report bringing the detail of accomplishment and expenditures up to July 1, the close of the last fiscal year. Of this amount only $29,782,682 was spent on the actual work of construction, the remainder being for buildings, preparatory work, and sanitation.

Since the retirement of Chairman Shonts on March 4 and the resignation of Chief Engineer Stevens, effective on April 1, 1907, the entire personnel of the commission has been changed. The two important changes in methods of operation resulted from a combination of the positions of chairman and chief engineer and from the requirement that the commissioners take station on the isthmus, where they can be in direct touch with the work committed to their charge.

Work of Preparation Finished.

Most of the actual digging has been done on the Culebra division of the canal. The first stage of the work, that of preparation, was finished last year, and 4,047,071 cubic yards of earth were removed from the Culebra cut during the first six months of 1907. This division is ten miles long, and the greatest difficulty of construction has been found during the rainy season on account of the dumps. The freshly removed earth after it is wet sinks under the loaded trains and often causes a local cessation of the work until the dump has dried out.

The commission finds, in fact, that the great problem in the construction of that portion of the canal included in the Culebra division is the disposition of the material that has been excavated. The construction of the dams is intimately connected with the excavation of the Culebra cut and the dredging, and it is believed that this part of the work can be done most advantageously and economically by the government rather than by contractors.

"It naturally follows," says the report, "that the method followed for the construction of the dam must be the same—namely: by hired labor under government supervision and not by contract."

Opposed to Contract Work.

The commission does not believe in contract work as a rule. The report goes into an interesting argument of the question, and cites as an instance of comparative cost the fact that the expense of a team for a month, "including all charges for labor, foraging, and miscellaneous items, as well as expense of sick teams, was about $110. A proposal was recently received by the commission from a contractor in the United States, who has had considerable experience in similar work in Central America, to do all land transportation at the rate of $450 per month per team, or over four times what it is costing the commission at the present time."

It is admitted that the question of "government work versus contract in connection with the Panama canal has been discussed and a conclusion reached in favor of the latter method because of certain stated advantages that are claimed to result." But the commission finds that "the advantages set forth are not so apparent or real."

Task of Unprecedented Magnitude.

"The Panama canal presents a piece of work unprecedented in magnitude, which must be done under conditions entirely different from similar classes of work in the United States," the report says. "The work naturally divides itself into dredging, dry excavation, the construction of the locks and dams, and the construction of the new Panama railroad. There is no contractor or syndicate of contractors that by any combination could bring to the isthmus an organization ready for team work on any of these units."

The supply of labor from the United States is the same whether the work be done by contract or by the government. But the dread of the tropics keeps men from seeking work on the isthmus, and since an adequate supply of labor from the United States is not possible, workmen must be had from abroad. The commission finds that European labor is far superior to the blacks from the tropics, who work awhile and then quit. The report describes them as "migratory." But while laborers from Italy, for instance, are anxious to come to the isthmus to work for the government, they manifest a great reluctance to leaving home at the request of a contractor.

Laborers Soon Leave Tropics.

Conditions on the isthmus are peculiar. Work in the tropics saps a man's energy after a time, and he is unable to accomplish the same amount of work that he would perform in a colder climate. The men insist upon having high pay and try to accumulate as much money as possible in a short time, with a view of returning home.

There were about 30,000 men at work on the canal at the end of the fiscal year. During the previous twelve months 20,000 were imported from the United States, Europe, and the West Indies, and about 10,000 men left the isthmus, either because they were sick or because they were tired of the work in that climate.

The commission says "the labor question is still an unsolved one," but the chiefs of departments are learning how to handle the diversity of races and nationalities that gather there. The commissioners clearly are of the opinion that the government can solve the question better than contractors can.

Yellow Fever Stamped Out.

The matter of sanitation, thought for years to be the greatest difficulty in the way of building the canal, is being settled to the satisfaction of the commission. No yellow fever originated on the isthmus during the year, though one case was brought in from a ship. The period of infection fortunately was passed, and the disease did not spread.

Six cases of smallpox were brought into Colon by vessels, and thirty-five or forty cases resulted in the city, but with prompt isolation and vaccination the disease did not spread further. About 3,000 persons who were exposed to smallpox or yellow fever during the year were held in quarantine.

The daily average of sick in the hospitals and in quarters during the year was 916, and there was a marked falling off in the death rate. Five new hospitals were built during the year, besides a hospital for the insane and a retreat for lepers.

In the interest of sanitation $1,750,000 has been spent in the cities of Panama and Colon, on paving, and the water and sewer systems. According to the contract which the government has with those cities, the amount expended in permanent municipal improvements must be repaid.

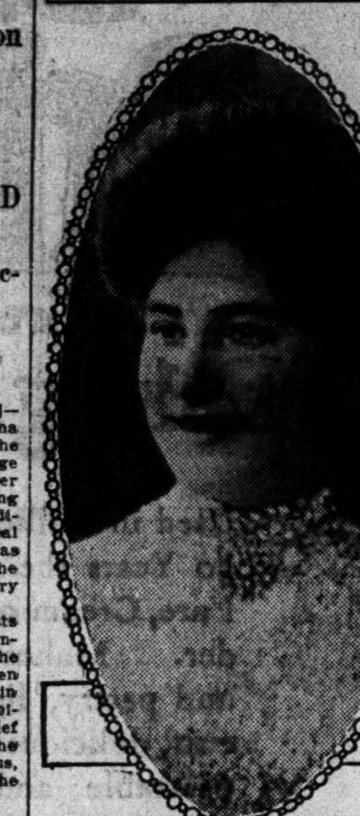

The effective force of the police department numbers 181 officers and men. During the year there were 6,236 arrests and 5,198 convictions. The largest number of arrests principally was due to the influx of foreign laborers, who were not familiar with the laws of the zone.

System of Graded Schools.

Much attention has been paid to the subject of suitable graded schools in the zone for the benefit of children, especially of Americans employed by the commission. The average enrollment for the year was 1,643, and the average attendance 1,138. There are thirty-one school teachers—and they would like to have their salaries raised.

The skilled labor on the isthmus comes mostly from the United States, and has been fairly effective, although the report mentions that "in a number of cases men have been sent down as carpenters at the highest rate of wages who proved on trial to be inefficient, and were either disrated or discharged."

Turks Imprison Chicago Couple.

MRS. D. J. HAUPTMAN

Six hours in an improvised jail with Turkish soldiers on guard was the ordeal of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hauptman, 489 Franklin boulevard, while in Jaffa, on the frontier of Palestine. Mr. and Mrs. Hauptman have just returned from a trip around the world.

Failure on the part of the American consul at Port Said to give them a proper passport, and the additional fact that they were Jews, are given by Mrs. Hauptman as the causes for their trouble. Members of the ship's company, whose passports were not satisfactory, were questioned by soldiers as to their race and creed.

Mr. Hauptman said they were Americans and Jews, and both he and his wife then were imprisoned in a detention station along with a Catholic priest.

During their imprisonment Mr. and Mrs. Hauptman were given only two small cups of coffee, for which they were charged $1. The American consul had gone to a funeral at Jerusalem, but the representative of Cook's agency secured their liberation.

RAIL CUT BLOW TO CHICAGO; COMMERCIAL POWER IN PERIL

Reductions in Freights as Demanded by Missouri River Shippers Would Make Much Trouble.

Chicago's commercial supremacy will be threatened if the interstate commerce commission orders the railroads to make the reduction in freight rates demanded by the Missouri river jobbers. This fact was brought out at the hearing yesterday before Commissioners Clarke and Harlan in the parlors of the Lexington hotel.

The various railroads entered their defense of the rates complained of, under which Kansas City and Omaha jobbers pay $1.47 per 100 pounds for first class freight from New York, while St. Paul and Minneapolis merchants pay $1.15. The complaint charges the distance from New York to St. Paul and to Kansas City is approximately the same, and the commission is asked to equalize the rates. The railroads explained St. Paul, being near Duluth, has the advantage of water transportation from the seaboard, and the railroads were forced by this competition to make a lower rate than to Missouri river points.

Barlow Sounds Warning.

The last witness to be examined was H. C. Barlow of the Chicago Commercial association. It was he who pointed out the disastrous effect which the desired reduction would have on the trade of Chicago merchants. The local shippers had filed application to become parties to the action, and Mr. Barlow took the stand to explain their position. He said:

"The petition of the Kansas City merchants aims at the root of the situation. To change this freight rate basis now would compel Chicago to readjust its entire business methods. Every manufacturer and wholesaler might be obliged to remove part of his plant to Kansas City or St. Paul to make them the distributing points, because of the lower freight rates from New York.

Says Chicago Will Suffer.

"The controversy is between the through rate and the local and accommodation rate. The eastern roads are continually seeking to force the through rate westward in order to extend the field of their shippers. If the rate is made to Kansas City today it may be Denver tomorrow. Chicago will suffer if the system is put into effect. If the through rate from New York to Missouri river points is reduced to $1.10, corresponding reductions must be made for intermediate points. This will give Philadelphia a rate of $1.04 to the Missouri river, and, if carried further, Cleveland, Sandusky, Toledo, and other points east of Chicago will be able to ship goods to Kansas City cheaper than will the Chicago merchants.

"If this reduction is made it must, if fair to all, work a reduction in other rates. It must pick up at Chicago and go west, otherwise our shippers will be forced, as some already have been, to establish branch houses at the Missouri river gateways."

When Mr. Barlow concluded his testimony the hearing was adjourned. The question will be argued before the commission in Washington some time in December.

STOCKS IN NEW YORK GAIN

Prices Show Good Advances on Running Out of Forced Sales.

LOAN RATES ARE EASIER.

Total Dealings in the Afternoon Fall to Small Amounts.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The apparent running out of the forced selling of stocks, the tendency to ease on loan rates, and the small supply of stocks on the market today caused a hardening in the local exchange and prices were advanced by good margins. The full extent of the gains were held to the close, which was firm. During the afternoon the market fell into a state of quiet, almost approaching stagnation at times.

One feature of the day's developments was the news received in Wall street of the good condition of a western financial institution which was reported to have been in trouble.

The easing of the call money market was largely due to the small demand for loans. The approach of the end of the month leaves open a probability of a temporary hardening of money rates to meet the large requirements of that period. These include an installment of subscriptions to new St. Paul stock, originally fixed at 20 per cent, but reduced to 10 per cent since the financial stringency developed, and calling for approximately $10,000,000 at that figure. Great Northern stock subscriptions also are payable in an installment calling for $8,000,000. The interest and dividend payments for December still show an aggregate far in excess of previous years, arguing the continued high rate of the distribution of profits.

The ease of the call loan market did not bring corresponding increase in the demand for commercial paper, for which there is yet practically no market. This condition is greatly hampering the conduct of commercial operations, and is one of the phases of the situation calling most pressingly for relief.

The refusal to take commercial paper by the small interior banks is charged by the New York dealers to be an accompaniment of a piling up of cash holdings to the point of surfeit.

Time money brokers reported some slight increase in the supply of funds in that department, although the market there was still largely nominal. Sales of currency were of only a few thousand dollars, mostly in bills of the smaller denominations, supposed to be for pay roll purposes. The rates paid for foreign exchange were lower, and the day's engagements of gold abroad were light.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,548,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Money on call lower, 3@8 per cent; ruling rate about 6, closing offered at 2. Time loans, firm; 60 days, 15 per cent; 90 days, 12 per cent; six months, 7½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper nominally 8 to 10 per cent. Sterling exchange easier, with actual business in bankers' bills at 486.80@486.85 for demand and at 478.75@479.25 for 60 day bills. Commercial bills, 478@478.50. Bar silver, 57⅝c. Mexican dollars, 46c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The dry goods market holds quiet. Jobbers are doing little in the way of future business and spot trade is confined to small lots. Exporters believe trade will be better with them next year in consequence of lower prices now offered. The cotton yarn market is in a state of demoralization. The lining trade is quiet, but salesmen are to be sent on the road in another week by some of the largest houses.

Metals—Tin in London declined, spot closing at £137 15s and futures at £130 5s. Locally the market was weak at $31.12½@31.37½. Copper was lower in London, with spot and futures both quoted at £61 10s. Locally the market was quiet and unchanged; lake, $13.25@13.75; electrolytic, $13.00@13.50; castings, $12.75@13.25. Lead was unchanged at £16 10s in London and at $4.20@4.30 locally. Spelter declined to £21 5s in the London market. Locally the market was weak, but unchanged, at $4.75@4.85. Iron was lower in London; standard foundry, 49s; Cleveland warrants 49s 9d. Locally the market was unchanged; No. 1 foundry, northern, $18.25@18.75; No. 2 foundry, northern, $17.75@18.25; southern grades, nominal.

Antimony—The local market for antimony continues to present a dull and weak appearance and there is little business of moment in progress. Prices are nominally 10c for Cookson's, 9@9½c for Hallett's, and 8@8½c for ordinary brands. An easier feeling is noted in the London market and Hallett's is quoted at £38, with ordinary brands at £36.

Butter—Steady; receipts, 7,477 pkgs; imitation creamery, firsts, 22@23c. Butter in Philadelphia—Steady; extra western creamery, 29c; extra nearby prints, 30c.

Eggs—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 7,561 cases. Eggs in Philadelphia—Firm; western choice, 33c at mark; do, fair to good, 32c.

Poultry—Alive, firm; western chickens, 10@11½c; fowls, 10½@12c; turkeys, 12@15c. Dressed, irregular; western chickens, 12@14c; turkeys, 16@19c; fowls, 10@13½c.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

The unexpected happened yesterday when, after the steady decline of weeks, the price of hogs showed a gain of 10@25c as a result of the day's market. Receipts far under the morning estimates were probably responsible for the rift in the clouds of despair hanging over the sellers. Packers paid about $4.15 for the hogs they needed. Cattle were not in demand during the day and all the sales showed slight declines. Sheep and lambs were also inclined to be slow, but prices remained steady. Receipts for the day were: Cattle, 11,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 16,000. The general range of prices was as follows:

The censorship of advertising columns is now a policy with most good publications. But all agencies and most advertisers know that THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL is still far in the lead in the protection which it affords to its readers' pocketbooks and sensibilities.

For example: There is a class of advertising which we restrict to a certain amount, simply as a matter of "balance" in our advertising columns. Further advertisements of this sort are declined, not on the ground of dishonesty or misrepresentation, but merely to maintain the "tone" of our columns.

Do you wonder that our readers respond in extraordinary measure to the advertisements which are admitted?

It pays to be particular; it pays us, it pays our readers and it pays our advertisers.

CLIMB BY WHEAT ON GOOD BUYIN[G]

Brisk Cash Demand and Bu[llish] Foreign News Frighte[n] Shorts to Covering.

CORN LIFTED FROM MI[…]

Coarse Grain Rises Sharply [on] Buying for Oversold Shorts [—] Provisions Gain.

With the bulk of news influences favo[…] the bulls and with general market sentim[ent] much improved, wheat values yesterday [had] little difficulty in reaching materially hig[her …] December was highest at the close, the m[ost] active of the deferred futures showing […] a shade under the day's best showings. C[ov]ering by shorts here and in the east and [re]instating by longs who recently pressed [the] market heavily with their holdings e[…] offset the curbed endeavor of bears who c[ould] not figure why the grain should go ab[ove] present prices. Final quotations represen[t] net gains of 2¼c for December, 1½c for M[ay] and 1c for July and September.

Continued strength characterized the [gen]eral cash situation, leading domestic cen[ters] reporting excellent demand, with prices [firm] and unyielding. Elevator concerns surpr[ised] the general trade by the support they [ac]corded the December, liquidation of wh[ich], it is believed, has practically run its cou[rse]. Bids from abroad were fair, the day's t[ran]sactions being of moderate volume. No[rth]western interests were good buyers here [and] in their own markets, notwithstanding [the] arrivals at Duluth and Minneapolis were [the] heaviest on the crop—1,250 cars, compa[red] to 818 cars the similar day last year. It [was] pointed out, however, that of the 913 c[ars] received at Duluth 500, largely of dur[um], were sold to go straight through to Li[ver]pool. The day's primary receipts aggreg[ated] 1,267,000 bu, against 1,099,000 bu a year [ago]. Clearances at the seaboard were ligh[t] 171,000 bu, wheat and flour.

Bullish News from Abroad.

The weekly foreign crop summary [pre]sented a mixed complexion, but there [was] much in the news from abroad to bolste[r] the hopes of the price defenders. India [and] Asia Minor contributed bullish matter, [the] situation in the former country being s[o] as to indicate that it will be out of the [market] as an exporter next year. Asia Minor d[…] on the possibility of famine, with the [au]thorities doing their best to restrict exp[orts]. Liverpool gave good response to the up[turn] here the day before, displaying incre[ased] concern over unfavorable weather co[ndi]tions in the Argentine. It was reporte[d] much rain had fallen in the harvesting [sec]tions of the South American republic, [with] some damage done in the northern provi[nces] by recent hail storms. There was, howe[ver], much matter that suggested favorable c[on]ditions in the Argentine. Broomhall e[sti]mated that that country's exportable [sur]plus would be 148,000,000 bu, large as c[om]pared to recent estimates.

Big Decrease in Available.

According to Bradstreet's, the wo[rld's] available supplies showed a decrease [of] 3,492,000 bu, compared to a gain of 3,092[,000] bu the similar time in 1906. Bulls used [the] statement to advantage. While the st[ock] market showed irregularity, with liquida[tion] in important securities still a factor, se[nti]ment generally was improved concerning [the] financial outlook. Bulls insist that once [the] money situation veers back to normal [the] wheat market, long a sufferer from enfor[ced] liquidation, will prove attractive to inv[est]ors and that prices should legitimately [go] materially higher. The decrease of 304[,000] bu in contract stocks in local regular hou[ses] with the total holdings of the grain 2,000[,000] bu under those of a year ago, also served [as] a part of the bulls' argument. Russian p[…] are still selling wheat to the interior, [and] the latest advices indicate that Spain [will] be forced to import 20,000,000 bu of wh[eat]. A southwestern journal reported that [the] winter wheat area would be decreased, [the] sown acreage in numerous important regi[ons] being fully 20 per cent under that of [last] year. The condition of the grain sown [is] said to be excellent. Eastern millers w[ere] brisk buyers of wheat both here and in [the] northwest, and leading centers reported [a] better tone to the general flour situat[ion]. London wheat cargoes on passage w[ere] dearer.

Corn Shorts Flock to Shelter.

Corn values were yanked out of the [rut] and lifted to a sharply higher level, the [sup]port given the December by oversold sh[orts] and some of the leading bulls being such [as] to send that month to a net gain of 2⅝c [over] the previous weak close. December, at 54[…] closed at the day's top. Even on the stif[f] bulges offerings were far from pressing, [and] the character of the demand indicated a [sur]prisingly large short interest. Cash pr[ices] were strong, with the demand at the ta[bles] much more active than it has been. Rece[ipts] here were 181 cars, against 196 cars a y[ear] ago, the estimate for today being light a[t …] cars. Total primary arrivals were 417[,000] bu, compared to 457,000 bu the similar [time] in 1906. May corn closed at a gain of [… and] the July winding up also ¾c firmer.

Liverpool Scores a Gain.

Liverpool disregarded the break here [the] day before, closing at a net advanc[e of] ½@⅝d. An improved demand was repo[rted] at the English market, whose interest [was] considerably aroused by reports of unfa[vor]able conditions in the Argentine. T[here] were, however, advices from the S[outh] American country which indicated the [sit]uation to be satisfactory. Bulls pointed [their] fingers to the lightness of local cont[ract] stocks—only 47,000 bu—and saw little on [the] surface to indicate much improvemen[t in] the movement from the farms. Bradstr[eet's] figured the world's available supplies [a] decrease of 1,065,000 bu, compared to a[n in]crease of 373,000 bu the similar time [last] year. Strength of the hog market and a[n up]turn in the provisions list had excellen[t ef]fect on the corn market.

Oats Dull and Stronger.

Oats again were quiet and narrow, b[ut] did not require much support to lift va[lues] to important gains. The strength elsew[here] on the floor worked benefit to the ma[rket], which received buying orders from lea[ding] bulls and shorts. Offerings at no time [were] pressing. Fair business was transacte[d] the sample tables at improved prices. L[ocal] receipts were 219 cars, arrivals at pri[mary] points aggregating 501,000 bu, against 67[…] bu a year ago. The local estimate for t[oday] was light at 93 cars. Bradstreet's estim[ate of] the world's available at a decrease of 88[…] bu, compared to an increase of 1,078,00[0] last year. It is said that all but 15 per [cent] of the oats crop in Minnesota and South [Da]kota has been marketed. Final pit p[rices] represented net gains of 1@1⅛c for De[cem]ber, ⅝@1c for May, and ⅝c for July.

Sharp Rise in Provisions.

Provisions took to the skies during the [day], final prices showing net gains of 40c for [pork] and 17½@20c for lard and ribs. One o[f the] leading packers, who has been consid[ered] heavily short, bought on a pretentious s[cale], his action suggesting similar procedur[e on] the part of less prominent shorts. O[ther] packers were against the market for a t[ime], but the readiness with which values [re]sponded to the buying served to curb t[heir] aggressiveness on the selling side. Rec[eipts] of hogs here and at other leading wa[…] points were light, the total western m[ove]ment being only 49,900, against 74,500 a [year] ago. Prices for hogs were higher, wit[h the] demand excellent. Shipments of meats [and] lard hence were much under those of a [year] ago, and the general reports on cash busi[ness] were bearish. Estimated local receip[ts of] swine for today were 30,000.

Rye Mart Is Quiet.

Rye was quiet, but bids were stronger [than] recently, light offerings and the streng[th in] wheat being influencing factors. Dece[mber] closed at 75c and May at 84c bid and […] asked. No. 1 sold at 81c, No. 3 75c, and [No.] 4 60c f. o. b. Receipts were 2 cars.

Barley advanced 2c. There was good [buy]ing demand, while offerings were mode[rate].

CLIMB BY WHEAT ON GOOD BUYING.

CORN LIFTED FROM MIRE.

Coarse Grain Rises Sharply on Buying for Oversold Shorts; Provisions Gain.

With the bulk of news influences favoring the bulls and with general market sentiment much improved, wheat values yesterday had little difficulty in reaching materially higher. December was highest at the close, the more active of the deferred futures showing only a shade under the day's best showings. Covering by shorts here and in the east and reinstating by longs who recently pressed the market heavily with their holdings easily offset the curbed endeavor of bears who cannot figure why the grain should go above present prices. Final quotations represented net gains of 2¼c for December, 1½c for May, and 1c for July and September.

Continued strength characterized the general cash situation, leading domestic centers reporting excellent demand, with prices stiff and unyielding. Elevator concerns surprised the general trade by the support they accorded the December, liquidation of which, it is believed, has practically run its course. Bids from abroad were fair, the day's total workings being of moderate volume. Northwestern interests were good buyers here and in their own markets, notwithstanding the arrivals at Duluth and Minneapolis were the heaviest on the crop—1,250 cars, compared to 818 cars the similar day last year. It was pointed out, however, that of the 913 cars received at Duluth 500, largely of durum, were sold to go straight through to Liverpool. The day's primary receipts aggregated 1,267,000 bu, against 1,099,000 bu a year ago. Clearances at the seaboard were light at 171,000 bu, wheat and flour.

Bullish News from Abroad.

The weekly foreign crop summary presented a mixed complexion, but there was much in the news from abroad to bolster up the hopes of the price defenders. India and Asia Minor contributed bullish matter, the situation in the former country being such as to indicate that it will be out of the field as an exporter next year. Asia Minor dwelt on the possibility of famine, with the authorities doing their best to restrict exports. Liverpool gave good response to the upturn here the day before, displaying increased concern over unfavorable weather conditions in the Argentine. It was reported too much rain had fallen in the harvesting sections of the South American republic, with some damage done in the northern provinces by recent hail storms. There was, however, much matter that suggested favorable conditions in the Argentine. Broomhall estimated that that country's exportable surplus would be 148,000,000 bu, large as compared to recent estimates.

Big Decrease in Available.

According to Bradstreet's, the world's available supplies showed a decrease of 3,492,000 bu, compared to a gain of 3,002,000 bu the similar time in 1906. Bulls used this statement to advantage. While the stock market showed irregularity, with liquidation in important securities still a factor, sentiment generally was improved concerning the financial outlook. Bulls insist that once the money situation veers back to normal the wheat market, long a sufferer from enforced liquidation, will prove attractive to investors and that prices should legitimately go materially higher. The decrease of 304,000 bu in contract stocks in local regular houses, with the total holdings of the grain 2,000,000 bu under those of a year ago, also served as a part of the bulls' argument. Russian ports are still selling wheat to the interior, and the latest advices indicate that Spain will be forced to import 20,000,000 bu of wheat. A southwestern journal reported that the winter wheat area would be decreased, the sown acreage in numerous important regions being fully 20 per cent under that of last year. The condition of the grain sown is said to be excellent. Eastern millers were brisk buyers of wheat both here and in the northwest, and leading centers reported a better tone to the general flour situation. London wheat cargoes on passage were dearer.

Corn Shorts Flock to Shelter.

Corn values were yanked out of the rut and lifted to a sharply higher level, the support given the December by oversold shorts and some of the leading bulls being such as to send that month to a net gain of 2⅝c over the previous weak close. December, at 54¼c, closed at the day's top. Even on the stiffest bulges offerings were far from pressing, and the character of the demand indicated a surprisingly large short interest. Cash prices were strong, with the demand at the tables much more active than it has been. Receipts here were 181 cars, against 196 cars a year ago, the estimate for today being light at 85 cars. Total primary arrivals were 417,000 bu, compared to 457,000 bu the similar day in 1906. May corn closed at a gain of ⅞c, the July winding up also ⅞c firmer.

Liverpool Scores a Gain.

Liverpool disregarded the break here the day before, closing at a net advance of ⅛@⅜d. An improved demand was reported at the English market, whose interest was considerably aroused by reports of unfavorable conditions in the Argentine. There were, however, advices from the South American country which indicated the situation to be satisfactory. Bulls pointed long fingers to the lightness of local contract stocks—only 47,000 bu—and saw little on the surface to indicate much improvement in the movement from the farms. Bradstreet's figured the world's available supplies at a decrease of 1,065,000 bu, compared to an increase of 373,000 bu the similar time last year. Strength of the hog market and an upturn in the provisions list had excellent effect on the corn market.

Oats Dull and Stronger.

Oats again were quiet and narrow, but it did not require much support to lift values to important gains. The strength elsewhere on the floor worked benefit to the market, which received buying orders from leading bulls and shorts. Offerings at no time were pressing. Fair business was transacted at the sample tables at improved prices. Local receipts were 219 cars, arrivals at primary points aggregating 501,000 bu, against 674,000 bu a year ago. The local estimate for today was light at 93 cars. Bradstreet's estimated the world's available at a decrease of 887,000 bu, compared to an increase of 1,078,000 bu last year. It is said that all but 15 per cent of the oats crop in Minnesota and South Dakota has been marketed. Final pit prices represented net gains of 1@1⅛c for December, ⅛@1c for May, and ⅜c for July.

Sharp Rise in Provisions.

Provisions took to the skies during the day, final prices showing net gains of 40c for pork and 17½@20c for lard and ribs. One of the leading packers, who has been considered heavily short, bought on a pretentious scale, his action suggesting similar procedure on the part of less prominent shorts. Other packers were against the market for a time, but the readiness with which values responded to the buying served to curb their aggressiveness on the selling side. Receipts of hogs here and at other leading western points were light, the total western movement being only 49,900, against 74,500 a year ago. Prices for hogs were higher, with the demand excellent. Shipments of meats and lard hence were much under those of a year ago, and the general reports on cash business were bearish. Estimated local receipts of swine for today were 30,000.

Rye Mart Is Quiet.

Rye was quiet, but bids were stronger than recently, light offerings and the strength in wheat being influencing factors. December closed at 75c and May at 84c bid and 85c asked. No. 1 sold at 81c, No. 3 75c, and No. 4 60c f. o. b. Receipts were 2 cars.

Barley advanced 2c. There was good malting demand, while offerings were moderate.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

For the first time since the beginning of the financial stringency the east was a good buyer both of corn and oats here, sales of both being large at prices ½@1c higher for oats and unchanged to ½c up for corn. New England points were especially strong bidders, indicating that the eastern dealers are once more practically on a cash basis and that stocks are extremely light. As but little of either corn or oats has been sold for the last three weeks, compared to the quantity usually sold at this time of the year, it is expected that the easing up of financial conditions will cause an enormous demand to spring up. Holders of oats are assuming an independent attitude. Having held their stocks intact throughout the monetary difficulties, they now are in a position to command fancy prices for their grain, and evidently are not going to allow the opportunity to pass unimproved. Stocks in the east have been cleaned up rapidly and supplies at reserve centers have not shown much of an increase. In the northwest it is almost impossible to buy a round lot of oats, and prices are nearly as high as in Chicago. Cash oats men last night were asserting that the price of sample oats would shortly be as high as the prices touched early in the fall. Sales of coarse grains reported were 350,000 bu corn and 150,000 bu oats. The seaboard reported 96,000 bu corn sold for export.

Developments in the cash grain field yesterday indicated financial conditions are being rapidly bettered in all sections, especially in the east, from whence came a good demand for all grains. No. 2 red wheat was in good demand and prices paid varied from ½c to ⅝c over December, according to the location. North side wheat sold at ½c over, and brokers are finding it increasingly difficult to locate cargoes convenient for loading. Part of the wheat taken was for direct export, and it was claimed that comparatively little was unsold for foreign shipment. Cash wheat premiums at Minneapolis were advanced ½c, and at Duluth durum wheat was 3c higher. At both points there was a good demand, and the heavy receipts were cleaned up early in the day. Minneapolis stocks increased 100,000 bu for three days. The seaboard reported fair acceptances of wheat, with a strong undertone to the foreign bids. Gulf exporters said there was no new business being done in wheat, and that No. 2 hard was sold at 11¼c over Chicago December free on board. Winnipeg wired that their good wheat soon would be gone, as milling companies were buying everything in sight. Total sales here were 225,000 bu, part for export and part for shipment to interior mills. Seaboard sales were 320,000 bu.

Foreign crop conditions, as cabled by Broomhall, follow: United kingdom and Italy—Seeding is making good progress under good weather conditions. France—Seeding is about finished. Supplies are liberal. Spain—The outlook for seeding continues favorable. Our agent at Barcelona estimates the import requirements at 20,000,000 bu. Germany—Various complaints are heard as a result of drought, vermin, and cold weather, and supplies are only fair. Austria-Hungary—As a result of the recent rains the outlook is more favorable. Roumania—The weather is mild and rainy, which is favorable for wheat. Stocks at the ports and on barges are large, but in the interior stocks are practically exhausted. Russia—There is no change in the outlook. Ports continue to sell wheat to the interior. Argentina—Our agent reports that conditions in the north are less favorable, as dry weather is wanted. Australia—Our agent at Sydney cables that a marked improvement has been noticed in the districts where wheat was planted late.

Northwestern shorts in December wheat covered in a hurry and narrowed the spread, and, helped by the covering of some of the local shorts and buying by cash houses, the December-May spread was narrowed to 8⅝c. Daggett was a big buyer of the December. Buying generally was of a fairly good character. Cudahy, Logan, Canby, Pringle, Bartlett, Comstock, Schultz, and Gifford were on the buying side. Dickinson, Lake, and Brosseau sold long wheat on the bulge. Bartlett-Frazier, Knight-McDougall, and Howe were good buyers of corn. Selling was headed by Marfield, Armour, and scattered sellers. Patten brokers, Wrenn, and Roberts were the leaders in the buying of oats. Updike, Buckley, and Peavey were the best sellers. Shorts covered freely in provisions, Cudahy Packing company and Hately being big buyers early. On the advance, however, the big houses poured immense lines into the pit. Armour sold a large quantity of ribs and lard and Swift was a big seller of pork.

Crop prospects in Argentina leave nothing to be desired, according to a letter to Clement-Curtis from their Buenos-Ayres correspondent. Weather conditions have favored crop development and southerly winds have kept away the dreaded locust. There have been the usual hail storms, but the damage has been slight. Rains have not done any damage, and sensational cables to the effect of heavy rains injuring the plant are deplored. Weather conditions have been ideal for wheat, maize, and linseed alike. If nothing untoward happens before Dec. 10 it is claimed Argentina will astonish the world with her wheat crop.

"Local stocks of wheat available for delivery on December contracts will be pretty well riddled before the first of the month," said a well posted cash wheat man in the evening. "The heavy stocks here are more apparent than real. I do not believe there will be 3,000,000 bu free wheat in local public elevators on delivery day. Even today it is not easy to find a cargo of wheat here for immediate shipment. This condition ought to narrow the December-May spread considerably."

Bradstreet's report of the available supply last week shows the following decreases:

The directors during the day renewed their previous offer of $2,000 to take up memberships offered by any of those who have made application to withdraw. The offer is limited to forty-eight hours. George P. Guerin has posted his application for withdrawal.

An Indian cable read: "Latest advices report the outlook as being worse than heretofore reported. It is probable there will be no wheat for export during the season of 1908; so far this season exports have amounted to about 30,000,000 bu."

It was claimed that on the Soo road running west and north from Minneapolis it was stated there was not as much wheat in country elevators as there was piled up on the ground at country stations last fall.

"Financial conditions in the northwest are much better," said a Minneapolis message to W. H. Lake. "Cash wheat is strong, with premiums ½c better and mills and elevator interests scrambling for the wheat."

Duluth was a big buyer of wheat here through different houses. Duluth grain men claimed that navigation would not close before the middle of December, and that they were doing a big export business.

The officials of the Northwestern Railway company estimate that about 75 per cent of the wheat in southern Minnesota and South Dakota has been marketed and about 85 per cent of the oats.

Closing prices for wheat in foreign markets were: Liverpool, ⅛@1d higher; Paris, unchanged to ¼c up; Antwerp, unchanged to ⅝c higher; Berlin, ¾c lower; Budapest, ½c lower.

The wheat crop of South Australia is officially estimated at 15,760,000 bu, against 17,100,000 bu last year, and 20,100,000 bu in 1905.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 30 cars; corn, 85 cars; oats, 93 cars; rye, 4 cars; barley, 8 cars; hogs, 30,000.

Winnipeg had 355 cars of wheat, against 699 for two days a year ago.

Charters were made for 80,000 bu wheat to Buffalo at 1¼c.

Malting was quoted 83@92c, feed 60@70c, and screenings 40@60c. Receipts were 15 cars.

Flaxseed was easy. No. 1 northwestern closed at $1.12, No. 1 from the northwest $1.10½, No. 1 southwestern $1.02, and No. 2 southwestern 99c@1.03. Receipts, 1 car.

Timothy seed was neglected. November closed at $4.20 and March $4.50. Country lots were quoted $3.60@4.20.

Clover seed was unchanged. November closed at $15.00. Cash lots, $11.00@14.50.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Business on the stock exchange today was restricted by the settlement, but the tone continued cheerful. The better monetary outlook caused a further hardening of consols and British securities. Americans ruled dull and listless the greater part of the session. Later in the day good buying turned prices upward and caused a firm close.

The release yesterday of $5,000,000 in gold by the Indian secretary cheered the money market considerably and funds appeared abundant.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Trading on the bourse today opened heavy on New York advices. Later it steadied and closed firm.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The general tendency of the trading on the boerse today was weak.

IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE

Action of New York Banks in Flower Case Affects Stocks.

TO MAINTAIN STEEL PRICES.

Payments of Currency on Checks Is Becoming More Frequent.

The fact that the business of Flower & Co. was to be liquidated by the New York banks, instead of further securities being thrown on the market, induced a great deal of short covering yesterday with the result that stocks advanced to around the point they closed last Saturday. Another large firm, it is said, is to be cared for, and this helped to scare the short interest. But from all that can be learned there will be a great many millions of securities offered on the market whenever it shows strength enough to absorb them.

The premium on currency continued in New York, ranging from 1¾ to 2¼ per cent. In Chicago no transactions in currency were announced. Sturges & Co., who have been conducting such dealings, said there were neither bids nor offers. There are some transactions in New York exchange. The banks are becoming a little more free in payment of currency.

To Hold Up Steel Prices.

It will be interesting to note developments in connection with a meeting of iron and steel officials held at the Waldorf when E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States steel corporation, gave a dinner to these officials.

What happened there may be responsible for firmness in the steel corporation stocks. It is understood, since the dinner, that virtual agreement was reached to maintain the prices of the products of the steel companies. If this is to be carried out then there should not be such a great shrinkage in market values of the corporation stocks.

But there is another feature which savors of restraint of trade. An agreement, gentlemen's or otherwise, to maintain prices, comes close to being a "trust" proposition. Just at present President Roosevelt has been led to believe he should not prosecute for the time being his plans for the regulation of trusts. He appears to have agreed that the steel corporation might take over the Tennessee Coal and Iron company. Now, apparently, these same interests believe he will not interfere with an artificial holding up of prices.

Subscriptions to Certificates.

J. B. Forgan of the First National bank returned yesterday from Washington. Mr. Forgan's mission was to learn definitely the terms on which the government expected the banks to subscribe for 3 per cent certificates of indebtedness. The terms are payment of 25 per cent to the treasury, and the crediting by the subscribing banks of 75 per cent of the purchase price to the government as a deposit subject to check. The local depository banks have subscribed for $2,500,000.

Corn Products Refining.

E. T. Bedford, president of the Corn Products Refining company, states that the company's contention with Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, is whether glucose or corn sirup is a proper name for the product, the company claiming that corn sirup is more descriptive and in every way a proper title, that it has been used for thirty years; that its use has been sanctioned by most of the food commissioners of the various states, and in the state of Illinois it has been given a preference in law over the word glucose; that glucose is not in any sense a descriptive name, and, as compared to corn sirup, is a misnomer; that so far back as 1884 the name corn sirup was employed in the United States government documents and reports; that since then it has been repeatedly and steadily employed, particularly in the circulars of the secretary of agriculture, containing the promulgation of food definitions. Mr. Bedford says, further:

"The name corn sirup appeared as a synonym for glucose, and it is only in the later publication of 1906 that this was omitted. The Supreme court of the state of Michigan upheld the name corn sirup as a synonym for glucose. The title is recognized abroad. The most eminent authorities indorse, stating that corn sirup scientifically is a better title.

"All dealers know that glucose, while being a most healthful product, has been, as a name, much misrepresented and got into bad repute, and this is one of our objections to our using that title aside from the fact that it does not give the consumer any information as does corn sirup as to what he is buying and consuming. Corn sirup, in our opinion, is as much the proper title as is that of corn meal, or corn starch, which are household words.

"As far as our business is concerned, there is no deception practiced whatever. The cans are properly labeled corn sirup as flavored with cane sirup, the percentage of each product being plainly given."

General Financial News.

Since last Friday the New York subtreasury has gained $694,000 from the banks.

It is announced that the greater part of the copper sold in October and the early part of the current month for shipment to Europe was for December and January delivery.

It is denied there is any intention of reducing the dividend on Kansas City Railway and Light preferred. The stock has declined with the general market. The common stock, however, shows a 50 per cent price loss.

The New York subtreasury yesterday made the following transfer of cash: To Chicago, $400,000; St. Louis, $250,000; Philadelphia, $205,000; Denver, $200,000.

Chicago Stocks.

In the local stock market American Shipbuilding common was firm on small transactions. The price closed at 40. Chicago Pneumatic Tool worked a little lower, closing at 22. Chicago Telephone shows no improvement over 105. It is recognized that a great deal of money must be expended.

Swift & Co. shares made a good record, advancing to 84½c. The liquidation in this stock has fairly well exhausted itself.

Sample & Misfit Garments.

25% TO 50% OFF.

SOMETHING TO INTEREST EVERY MAN.

Owing to the volume of our business and the liberal treatment which we accord to our customers who find fault of any kind with our work, or with the fitting of their garments, we receive a large number of garments back. In the course of a season we sometimes receive as much as many small clothing stores buy for their season's requirements. We are obliged to take a loss on these garments, and we do it gracefully and as quickly as possible.

We have just had returned by our branch stores all of their season's accumulation of misfits, errors, and returned garments of all descriptions. If we can fit you, we will sell you a $40.00 suit for $25.00; a $30.00 suit for $20.00; a $25.00 suit for $15.00, and other garments at proportionate reductions. We have some few of last year's garments which we offer at about ⅓ of the above prices, so you can see why we are anxious to turn them into money quickly. The style changes and they are worth only ½ as much the following season.

These garments are brand new and we will guarantee them in perfect condition. Here is an opportunity to dress swell at a decidedly low cost. Call early and select before best patterns are taken.

THE LOFTIS SYSTEM

DIAMONDS ON CREDIT

All that is necessary for you to do in order to get a high grade diamond or watch is to step into our store and select from our enormous stock the gem or piece of jewelry you desire, pay a small amount down, usually one-fifth of the price, take the article, wear and enjoy it while paying the balance in small amounts, either monthly or weekly, as suits your convenience. Payments made on a diamond are the same as putting money in a bank, with the added advantage that it is much safer and pays a great deal better because of the annual increased value. Diamonds have increased about 20% in the past year and are still rising in value. They are indestructible, never wear out or become second hand property. Put your money in a diamond and your money will always be safe. Bank failures and money panics like the present one will never affect you.

We Accept Checks and Clearing House Certificates as Cash.

YOU ASSUME NO RISK when dealing with us, because we give a written guarantee of value and quality with every purchase. Our guarantee has over a million dollars behind it, and is backed by the highest bank and commercial ratings. You are fully protected, not only as regards the quality and value of the article purchased, but also during the entire time you are paying for the same. In the event of being compelled through sickness, accident, or loss of position to discontinue payments we do not, as is customary in the installment trade, demand the forfeit of the payments made and return of the goods—but we allow our customers to return the goods and to select any other goods to the full amount of the payments made. We do not ask or expect unreasonable or impossible things from our patrons. The Loftis System is not an installment system, but a Credit System, with all the courtesies and advantages of legitimate commercial credit.

Open daily until 6:30 p. m. Saturday until 9 p. m.

DEAL DEVELOPS ON ARCHER

More Lots Transferred During Day in That District.

LAND CONVEYED TO ROAD.

Thornton Transfer Made in Connection with Proposed Yards.

Conveyances of five more parcels of land in the Archer avenue district were filed for record yesterday, making thirteen during the last two days. It is said the recording of all these instruments marks the closing of the big deal which has been developing during the last two years, and that definite announcement of the project behind the buying is likely to be made within a short time. The Chicago Title and Trust company took title and the properties conveyed are in State street, La Salle street, and Wentworth avenue.

The State street holdings comprise the premises 1732-1730, to which Harry L. Irwin originally took title for $30,000, with incumbrance of $20,000, and the premises 1826-1830, which were transferred for $23,000.

The La Salle street property conveyed comprises the premises at 2000, in connection with which was conveyed the premises 2013 Wentworth avenue; also the property at 2004 La Salle street and 2007-2009.

Error in Description.

Correction of a contract for sale involving property in Desplaines street between Harrison and Van Buren streets, the scene of much recent mysterious buying, was filed for record during the day. The original contract, which runs from William H. Oliver to Walter Z. Marx, covered lot three, block twenty-nine, with four story building, at a consideration of $50,000.

It was stated the description should have been lot three, block thirty. To bind the contract $2,000 was paid and $18,000 is to be paid on delivery of the deed, $15,000 on or before two years, and $15,000 on or before five years.

Philip Birk has for a nominal consideration conveyed to the Passionist Academic Institute of Illinois a tract of six and two-third acres near Park Ridge, in Maine township.

Gets Land for Yard.

Record was made of the conveyance of about eighty acres in Thornton township by several owners to the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road for a nominal consideration. This is a part of the tract of 176 acres acquired last year for yard purposes.

'NEW POSTOFFICE' CRY OF CHICAGO.

Congressman McGavin Will Present Bill Providing a Remedy Early in Session.

LEGISLATORS FAVOR IT.

City's Delegation Agrees with the Postmaster Quick Action Must Be Taken.

One of the first bills to be presented to congress when it convenes will be a measure offered by Congressman McGavin granting to Chicago its new postoffice building. Back of this bill will be the support of the other Chicago congressmen, petitions from the city council, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and other prominent civic organizations. With this support, and the work already done in Washington by Postmaster Daniel Campbell, it is expected the needed $1,500,000 will be granted and that the mail service of Chicago will be greatly improved.

So confident is Postmaster Campbell that congress will grant the needed aid that he has begun to look over the west side for a suitable site near the Northwestern and union depots. The proposed change would give two additional floors in the federal building for other departments of the government that have been cramped for space.

Legislators Favor Move.

Each member of the lower house from Chicago has indicated he will do all in his power to secure the needed appropriation. Senators Cullom and Hopkins also have been seen by Postmaster Campbell, and are in favor of a new building.

If the structure is erected, the location of the general postoffice offices will remain in the federal building as at present. The new building will be used to receive and assort incoming and outgoing mail, and will greatly facilitate service if it is located, as planned, near the two railway depots where the bulk of the mail is received and sent, the Union and Northwestern stations.

"The present facilities of the department are entirely inadequate for our needs," said the postmaster. "The Chicago office took in over $13,000,000 last year, or about one-thirteenth of the revenue of the entire postoffice system. This shows the large amount of mail handled here.

"The natural increase of business here means that in a couple of years there will be such a congestion, the service will be hampered unless we are given relief.

Predicts Favorable Report.

"We should provide against this before the crisis arrives. The postmaster general has been informed of conditions, and I think will report favorably upon the request for a new building.

"The new building will be devoted entirely to receiving and sorting incoming and outgoing mail. At present this mail is all carted across the city from the depots. Then the driveway under the federal building is too narrow for the purpose. When the mail is received it is taken to the second floor of the building on elevators, assorted, and then sent to the first floor before being distributed.

"The delay of these moves can be done away with by having one building where all this work can be done. A building a block long would be needed, and would enable us to prepare for the emergency that would arise in a year or so under present conditions."

Madden Promises Support.

"Chicago apparently needs new facilities," said Congressman Martin B. Madden, "and, although I am not as conversant with the conditions as Postmaster Campbell, I shall support the measure when introduced."

"That the Chicago postoffice is too small to handle the amount of mail brought in has been known for some time," said Congressman W. W. Wilson, "and the movement for a new building will have plenty of support. The Chicago postoffice under the administration of the postmasters of the last few years has made an enviable record, and I do not think there will be much opposition when the need is shown at Washington."

Congressmen McDermott, Mann, Foss, Sabath, and Boutell have expressed themselves in similar terms.

Busse Is Big Factor.

The petition of the Chicago council signed by Mayor Busse is expected to carry weight in Washington on account of the fact that when postmaster Mr. Busse was known as one of the most efficient men in the service. Many improvements were made at his request.

"The need of a building near depots for the handling of mail has been recognized for some time," said Mayor Busse, "and I am sure that Washington will assist Chicago. We usually have been successful in getting what we wanted from Washington, and I think that Postmaster Campbell will overcome any objections to the additional appropriation when he goes to Washington."

WOMAN FINED FOR CONTEMPT.

Mrs. Mary O'Connell Learns That a Headache Is No Excuse for Trifling with Municipal Court.

Mrs. Mary O'Connell, 38 years old, 4440 North Clark street, was punished by Judge Petit yesterday because she had failed to appear in court and prosecute her husband after she had caused his arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct.

"I had a headache," she explained.

"Do you think this court is a playhouse?" Judge Petit demanded.

"Well, my husband always quarrels with me," said Mrs. O'Connell.

"Is that all?" asked the court.

"That's about all."

"I fine you $5 and costs for contempt of court," the court said. "The defendant is discharged."

O'Connell paid his wife's fine.

BAKING POWDER STIRS CUPID

Love God Goes in Can to Alaska and Lodges in Indian's Heart.

BRINGS NOBLE REDMAN HERE

Schouchuk, Carlisle Football Player Smitten by Chicago Girl.

A hero in battle no less than in romance, Schouchuk, the famous "subcenter" of the Carlisle Indian football team, departed yesterday with his tribesmen. For when the stalwart Schouchuk arrived in Chicago a week ago it wasn't the thought of the gridiron battle that caused his heart to flutter. He came with the determination to enter another contest, and it is only fair to the agile redman to say that he was victorious.

Were another Longfellow to compose another song of Hiawatha and desired to diverge from the ordinary run of romances, he might do well to hear Schouchuk's story. In this version, laying fancy aside, the rôle of Little Laughing Water is filled by—not a maiden of Dacotahs—but a daughter of the "pale face" tribe—a bookkeeper, Miss Kate Lane, 4701 Prairie avenue.

Nor would the famous Hiawatha's pear feather, his speedy arrows, and his venison cut any figure. Instead a can of baking powder, and a tiny note, and a long trip by freight across mountain and sea and plain, from Chicago to Sitka, Alaska.

Baking Powder Starts Romance.

It happened this way. Three years ago Miss Lane's sister Mary, who was at that time employed in a wholesale grocery, slipped a note inside a can of making powder, incased in a flaming red wrapper. The note bore her name and address and the words, "Will you please write to me?"

Miss Lane packed away this particular can in a consignment of goods billed to an Indian mission school, near Sitka, Alaska. Months and years went by and no word came back from the baking powder note. Without ever surmising that in the far away Alaska an Indian brave was laying siege to her heart, Miss Mary Lane married. Then came a letter, in crude writing, telling that Schouchuk, an Indian brave who was employed in the kitchen of the mission, and also was learning the ways and language of the white man, was possessor of the note, and that he was "coming to see her."

The romance rightfully fell to the lot of the younger sister, who was unmarried. Miss Kate Lane, 19 years old, answered the Indian's letter. An occasional epistle from Schouchuk told of his entrance into the Carlisle school in Pennsylvania and progress as a student and athlete. And recently came the message that he was coming to Chicago with the football team and "would call."

Schouchuk a Warm Wooer.

So last Saturday morning, full of vigor from diligent training, the persistent Schouchuk called at 4701 Calumet avenue, where Miss Lane is employed as bookkeeper for Charles R. Lybrink's plumbing and steamfitting concern.

It followed as a natural conclusion that Miss Lane was one of the few girls amid the banks of spectators that carried a Carlisle pennant on the afternoon of the famous game. It might have been observed also that the eye of Schouchuk divided its attention between the goal of the Maroons and the Carlisle pennant held by Miss Lane.

Sunday the Indian hero called at Miss Lane's residence. He wore two big plasters across his copper colored brow. He looked the part of a hero, for he is tall, and graceful, and handsome—and, then the plasters. Reference to the victory caused the redman to blush. He ducked and asked more about the can of baking powder with the red wrapper.

Again Monday Schouchuk called at the Calumet avenue address. Miss Lane's employer, whose wife also is employed in the office, grew acquainted with the situation. Mrs. Lybrink consented to do Miss Lane's work. The kindly welcome pleased the Indian. All day yesterday until half an hour of train time Schouchuk visited in the plumbing shop. The train left at 3:18 p. m. At 3:10 the phone rang. It was the faithful Schouchuk. By actual count Miss Lane said "good-by" five times.

ALIEN IN DANGER IN MISSISSIPPI

Diplomat Tells Why Aust... Hungarians Are Warned to Stay Away from Southern State.

ITALIAN FILES PROTE...

Fiendish Attack on Crippled ...eigner Who Wanted Childre... to Have Education Goes Unpunished.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.] "In the east, yes; in the north, yes; in the west, yes; but, ah, in the south, no, no," exclaimed an attaché of the Austro-Hungarian embassy, with a dramatic wave of his hand, when asked whether his countrymen who come to America ... prospering.

He was talking of the action of his government in establishing a boycott upon the state of Mississippi. This step was absolutely necessary, he declared, because the federal and state authorities had absolutely failed to protect the foreigners that there was nothing for his home government to do but to warn its citizens intending to come to the United States to stay away from the state of Mississippi in particular, and to be careful of other southern states as well.

"Men have been murdered in the south," he said, "and not the slightest attention has been paid to it by any of the authorities. Our citizens in some localities have been treated exactly as the negroes have been treated. If they resist they are shot down or assaulted, and we have yet to hear of the first case in which a criminal has been punished.

Says Appeals Are Useless.

"We appealed to the state department frequently. Mr. Root expressed greatest sympathy over the situation. He made certain protests to the Mississippi authorities, and the matter ended there. We deal, of course, with the federal government alone. We can not appear in a state court, nor can we make the slightest representation direct to a governor or other state officer.

"Assaults on the person of a laborer, attempts to deprive him of his property by fraudulent contract can be punished only in your state courts. Foreign nations, therefore, are absolutely obliged to protect their citizens before they leave the fatherland, and the only way to protect them is to warn them that there are certain parts of the United States where they must go at their own risk.

"Thus far we have put the ban on Mississippi only, but there are plenty of similar reports from other states, and unless conditions improve greatly it will become necessary for my government to warn its citizens against the south generally, and this action is likely to be followed by other countries of Europe."

Italians Complain of Cruelty.

Baron Mayor des Planches, Italian ambassador, will return to Washington in a day or two. The first thing which will require his attention will be protests received from Italian immigrants who have settled in Mississippi.

Aside from the peonage cases, in which a few indictments have been brought, there are many cases already presented to the state department involving cruel and unusual treatment of Italians in Mississippi, which the local authorities have absolutely refused to give redress.

Many more fortunate Italians have already begun to leave that state, but others are held there by means of the infamous imprisonment for debt statute in Mississippi, by means of which a farm laborer or tenant can be brought back by force and either compelled to work out his indebtedness or be sent to the chain gang.

One of the most horrible cases happened in the little town of Sumrall, Miss., a few days ago. It grew out of the school question, which was practically identical with that presented in the case of the Japanese at San Francisco, except that all of the Italian pupils were of proper school age.

Desire to Learn Dangerous.

When the Italian children went to the public school there was an outcry from the white families of the neighborhood, although most of these white people are ignorant and poverty stricken.

They demanded that the Italian children should be driven out of the school. The principal did not see his way clear to do that, although he was entirely in sympathy with the native element.

He accordingly referred the matter to the attorney general of the state, and that official, in an extraordinary opinion publicly delivered, declared that while he sympathized heartily with the attempt to keep the Italians out of school, there was no law by which they could be excluded.

Within a day or two after the decision of the attorney general, Frank Sciagaleo, a poor Italian who had been somewhat prominent in expressing his desire that the children of his countrymen should have the benefit of an education, was met on the streets of the village by a crowd of local white citizens who made no attempt to conceal their identity.

Cripple Is Victim of Mob.

Frank was a cripple, having lost one of his feet, leaving a partly healed stump between the ankle and the knee. The crowd caught him unawares, threw a rope about his neck, dragged him to the outskirts of the town, and there gave him a terrific beating, whacking him repeatedly on the stump of his amputated leg, and winding up with personal indignities of a character too horrible to be printed. He was warned that the same punishment would be measured out to any other Italian who sent his child to the public school.

The manager of the lumber company protested, of course, and a deputy sheriff was sent to make an investigation. No one has been punished for the outrage, however, and probably no one will be.

Representations were made to the state authorities as usual. Also, as usual, Secretary Root and the department of state have been compelled to subject themselves to the humiliation of confessing to the representative of a friendly European power that the United States as a nation is unable to protect citizens of a foreign country, even though they come here with the full intention of becoming citizens of the United States.
